Latest New Fangled Death.
A 17 Ounce Baby.
Don't Forget Napoleon.
Unemployed Gold Rush.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

WHEN Mr. R. H. WHITE, a Nevada gambler, arrived early yesterday in the other world, and was asked now he died, he probably answered: "I don't know. I was unconscious at the time."

Before 5 a. m. he was taken to an airtight room nine feet long, eight feet wide, seven feet high, made of stone, and there strapped into a chair.

He smiled and nodded his head at witnesses looking through a little window on the outside. They included two women, nurses.

BEFORE HIM STOOD a two-gallon jar containing a quart of sulphuric acid and a half-gallon of water.

Pulling a string in another room caused a quantity of cyanide of potassium to fall into the acid solution.

Then the gas rose. White smiled again, breathed deeply three times, and was dead. While waiting to be executed, after his conviction of murder, on circumstantial evidence, White was employed in the prison building the stone room in which he died.

When they asked him what he wanted for breakfast he replied: "A gas mask." He refused the traditional ham and eggs that murderers usually select.

MR. AND MRS. WILL A. HAMBY, of Simpsonville, N. C., have a girl baby, three days old. She weighed at birth, 17 ounces. Her father feeds her with a medicine dropper and is building an incubator box to keep her warm.

THAT INTERESTS every woman in the wide world. They are interested, also, in the fact that every mother bear, even big bears weighing 1,000 pounds, have tiny babies that bother them not at all. They are born while the mother bear is asleep, hibernating.

Some day, science will find a way to modify Eve's severe sentence and make childbirth painless. Small babies, like Mrs. Hamby's, would help, as they help the bears.

FRENCH NEWSPAPERS applaud Tardieu's answer to Mussolini, that does not mention the Italian's name. "France is in a position which frees us from the need to fear or to boast."

French history since Charlemagne justifies the statement. But there have been disquieting intervals as when the imitation Napoleon III thought he could beat Bismarck without army or generals.

MUSSOLINI MIGHT have replied that a great part of the glory of France is based on the fact that an Italian boy, born in Corsica, once went to a French military school and took his Frenchmen parading all over Europe, under the eagles of Napoleon.

NEW SOUTH WALES reports a new method of dealing with unemployment.

The government encourages men to start gold hunting, supplying camping outfits and tools and geological surveyors to direct the prospectors.

If this government took up that idea there would be many volunteers. Hunting for gold is a pleasure in itself, even if you don't find any. Men are born gamblers.

THE METROPOLITAN LIFE Insurance Company reports fewer deaths from consumption among policy holders this year than ever before.

This is due in part to prosperous years. Men, women and children well fed, with leisure for exercise and breathing, are less prone to consumption.

Mr. Frederick H. Ecker, the president of Metropolitan Life, is to be congratulated upon the energy with which his company spreads health information and warnings through advertising. That saves the lives of many policy holders and saves the company's money.

YOU READ THAT MR. GRUNDY spent much money, trying to be nominated for senator in Pennsylvania, and failed. Mr. Davis, good labor man, passionate friend of the common people, beat Mr. Grundy and will be the next Republican senator undoubtedly. Everybody said: "How pleasing to see victory for the rugged forces of labor and honesty."

Then, yesterday, you had to read that the Davis-Brown fund, which nominated Mr. Davis for the Senate, but didn't nominate Mr. Brown for governor, amounted to $367,450, more than all the money that Mr. Grundy spent on his failure.

KING GEORGE in announcing his birthday honors yesterday gave away various things more precious than cash.

He made Sir Esme Howard, recently ambassador in Washington, a baron. Sir Esme's eldest son, student at the Newman School at Lakewood, N. J., will inherit the title and a seat in the House of Lords as will his children indefinitely.

THE KING GAVE Miss Amy Johnson, 23-year-old girl who flew alone from England to Australia, the title of "Empire Commander." That will make her happy, and it costs nothing.

The King with a touch on the back can make you a knight, and your wife "my lady." Very soothing.

He can bestow titles all the way up to a duke, then make a duke supremely happy by making him a "Knight of the Garter."

Some queer Britishers, like Gladstone, refused titles.

WARN BISHOP AFTER DEFY IN QUIZ

Churchman Refuses to Tell Lobby Probers About His Part in Anti-Smith Fight

WASHINGTON, June 3.—(AP.)—Bishop James Cannon, Jr., today flatly declined, before the Senate Lobby Committee, to answer a question about his political activities in the 1928 presidential campaign.

Senator Walsh, of Montana, warned the bishop that he must take all responsibility for refusal to answer questions.

For more than two hours Walsh and Senator Blaine (Rep.), Wisconsin, the only members of the committee present, had questioned Cannon about his relations to various temperance organizations.

The bishop had answered freely so long as the questions related to the temperance organizations, but when asked about the Asheville anti-Smith conference he first read a statement of protest, then flatly declined to answer.

SOME PUNISHED

Walsh did not immediately indicate what further action he might take. In the past some of the witnesses who have refused to answer to Senate committees have been adjudged in contempt of the Senate and punished in various ways.

When the questioning verged to the 1929 campaign, Cannon said:

"This attempt on the part of this committee to go beyond its powers and to investigate my anti-Smith activities is clearly not only political but personal, and because I believe it to be an effort to attack me and in some way to impair my influence, as the wet and Roman Catholic press have been doing for nearly two years, I must decline to

BLUE LAW VOTE TOTAL HIGH

More than one-third of the postcard ballots mailed to registered voters of the 32 wards of Pittsburgh in the Blue Law poll by the Sun-Telegraph have been returned to date. This proportion of returns alone constitutes an exceptional response, and the canvass is continuing. The marked public interest in the poll manifested by city voters is already in evidence among voters in the remainder of the county to which the poll has been extended.

Returns from city voters now total 33,760, divided as follows:

For the Blue Laws	4,833
For modification	2,474
For repeal	26,453

This represents a radio of 5.5 voters favoring repeal to each

ZEP SETTING FAST PACE AT SEA

Soon Covers 1,000 Miles on Dash to Seville; Due There Late Tomorrow Night

International News Service.

NEW YORK, June 3.—Making fast time on its return trip to Friedrichshafen, the German dirigible Graf Zeppelin had covered approximately 1,000 miles of the long journey from Lakehurst, N. J., at 10 a. m. today (Pittsburgh time), according to a wireless message from the ship received by the Hamburg American Line here.

At that hour the Graf's position was 40.18 north latitude, 57.30 west longitude. This position was almost due east of New York.

LAKEHURST, N. J., June 3.—Carrying 22 passengers and a crew of 44, the Graf Zeppelin streaked over the North Atlantic today toward Seville, Spain, on the final stretch of her homeward journey to Friedrichshafen, Germany.

The Graf, favored by a strong tail wind, is due in Seville late tomorrow night. Just before the take-off from Lakehurst at 10:12 last night, Commander Hugo Eckener estimated the Zeppelin would reach Seville in 50 hours.

A two-hour stop will be made there and eight passengers and the mail discharged. Then the giant dirigible will start on the 20-hour trip to the home port, Friedrichshafen.

BONITZ MONIES FACE INQUIRY

WASHINGTON, June 3.—(AP.)—The investigation into the Republican primary senatorial campaign, which has recessed until July, has developed the following aspects, which Chairman Nye and his associates consider significant:

1—They are convinced the campaign was unattended by corruption;

2—That, based on previous Pennsylvania campaigns and compared to elections in other states, it was economically conducted;

3—That Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, who won the senatorial nomination, "has an excellent chance to serve in the Senate."

One conclusion the committee has reached is that no report will be filed during the present special session of Congress which prob-

ABOARD THE GRAF ZEPPELIN, en route to Friedrichshafen, via Seville, June 3.—Excitement and adventure are in the air.

We are sailing on a magic ship betwixt heaven and earth, and the wonder of it all has become a part of us.

Such was the almost unanimous experience of those of the 22 passengers who had never before boarded an airship, when the Graf Zeppelin rose above the Lakehurst (N. J.) Naval Air Station at 10:12 o'clock last evening.

It was as though we were in Europe crossing a border. And what border might we not cross on this flight? Who can tell what gift or trial destiny holds in her palm? These were the thoughts running through my mind.

Over the other passengers, as they climbed aboard, there seemed to pass a tremulo—a slight tensing in the tempo of their gestures and voices that revealed their anticipated the unusual.

In a few minutes the huge dirigible, object of all this mystery, gleamed in the fading light of the searchlights that stroked its silver side.

GATE OPENED TO SPARE HOSTAGE

2 Guards Overcome; Liberty Spurned by 131; Posse on Trail of Michigan Fugitives

International News Service.

IONIA, Mich., June 3.—Eleven criminally insane prisoners—including five slayers—escaped today from the State Hospital here, all armed with knives and razors. Thirteen made a dash for freedom, but two were recaptured soon afterward.

The men escaped after threatening to kill the night superintendent, Eugene Owen, whom they had captured.

They disappeared and no trace of the 11 has been found, despite wide search by hospital and reformatory authorities.

State police, sheriffs' deputies, village police and a posse of citizens have joined in the hunt. The entire countryside is an armed camp.

The prisoners, confined in a dormitory block in No. 3 building, displayed cunning in their escape. One called to the night guards patroling the building:

"Some of the fellows in here are sawing away the bars. You better come in and stop them."

WENT AFTER OWEN

U. S. Davis and Bert Hall, the guards, summoned Owen, as there is a hospital regulation forbidding guards to enter a dormitory block without the authority of a hospital official.

Owen came running. He and two guards then unlocked the dormitory block and entered.

They were overpowered by the 13 madmen. Their keys were taken and the prisoners locked them in the dormitory.

Then the felons unlocked the doors of four other dormitory blocks in the building, containing

LAYS OUTBREAK TO CROWDING

IONIA, Mich., June 3.—(INS.)—Inadequate facilities at the Ionia State Hospital for the criminally insane were blamed today by Dr. B. C. Robertson, hospital superintendent, as the cause for the escape of 13 convicts here early today, two of whom were recaptured immediately afterward.

"Each man should be put in a separate cell," he said. "But lack of facilities makes it necessary to house most of them in dormitories. Twenty-five per cent of the men here have committed murder and 18 per cent have attempted to do so."

Dr. Robertson commended Warden Eugene Owen for permitting the convicts to escape rather than to incite a possible riot.

NEW YORK, June 3.—(AP.)—In order that Catholic Indians at Palm Springs, Cal., can worship in comfort without crowding by movie folk! Al Jolson has provided funds for a tourist church there. The gift was revealed by Ruby Keeler, his wife, who has often been accompanied by him to the Indian church.

Celebrate King's Birthday Despite His Absence

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service.

LONDON, June 3.—With King George absent for the second year in succession, the colorful ceremony of trooping the colors was held on the Horse Guards' parade today in honor of His Majesty's sixty-fifth birthday. An attack of rheumatism kept the King from attending. In 1929 he still was convalescent after the grave illness which nearly cost his life.

The Prince of Wales, heir apparent to the throne, deputized for his father. Thousands, including many American visitors, packed the parade to witness the spectacle.

The Prince led a brilliant procession of high army officers, state officials and military attaches of foreign powers, to the accompaniment of a salute from guns in the royal parks.

The Foot Guards stood in double lines for two blocks, dressed in their traditional black bearskin hats, vivid red tunics and white accoutrements. Also were drawn up two troops of cavalry, in steel breastplates and helmets, with red and white plumes.

After the Prince and his escort had taken their positions, the colors were trooped—borne at slow march all along the lines, to the accompaniment of martial music.

The ceremony ended with the playing of "God Save the King."

REVOLT IN HOUSE THREATENS DEFEAT OF TARIFF MEASURE

LEADERS SEE LONG FIGHT RENEWED

Prospect of Bill's Passage By June 16 Wanes, With Administration Force Split

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON,
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—While professing confidence in their program for enacting the tariff bill by June 16, administration leaders on Capitol Hill are plainly worried over signs of revolt in both House and Senate.

The usually pliable House, whipped into line times immemorial for administration measures, has shown evidence of growing opposition. In the Senate, leaders of the Democrat-Insurgent coalition declare the vote on the bill will be close and see a possibility the measure may be rejected.

HOUSE REVOLT WORRIES

The House is the administration's chief worry. Although the archaic rules give a few leaders tremendous power, the administration must command a majority vote at all times to enforce its will. There is just a hint the usual majority may disappear when the tariff bill reaches the lower branch of Congress.

Representative "Jack" Garner, the fast-thinking Democratic floor leader, will lead the fight against the bill. It is reported that Garner plans to force a series of record votes on various items, by merely proposing to issue new instructions to the House conferees.

Under the rules, Garner can make these motions undisturbed and each will require a record roll-call. If administration leaders fail to command a majority in any of these votes, the tariff measure would again be returned to conference.

DEMOCRATS SKEPTICAL

Senator Watson (Rep.), of Indiana, the majority leader, continues to predict passage of the bill by June 16. Democratic leaders, however, assert Watson is whistling to keep up his courage.

In the Senate, the tariff report was divided into two sections, with debate already started on the second, with its abandonment of the debenture and revival of the flexible tariff clause. Democrats predict the debate will last all week.

Senator Borah (Rep.), of Idaho, one-time Hoover supporter who has broken with the President, was to lead a fight against the bill because the debenture was abandoned. It was Borah who insisted President Hoover summon a special session of Congress, early last year, to provide agricultural relief.

PINCHOT ALONE FIGHTS MARTIN

HARRISBURG, June 2.—(AP.)—Formal announcement of his candidacy for re-election as chairman of the Republican State Committee was momentarily expected of State Treasurer Edward Martin.

Martin prefaced his return to the capital after a week-end at his home in Washington, Pa., with a statement to the effect that all Republican nominees for statewide office with the exception of Gifford Pinchot, winner of the gubernatorial nomination on the face of returns, have urged him to run again.

A declaration by Martin of his intention to run for another two years as chairman would bring about a renewal of the bitter civil strife of the various factions of the party which were fought out at the primary election May 20, which resulted in the apparent nomination of Pinchot and the entire Davis-Brown ticket with exception of Francis Shunk Brown, Pinchot's opponent for the gubernatorial place.

Without naming Martin, who was active in Brown's behalf, Pinchot has served notice of war at the re-organization meeting of the Republican Committee at Philadelphia next Saturday.

Mary Hay Sued For Leaving Show

NEW YORK, June 3.—(AP.)—A $50,000 damage suit against Mary Hay, musical comedy actress and former wife of Richard Barthelmess, motion picture actor, was brought to light in Supreme Court. The plaintiff, the "U Don't Say Company, Inc.," charged that Miss Hay left a show entitled "You Don't Say" without proper notice. She has filed a motion to require the company to submit its complaint to the American Arbitration Association for adjustment. She declares she gave proper notice.

MALONE, KLINE VIE IN WARDS

Political forces of Mayor Charles H. Kline and James F. Malone, former president of Council, will clash tomorrow night when ward chairmen in the 32 wards of the city are elected.

The hardest fight will be in the Fifth Ward, where 9,636 voters are registered, long the stronghold of Malone, whose chairman has been James C. Smith. Malone will seek for the chairmanship tomorrow night.

The entire county, however, is divided on the two leaders, the gap having been widened in September, when Kline's edict of "to the victor belongs the spoils," meant the dropping from payrolls, or demotion, to many Malone followers. Smith, Malone's Fifth Ward chairman, who was secretary of the Civil Service Commission, was deposed as a result of the edict.

Gray told her that the court would dispense with her services during the case being tried, a damage suit against the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The case proceeded with only 11 jurors.

COAL MEN SEEK INDUSTRY ILLS

Solution to the coal industry ills was sought today by the American Coal Wholesalers' Association in annual executive session at the William Penn Hotel.

NEW SHOOTING SPURS HUNT FOR GANGS

Another Believed Slain in Chicago Warfare; 150 Men Jailed in Police Roundup

International News Service.

CHICAGO, June 3.—Authorities today combed the North Side beer domain of George (Bugs) Moran in search of the body of another supposed "ride" victim after 12 shots were heard in an alley in the rear of the Belmont Hotel.

Two men heard the shots and saw the flashes of revolvers. Immediately afterward an automobile raced past a traffic policeman who said he saw the form of a man, minus hat and coat, slumped beside the driver.

Police believed this is the seventh man to be slain in the new outbreak between the Moran and "Scarface" Al Capone gangs.

ROUNDUPS NET 150

Instituting emergency means to curb the gang war for supremacy, police had in custody 150 gangsters, hoodlums and gunmen after one of the most sweeping night roundups in Chicago's criminal history.

Driven by fear that Sunday's massacre of three Capone men at a Fox Lake summer resort would bring a wave of deadly reprisals, police squads combed the gang haunts and hoodlum points of rendezvous with the result that scores were seized and grilled. Many carried guns.

The main characters seized were three lieutenants in the Capone organization. They were "Machine Gun" Jack McGurn, who was indicted for the St. Valentine's Day massacre of six Moran gangsters; Frankie Foster and Israel Adelman.

MAY DEPORT SUSPECTS

Immigration inspectors were to question many of those seized in the all-night raids. Thirty-two of those seized were Sicilians and may be deported, according to John Stege, chief of detectives. Three of the Sicilians carried revolvers when arrested.

DETROIT, June 3.—(AP.)—Police throughout the Detroit area stood ready to cope with a renewal of the gangster warfare which broke out Saturday resulting in the slaying of five over the week-end.

CLUB LEGATES REACH DENVER

DENVER, June 3.—(INS.)—Woman's sphere of activity in all human relations will be outlined and explained here during the next two weeks, according to the vanguard of 10,000 delegates to the twentieth biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs arriving here today.

Formal sessions of the convention will open Thursday and continue through June 14.

The organization is composed of 14,000 women's clubs with a total membership of 3,000,000.

Many heated discussions are anticipated before final adoption of the program of several committees, including the resolutions committee. The latter, it was indicated today, would attempt to place the huge women's organization on record as strongly in favor of the Volstead law.

Another resolution, it was said, will condemn the sacrifice of "live" music in the home and theater.

The London naval treaty will come up for consideration, with a resolutions committee report favoring its acceptance by the United States.

The women will be asked to support a movement for the naming of a peak in the Colorado Rockies after Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

HOOVER PAT ON PENSION BILL VETO

Still Believes Bill Unwise Despite Congress Action, Which Repasses Measure

WASHINGTON, June 3.—(AP.)—President Hoover said today he had not changed his opinion that the Spanish-American veterans' pension bill, enacted by Congress over his veto yesterday, was unwise.

The President said:

"I favored a liberalization of the Spanish War veteran pensions because they have not been on a parity with other services, but I have not changed my opinion that it should have been worked out in such a way that rich men, or men having substantial incomes, should not draw pensions from the government.

FAVORED NO PAUPERISM

"I have made no suggestion at any time of a pauper provision against veterans, or anything akin thereto.

"I do not believe we should alter the principles which have been held for civil war veterans all these 70 years, requiring that men claiming pensions should have at least 90 days' service.

"Further than this, I do not believe it is right to change our national policy and to call upon the nation to pay disability allowances to men who have or who may tomorrow destroy their health by vicious habits.

"I have received numerous communications from veterans supporting these views."

Authorizing a more liberal pensions basis, the law benefits approximately 114,000 veterans of the Spanish-American War, the Philippine insurrection and the China relief expedition.

COSTS $11,500,000 YEAR

It will cost the government approximately $11,500,000 annually.

It provides higher rates for those who served 90 days during the Spanish war, or less than 90 days with a discharge for disability incurred in line of duty.

The disability rates range from $20 a month for veterans one-tenth disabled to $60 for total disabilities.

When a veteran requires a regular attendant, he would receive $72 a month.

The rates of pension based on age provide $30 a month when the veteran is 62, $40 at 68, $50 at 72 and $60 at 75.

Judge Scores City Act, Orders Prisoner Freed

The city has an ordinance governing the sentencing of prisoners by magistrates but nobody knows what it's all about.

Judge James B. Drew made this criticism today in ordering the release of Frank Molnar, of 213 Grant street, sentenced to pay a fine of $50 or serve 30 days in the workhouse, by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg, on a suspicious person charge. Molnar could not pay the fine and went to the workhouse.

Molnar's attorney, George A. Varady, appeared before Judge Drew today and presented a petition seeking a writ of habeas corpus to release Molnar on the ground that the magistrate's sentence had been excessive.

Declaring that the city ordinance governing the sentencing of prisoners by magistrates was incomprehensible, Judge Drew refused to go into a hearing and ordered Molnar's release.

12 Unsigned Love Letters May Break Actress' Will

NEW YORK, June 3.—(AP.)—Twelve ardently-phrased letters were in evidence today in the contest over the will of Anna Christine Norman Booth, actress, to support the contention of her husband and mother that she was unduly influenced when she willed John Hayden, Sr., $40,000 and cut them off without a cent.

Arthur Garfield Hays, attorney for the estate, when questioned about allowing the letters to be placed in evidence, said that Hayden had been in love with the actress between 1925 and 1926, but that it had been of a platonic nature. Miss Booth in 1925 filed a suit for divorce against Enos Booth, New York [illegible] was refused.

BRITISH ROUT MOB ATTEMPTING TO FREE SALT RAIDERS

FOIL ATTACK ON PRISON CAMP

Dozen Injured in Melee; Lid Clamped on Tightly To Safeguard Khyber Pass

International News Service.

LONDON, June 3.—Twelve Indian Nationalists were injured at Worli today when a mob attempted to release volunteers under arrest for salt raids, according to a Central News dispatch from Bombay.

The raiders were interned at the Worli prison camp. Police charged the mob and troops were summoned to the scene. The situation was described as menacing.

WOMEN START FRACAS

Women from the mill area nearby precipitated the encounter when they attempted to interfere with the work of the soldiers. They were forcibly removed.

The incident so enraged the volunteers that they made an immediate rush for the entanglements. There were 1,000 within the enclosure. The volunteers were put back in their quarters, but as this was going on a soldier's helmet was knocked off. This was the signal for general confusion. Police made several charges with their bamboo sticks, inflicting extensive casualties.

A company of the Nineteenth Hyderabad Regiment went to Worli and restored order.

CLAMP LID ON RIOT ZONE

BOMBAY, June 3.—(INS.)—Britain's crack troops today clamped down on the Khyber Pass, principal gateway to the far-flung northwestern frontier.

A triple threat existed in the Peshawar area — Communist-Nationalist agitation, Moslem-Hindu rioting and the raiding Afridi tribesmen of the Northwest mountain pass.

Dispatches from Peshawar said martial law virtually was in effect there after riots in which seven had been killed and nine wounded.

EXTEND THEIR CONTROL

British forces extended their control to the neighboring towns of Charsadda and Prang, where eight Communist agitators were arrested. They had been urging the Moslems to join the Hindu Nationalists in their efforts to gain independence for India. The fierce class and religious hatred between the Mohammedans and the Hindus has made results difficult for the agitators to obtain, however.

A Moslem was killed in rioting at Koshalikan when a group of Moslems refused to participate in boycott demonstrations, according to an Allahabad dispatch. Four policemen were wounded.

VOTE NOT TO PAY TAXES

Jambuser, near Bombay, was the scene of a meeting of representatives from nearly 70 Indian villages, who voted unanimously not to pay land taxes to the British Indian Government.

Many interpreted this as a definite move to take the civil disobedience campaign out of mere salt-raiding activities and into direct action for effective economic pressure against the government.

The Bardoli district has been chosen as the theater for this revolt, when government collectors begin their annual rounds June 15.

The authorities are warning the inhabitants that land forfeiture will follow non-payment of taxes.

MEXICAN PLANS NON-STOP HOP

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., June 3.—(AP.)—Col. Roberto Fierro, Mexican aviator, said he would take off from here tomorrow for New York, making the flight in one hop if possible, and after remaining in New York a few days would attempt a non-stop flight from there to Mexico City.

Col. Fierro landed at Winburn Field here shortly before noon today, dispelling fears felt for his safety after he had failed to put in an earlier appearance on his flight from Burbank, Cal., where he took off Sunday morning. Because of a leaky connection his gas supply gave out, and the Mexican flier made a forced landing on a ranch 30 miles southwest of San Antonio, Tex.

Ollie B. Page, rancher and the unexpected host last night to the famous Mexican aviator, said Col. Fierro coasted to earth at about the only place within 10 miles that he could have landed safely.

ZEP SPEEDING FOR SEVILLE

to Seville is 5,100 nautical miles—5,800 statute miles.

Cheers went up from the 1,000 spectators as the Graf, her silvery flanks glinting in the rays of a quarter moon, soared majestically into the star-studded night and turned her blunt nose toward New York City over which she passed half an hour later. The big ship then sped onward, in a northeasterly direction, before finally passing out to sea.

MAKES FINE GETAWAY

The getaway from Lakehurst was accomplished without an untoward incident. There was a waving of handkerchiefs and hats from the brilliantly lit cabin of the dirigible as the air liner departed, and vociferous cheering from the spectators, who stood massed behind ropes on the field surrounding the hangar. Shouts of "Good luck" and "Bon voyage" were drowned out by the mighty roar of the Graf's engines as she got away into the night.

Passengers aboard the Graf on her flight to Seville include Sir Hubert Wilkins, explorer and writer, and Mrs. Wilkins. Also on the ship are Mr. and Mrs. John H. Greaves, who are going to Oberammergau for the Passion Play. They also plan a flight to the North Cape in the Zeppelin this summer.

OHIOANS ARE PASSENGERS

Others on board include Burton Preston, of Mansfield, O., importer of German monuments. Another passenger from Ohio is Mrs. Charles B. Parker, of Cleveland, who made the flight from Lakehurst to Friedrichshafen last year. She received word only Sunday afternoon that she would be accepted as a passenger and took a train immediately for Lakehurst.

Fred M. Harpham, a vice president of the Goodyear Zeppelin Company, of Akron, O., also is on board.

BONITZ MONIES FACE INQUIRY

ably will adjourn in a couple of weeks.

SCAN BONITZ FUND

While in Pittsburgh for some other Pennsylvania city Chairman Nye indicated the committee will attempt to learn what prompted Walter A. Bonitz, Pittsburgh brick manufacturer, to contribute between $86,500 and $96,750 to the Davis-Brown campaign fund.

It was learned the committee at this time is not inclined to allocate any amount of the $362,000 expended by the Davis-Brown ticket to the personal campaign account of Secretary Davis, who testified he personally spent $10,541. The committee, it is understood, has taken the position that if Secretary Davis had not been a candidate as much money would have been spent on the rest of the ticket.

The committee, authoritative information disclosed, plans to submit a statistical report to the Senate and to permit individual members to determine what fractional part, if any, should be charged to Secretary Davis.

TO QUIZ ARMSTRONG

Chairman Nye explained the temporary cessation of the Pennsylvania inquiry by saying testimony already submitted presents a fairly accurate picture of the contest.

The committee, the chairman asserted, will devote the remainder of June to an inquiry in Illinois, where Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick spent approximately $237,000 to win the Republican senatorial nomination from Senator Charles S. Deneen. Hearings he said, will be held in Illinois and when they are concluded, it is probable that en route to Washington the committee will stop in Pittsburgh to question Joseph G. Armstrong, who was excused yesterday from testifying here. Armstrong, chairman of the County Commissioners, is also chairman of the Allegheny County Republican Committee, and a Brown-Davis leader.

Bonitz Says Fund Was for Full Ticket

Contributions aggregating $96,750 to the Davis-Brown campaign by Walter A. Bonitz, Pittsburgh firebrick manufacturer, were for all candidates on the ticket and were not given for any individual candidate, Bonitz stated today.

He said that he made the contributions as reported and that he has nothing to add to the information given the Senate committee.

"The facts speak for themselves," he said.

"I made these contributions and they were made for the full ticket," Bonitz declared. "If the committee sees fit to ask me to attend hearings in Washington I will be glad to comply with its request."

FRIEND OF BROWN

Bonitz was formerly head of the Brick Manufacturers' Association of the United States and is a friend of Francis Shunk Brown, defeated gubernatorial aspirant. Associates estimate his wealth to be millions.

Although always in the background politically, he is said to have frequently contributed substantial amounts to campaign funds.

He is reputed to have contributed heavily to the campaign fund of James F. Malone, candidate for mayor, last fall.

Bonitz issued the following formal statement today:

"I am only reluctant in discussing this because of the consideration and courtesy that I think is due the Nye committee in Washington, because I think they are the ones that first are entitled to have any information on this subject. Otherwise I have no hesitancy in developing my participation in the recent Republican primary for the entire Davis-Brown ticket.

HELP FAILED

"The statement made by Mr. Blakley before the committee yesterday was complete and correct. I entered the primary for the entire ticket with a certain commitment of a financial nature. For the fulfilling of that commitment, I counted on help that for various reasons was not forthcoming, and in the very late days of the primaries I felt that it was incumbent upon me, having committed myself, to fulfill my commitment to the extent that I personally was able. That I did.

"I am unfamiliar with politics, but do have the interest that I think all citizens should have to see it on as high a plane as possible and have always been strongly committed to the eradication of doubtful practices which do not lend themselves toward inspiring confidence in the public at large."

FIRM TO BUILD STEEL PLANT

CHICAGO, June 3.—(INS)—Construction of a steel plant costing between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000 on a 1,000-acre tract of land in the Indiana dunes region bordering Lake Michigan was announced here by the Midwest Steel Company, a newly-formed Indiana corporation. The new company is a wholly owned subsidiary of the National Steel Corporation of Pittsburgh.

Actual erection of the mill will be preceded by reclamation work according to Ernest T. Weir, chairman of the board of directors of both companies. The plant will include blast furnaces and finishing mills. Exact location of the tract and further details of the mill will be announced at a later date, Weir declared.

BOARD FINISHES BALLOT COUNT — BLUE LAW VOTE TOTALS HIGH

The Returning Board, occupied in counting ballots of the recent election, completed its work at noon today, and the County Commissioners passed a resolution certifying the election of the state committeemen, who meet Saturday.

The Commissioners will not act on the other candidates until the five-day period provided by law elapses.

The county solicitor was to determine whether the Commissioners' action in passing the partial certification resolution was legal.

Commissioner C. C. McGovern voted for the certification of the state committeemen only on condition that the county solicitor render a written opinion of the legality of a partial certification.

voter supporting the Blue Laws. The percentages of the total are 79 per cent for repeal, 14 per cent for the Blue Laws and 7 per cent for modification.

The division of the totals between men and women is as follows: For the Blue Laws, 2,537 men and 2,296 women; for modification, 1,471 men and 1,003 women; for repeal, 17,541 men and 8,912 women.

Tabulation of ballots for the day, aggregating 1,003, shows this division: For the Blue Laws, 153; for modification, 74; for repeal, 776.

Carnegie is included in the poll of the county with the distribution of ballots today. The borough of East McKeesport is also embraced in the poll in connection with the canvass of McKeesport, where additional wards will receive ballots today.

11 FELONS FLEE INSANE ASYLUM

TAKEN AS HOSTAGE

Taking Owen along as hostage, the 13 rushed to the main gate of the hospital, pausing to cut all telephone wires.

At the gate, two of the prisoners held razors against Owen's throat. They told the guard on duty there to unlock the gate or they would kill the night superintendent.

The gate was opened. They then left Owen behind and fled into the darkness.

Because of the slashed telephone wires, Dr. P. C. Robertson, superintendent of the hospital, was delayed in sounding an alarm. He ordered all available guards out to start the search immediately and dispatched a messenger to Sheriff William Franch.

Franch told all his deputies to join in the search, also notified the state reformatory here and the state police post in East Lansing. Police in all surrounding towns likewise were notified.

In less than an hour, more than 100 men were combing the countryside.

Dr. Robertson was surprised that none of the 131 other prisoners in No. 3 building attempted to escape. While inspecting the building after the break, he asked one why he hadn't fled. The reply was:

"Why, Doc, I'm afraid of those guys. I don't know what they would do with me if they got hold of me."

Judge Drew Spends $5,890 in Campaign

HARRISBURG, June 3.—Judge James B. Drew, of Pittsburgh, one of the successful Republican nominees for the Superior Court, spent $5,890.82 in his campaign expense account filed today with the State Election Bureau, revealed. The judge did not receive any contributions. Charles F. Armstrong, of Kittanning, former member of the House, who ran for lieutenant governor, supporting Pinchot, spent $77.61 in the campaign for printing. He received no contributions.

2 Persons Missing, Police Aid Sought

WARN BISHOP AFTER DEFI

admit the jurisdiction of this committee over either my political or personal activities."

The prepared statement in which he voiced his objection did not touch directly on the charges before the committee that he failed to properly report the expenditures of the anti-Smith organization.

QUOTES THE LAW

The statement quoted the law, but the bishop explained:

"A lawyer didn't prepare this, —I did it."

"It sounds very lawyer-like," observed Senator Walsh, of Montana.

"I read this objection for the committee to consider," said the bishop. "I ask the committee to decide it."

"We have investigated again and again individuals interested in certain legislation who have gone into various fields to seek the election of men favorable to that legislation," said Walsh.

"No, Senator, this interrogation of me is not on all fours with the committee's other investigations."

Walsh recalled that Cannon told the Dallas Methodist conference no money of the board was used by him in the anti-Smith campaign.

"Is that true?"

"Well, yes. Yes it is. Dr. Crawford did loan me $300 to pay for the printing and mailing of circulars prior to the Asheville conference."

REPAID LOANS

He paid back the $300 loan from Dr. Crawford, he said, by paying for the distribution of a speech of his own, entitled "Prohibition Repeal Unthinkable."

"This is a little confusing," remarked Walsh.

"How so?" demanded Cannon. "It was nothing but a cross entry in the books."

"The fact is, no money was exchanged," asserted Walsh.

"No, perhaps not."

"What expense on your own account did you incur?"

"Not much. It was paid for by the various organizations which used the pamphlets largely."

WARNED BY WALSH

Senator Walsh in adjourning the committee informed the bishop that "of course you will have to take the responsibility" for declining to answer.

Cannon replied the committee's investigation of him was "persecution."

This stirred the crowded committee room into laughter, applause and hisses.

"I cannot help but get the implication in that statement," said Walsh.

Cannon hastily replied:

"I do not charge you, Senator, with persecution."

Cannon declined to say what he would do if the committee ruled he had to answer.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—(AP.)—The Senate yesterday passed and sent to the House a bill by Senator Dill (Dem.) of Washington, to provide that a complete defense in patent infringement suits shall consist in proof that the complainant is a party to the use of the patent in a manner tending to create monopoly.

PRISON LABOR PUZZLE STUDIED

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., June 3.—(AP.)—Representatives of 14 states, called in conference on impending curtailment of traffic in products of prison labor, adjourned today after calling upon the remainder of the states in the union to organize to seek a solution of prison labor difficulties brought by adoption of the Hawes-Cooper bill limiting such products in interstate commerce. The bill becomes effective in 1934.

A scheduled inspection of the Federal Prison for Women at Alderson, W. Va., was canceled.

The conference instructed Gov. William C. Conley, of West Virginia, to present its plea for cooperation to the annual governors' conference at Salt Lake City, June 30, and Dr. Walter N. Thayer, vice president of the conference and superintendent of prison of Maryland, to present the conference views to the national social workers' convention at Boston, June 14.

Rags, Gems Vie as British Labor Women Meet

LONDON, June 3.—(AP.)—Labor Party women from all parts of England gathered today to review their party's year in office which closes on June 7.

About 1,200 delegates and 1,500 visitors crowded Kingsway Hall for the annual national conference of Labor Women.

Poorly dressed charwomen sat next to wealthy titled women who have espoused labor's cause and listened attentively to a message of greeting from Prime Minister MacDonald, who called upon them to support the government's policies, particularly that on unemployment. He said:

"We are facing unemployment which, owing to world causes, certainly is not only increased in volume, but is changed in its very nature. It is a time when the government requires the understanding and support of the people of the country and I appeal to you to do all in your power to strengthen our hands."

PRESBYTERIANS' SCAN JUDICIAL PROPOSAL

Assembly Weighs Plan to Avert Litigation and Schisms in Church Body

CINCINNATI, June 3.—(AP.)—A plan to reorganize the judicial commission of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. to prevent schisms minimize litigation involving ministers and members, and to insure justice within the church was placed before the one hundred and forty-second general assembly today.

The plan was in the nature of an overture to amend the book of orders under which the judicial commission was established.

CHURCH'S SUPREME COURT

This body is the supreme court of the Presbyterian Church which hears judicial cases in executive session, and brings decisions to the general assembly for final action.

As compared with the machinery which it now exists, the judicial commission will be made permanent if the overture is approved.

Members of the committee will be nominated to the assembly and the nominees will be presented to the presbyteries for election.

TO SUBMIT OVERTURE

An overture submitted by the Presbytery of Los Angeles was authorized for submission to all other Presbyteries declaring it the belief of the church that an unwillingness to bear arms should not be construed as a test of citizenship.

All the other resolutions were adopted. Several of them definitely placed the Northern Presbyterian Church on record as favoring proper enlightenment on the problems encountered by persons facing marriage.

Lifting of Marriage Restriction Defeated

By DR. JAMES H. SNOWDEN

CINCINNATI, O., June 3.—Two storm centers arose in the Presbyterian general assembly yesterday. The first was over the report of the special committee on marriage and divorce concluding with a series of resolutions, one of which it proposed to strike from the Presbyterian confession of faith the section that declares that such as profess the true reformed religion should not marry with infidels, papists and other idolaters; neither such as are Godly be unequally yoked with such as are notoriously wicked in their life or maintain damnable heresies.

DEBATE FURIOUS

A motion was made to reject this recommendation and that the confession of faith on this point stand as it is. Debate was furious on the point and much was said both against and for marriage with Roman Catholics, but the mind of the assembly was against the change.

The assembly then referred back to the committee the whole report, only adopting the last two resolutions.

The other storm center was the inveterate Princeton theological matter, which came up in the report of the committee on theological seminaries approving the new Princeton board of trustees.

CRAIG RENEWS MOTION

Dr. S. G. Craig renewed his motion of last Friday, deferring action until the validity of the amended charter could be tested in the courts. A motion was made to lay his resolution on the table, but as he had asked for five minutes the assembly granted him the time. He gave the substance of his former speech and was answered by Dr. Cleland McAfee, who told the Assembly that all the points raised by Dr. Craig had been considered by the assembly last year and it was time the matter be ended. The question was put to vote and Dr. Craig's resolution received several votes with nearly the whole mass of the assembly giving a thunderous no.

The report of the board of Christian Education, of which the Rev. Hugh Thomson Kerr is president, was presented and unanimously approved and adopted.

HOLY LAND ROW UP TO LEAGUE

GENEVA, June 3.—(AP.)—The permanent mandates commision of the League of National opened in extraordinary session today to consider the situation in Palestine growing out of last summer's disorders between the Jews and Arabs.

The British government submitted a statement to the commission calling attention to certain phases of the recent Shaw report on the outbreaks.

The statement asserted that the Palestine situation was one of great delicacy.

Woman Is Candidate For School Board

Mrs. T. W. Stevens, widow of Dr. T. W. Stevens, today was a candidate for the place on the Wilkinsburg Board of Education made vacant through the resignation of Mrs. J. G. Chalfant. She is indorsed by the women's organizations of the borough. Mrs. Chalfant's resignation was compelled through moving from the borough.

GLASGOW, June 3.—(AP.)—The Prince of Wales is to radiocast to the United States and Canada, June 11, at the launching of the steamship, Empress of Britain. By wireless his voice will go to Yamachiche, Quebec, and thence by land wires and stations allied with WEAF.

U. P. ASSEMBLY REPEATS FAITH IN DRY LAW

McBride Anti-Saloon League Report Adopted — Movie Drinking Scenes Protested

DES MOINES, Ia., June 3.—(AP.)—Reaffirming faith in prohibition and deploring "private publicity enterprises in the form of straw ballots," a report of a committee on reform, headed by F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, was adopted by the United Presbyterian Church assembly.

The report warned against the "insidious campaign of wet propaganda deliberately designed to discourage respect for prohibition and encourage the use of intoxicating liquor."

DEPLORE DRINK SCENES

It further protests against "drinking scenes in the movies showing the use of intoxicants as attractive, adventurous and fashionable," and "insinuations favorable to intoxicating liquors in the fiction pages of leading magazines."

Belief that the use of cigarets by children and youth decreases the desire or care for spiritual thought and lessens the ability to become real Christians is expressed.

Opposition to divorce save on scriptural grounds is stated, and ministers of the church are urged to exercise care in solemnizing marriage where the divorce question is involved.

PLAN CELEBRATION HERE

Plans are being advanced for observance of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of the United Presbyterian Church of North America, to be held in Pittsburgh three years hence.

A committee headed by the Rev. John McNaugher, of Pittsburgh, retiring moderator, Monday told the Seventy-second General Assembly that arrangements are being made for the celebration, which will be held in connection with the General Assembly in 1933.

Pittsburgh ministers and elders attending the assembly sessions Tuesday were preparing to return to their homes following action on committee reports which will occupy the final day.

Dewar, Rum Maker, Leaves $25,000,000

LONDON, June 3.—(AP.)—Lord Dewar, the famous distiller, sportsman, raconteur and wit, left an estate of more than five million pounds (about $25,000,000) when he died on April 11. Lord Dewar left £1,000,000, free of legacy duty, to his nephew, John Arthur Dewar, who, his uncle said in his will, "went to Canada when quite young and carried out successfully all my business transactions there."

COLUMBUS FIRE LAID TO GRAFT, POLITICS

Report on Prison Tragedy Hits at Legislature of Ohio and Warden Thomas

Special to The Sun-Telegraph

NEW YORK, June 3.—Blame for the holocaust in Columbus prison in which 300 convicts perished was placed on the Ohio Legislature and Warden Thomas by the Society of Penal Information today.

In a report the society asserted further that Dannemora prison is in a turmoil and an outbreak is prevented now only by the incessant vigilance of guards.

The report continued:

"New York's prisons are not threatened by fire to any extent, but they are grossly overcrowded, and the morale is very low."

BLAMES POLITICS, GRAFT

Concerning Columbus conditions, the report, made after an inquiry on the spot by Secretary W. B. Cox and H. B. Dean, declares:

"The real fault in the Ohio prison is politics and graft. Columbus is not at the end of her troubles, and she will not be until an honest effort is made to get at the bottom of things with an impartial investigation, one that is not a mere whitewash of officials.

"It was not until 20 minutes after the first alarm was sounded that the first convict was released from his cell.

UP TO LAWMAKERS

"But the warden cannot be held responsible for the gross overcrowding and idleness which existed at the time of the fire. This responsibility rests entirely upon the law-making body of the state.

"The governor has done as well as could be expected, considering he is a politician. He was gracious to us, but found our suggestions politically inexpedient."

Secretary Cox declared the New Jersey prison at Trenton to be a veritable fire trap, worse than Columbus, and he condemned the Missouri prison at Jefferson City.

WARDEN ANSWERS ATTACK

COLUMBUS, O., June 3.—(AP.)—Warden P. E. Thomas, of the Ohio Penitentiary, today answered the attack by William B. Cox, secretary of the National Society of Penal Information. Cox had placed responsibility for the 320 deaths in the Easter Monday fire at the penitentiary on the warden and the legislature. He asked:

"Why do they not state who they are, and what they represent? They are representatives, self-appointed, of the Mutual Welfare League, as formed and inaugurated by Thomas Mott Osborne. Their idea is that the prisoners should run the prison and they are against any warden in the United States who stands against inaugurating the Mutual Welfare League in his prison."

Thomas said the league had been prohibited in Ohio prisons and would be barred while he continued in office.

CANDIDATE HELD FOR RADIO TALK

PORTLAND, Ore., June 3.—(AP.)—Robert Gordon Duncan, defeated candidate for Republican nomination to Congress, and self-styled "Oregon wildcat," was arrested, charged with violating the Federal radio act forbidding the broadcasting of "obscene, indecent or profane language."

The license of station KVEP, which Duncan used for three months in his campaign, was not renewed last week by the Federal Radio Commission.

While Duncan sat in the marshal's office awaiting bail arrangements, Edgar B. Piper, eldest son of the late Edgar B. Piper, editor of the Portland Oregonian, accosted him and, according to witnesses, struck him on the head, opening a scalp wound. In radio addresses, Duncan attacked members of the Piper family.

For New Effects in Tinting Lingerie

favored by famous Paris couturiers

HOME tinting is now done in a new way. Lingerie looks fresher, newer than ever before.

An exclusive German formula makes all fabrics "take" the color quickly and evenly—no streaking or spotting. Mere "surface tinting" cannot equal its results.

By this method, known as New INSTANT RIT, colors are made clearer—and even daintiest pastel tints last through extra washings.

INSTANT RIT dissolves completely in 40 seconds.

Lingerie	Curtains
Hosiery	Children's clothes
Dresses	Scarfs, gloves, etc.

At your druggist or department store. 15c for the large size.

WHITE RIT—Color Remover
(Harmless as Boiling Water)

Any color, even black, completely removed from all materials by WHITE RIT (color remover). Also takes spots and stains from white goods—even ink, fruit, perspiration, rust, etc. Restores "yellowed" or "grayed" white goods to original whiteness.

One hundred and seven graduates received diplomas. William H. Coverdale, of New York, Geneva alumnus of 1891 and chairman of the board of the Seaboard Air Line Railroad, gave the commencement address.

FORESTS AFIRE, 4 FEARED DEAD

PORT AUTHOR, Ont., June 3.—(AP.)—With four persons believed dead, several others unaccounted for and numerous homesteads wiped out, rangers and volunteers today were battling a forest fire which threatened this town of 3,500 on the northwest shore of Lake Superior.

Flames, driven across hundreds of miles of timberland and underbrush, reached Brent Park, a suburb of Port Arthur, and many residents had abandoned their homes before the progress of the fire was checked.

DULUTH, Minn., June 3.—(AP.)—With three farm homes destroyed and several thousand acres of land burned over, the first serious forest fires of the season in Northern Minnesota today were reported under control.

INDICT MARINES IN 2 DEATHS

TOMS RIVER, N. J., June 3.—(AP.)—The Ocean County grand jury has indicted Lester Underbown, Claude Carmichael and Madison Chappel, marines stationed at Lakehurst Naval Air Station, and Mrs. Hattie Evans for the murder of Robert Evans and Albert Duffy, May 16 last.

Evans and Duffy were slain May 16, a few days after the former was discharged from the Navy and returned home.

It was believed at first the men killed each other while drunk, but investigation showed that Underbown had lived with Mrs. Evans during the husband's absence. This led to his arrest and the subsequent arrests of the others.

Smoke Screen Aids Robbers to Escape

CHICAGO, June 3.—(AP.)—Three men who had robbed Lee Breadman, a broker, and his wife, used a smoke screen to escape from detectives pursuing them.

Following the robbery, which yielded loot worth $2,000, the bandits drove away. Breadman called to a cruising police car, which started in pursuit. When the chase had gone two blocks, a great cloud of smoke poured from the rear of the robbers' car. The detectives, blinded, had to slow down. When the cloud lifted, the robbers had disappeared.

ANTI-DRYS FIGHT ON RUTH OWEN

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., June 3.—(AP.)—Florida Republicans are balloting today in their first party primary, a privilege made possible by their heavy vote in the 1928 election, when Herbert Hoover carried the state.

In the Democratic primary, Representative Ruth Bryan Owen, daughter of the late William Jennings Bryan, sought a second term as member of Congress from the Fourth District. She was opposed by Dewitt T. Deen, Daytona Beach attorney, who had campaigned on a platform calling for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

In another spirited contest, Sidney J. Catts, picturesque wartime governor, made a bid for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Third District. He was opposed by Tom A. Yon, incumbent, and J. Harvey Bayliss, a former mayor of Pensacola. Catts is under a federal indictment which charges him with aiding and abetting a counterfeiting ring.

VANDALS RAID SIX SCHOOLS

CHICAGO, June 3.—(AP.)—Systematic vandalism at a number of Chicago schools, resulting in thousands of dollars' property damage, is under investigation, Board of Education officials said today.

Six institutions have reported depredations in the last week. More than $15,000 worth of furnishings were destroyed by intruders before they set fire to the prevocational building of Tilden Junior High School. Axes were wielded on pianos, walls were spattered with ink, and decorations and museum exhibits destroyed.

Officials said they were without clues to the perpetraters.

Simplicity has Made 1930 a Norge Year

Talk with those abreast of refrigeration progress and the point that will take and hold the interest will be Norge and its marvelous cold making mechanism—the Rollator. A little roller turns smoothly in a cylinder and cold is produced. That's all. This simplicity of motion has made electric refrigeration take on a different and higher meaning. The Norge Rollator is the new pace setter—the sensation of 1930. It is proving to even the layman that simplicity based on sound engineering is the final answer where efficient economy and superior performance are sought. It is this simplicity that has made possible the choice craftsmanship and increased refinements throughout the complete Norge refrigerators. Don't decide until you inspect the Norge models. Compare them for worth. Compare them for price. They will surprise. 1930 is a Norge year.

CONFEDERATES OPEN BIVOUAC

BILOXI, Miss., June 3.—(AP.)—Biloxi has become the bivouac for "Johnnie Reb" and his sons and daughters for the fortieth reunion of the United Confederate Veterans.

Aged and feeble, the remnant of the Army of the South came into camp leaning on the shoulders of the Army of the future, the Boy Scouts of Dixie.

Three thousand tents have been pitched on the outskirts of the city not far from the homestead of Jefferson Davis.

As proof of the bridging of the gap between the North and South, Theodore C. Cassau, of Rochester, N. Y., commander of the Sons of Union Veterans, came among the early arrivals to join John Ashley Jones, of Atlanta, commander of the Sons of Confederate Veterans, in honoring the valor of the defeated Confederacy.

RUM ON FORMER U. S. SHIP

NORFOLK, Va., June 3.—(AP.)—A former American sub-chaser, now known as the Meimuzel, and believed to be of French registry, was seized off the Virginia coast last night by the Coast Guard patrol boat GG-22, as a suspected rum runner. The craft, her cargo of 1,000 cases of supposedly bourbon whisky, and 12 men aboard her were brought here.

Boatswain C. F. Garrison, in command of the CG-22, reported that the Meimuzel was flying no flag and was only seven miles off Paramore Banks when she was seized. Those on board the former sub-chaser claim they were much further off shore.

Her first claimed was filed in 1922, but the taking of evidence in England and elsewhere and other processes of litigation have delayed the actual hearing. Wells denies knowledge of the existence of "The Web."

Mr. Schlichter will speak each night this week at the North Side mission and at the Central Presbyterian Church, Sandusky and North Diamond streets.

In support of a plea for active financial interest of Americans in aiding the operation of the new plan through the purchase of German reparations bonds, Mr. Lamont cited the growth of mutual confidence in Europe as a result of developments of the past few years and the direct advantages accruing from this situation to American trade and prosperity.

SOVIET RUSSIA HUNGRY, BUT PROGRESSING

American Newspapermen See Shortage of Food on Tour; Regime Stands Firmly

MOSCOW, June 3.—(AP.)—A trip of more than 5,000 miles through Central Asiatic Russia by American newspapermen showed that the Communist regime is making considerable progress industrially, but that the standard of living is very low.

The correspondents were guests of the Soviet government at the opening of the new Turkestan-Siberian Railroad at Amabulak, Uzbekistan, and their observations showed that there is a serious shortage of bread, meat, sugar and butter.

SHORTAGE OF FOOD

Most railway station buffets and restaurants were destitute of edibles of any kind except black bread, bad bologna sausage and fish.

In several instances Russians complained of high prices and lack of food and clothing.

The Soviet government makes no attempt to conceal this shortage of food and other necessaries. It declares the harvest this year will more than offset the present crisis and leave a generous margin for the country's needs next winter and spring.

SUPPRESS UPRISINGS

Observation and inquiry by the correspondents also showed that politically the Soviet regime is firmly intrenched internally. Rumors were heard of sporadic risings and discontent, but these apparently were confined to small, isolated groups and were easily suppressed.

The Soviet government has made considerable strides in forming migratory tribesmen into larger political groups, for today there exist in Turkestan no less than five distinct autonomous republics—Kazakstan, Tadjikistan, Turkmenistan, Uzbekistan and Kirghiz—all enjoying local independence but under direct control of the central Communist government at Moscow.

Their automobile was wrecked when it was crowded into a parked truck by another machine.

Near East Relief Chief Dies Abroad

NEW YORK, June 3.—(AP.)—Near East Relief headquarters learned that Christopher Thurber, 50, director of the organization for many years, died Saturday in Athens after a paralytic stroke.

In 1922, Thurber was at Sivas, Asia Minor, in charge of relief work during the massacres and deportations. From among the survivors he collected 7,000 children, whom he took to Istanbul. The Greek government awarded him three medals for bravery.

Fire Breaks Out On U. S. Warship

COLON, Panama, June 3.—(AP.)—A fire which did no serious damage broke out last night on the battleship Colorado of the United States fleet, anchored in Colon bay to await transit through the Panama Canal. The blaze started from an electrical short circuit. The ship will proceed with the fleet.

Hair Her Fortune, Impersonator Sues for Loss

BOSTON, June 3.—(AP.)—"Ooh, it's a woman"—applause—and the more applause the surer Eugenia Hubert was of holding her place on the programs of a theatrical circuit.

Miss Hubert, from the state of Washington, was a male impersonator and, according to her belief, the head of hair she shook at the close of her act and the peace of mind that her ability to earn $750 a week brought her were worth $100,000.

In a suit filed in Federal Court here, Miss Hubert charged that a visit to a Boston hairdressing establishment for a permanent wave resulted in the loss of her "entire head of hair, her livelihood and also her health."

FIGHTS WYETH HARVARD FUND

NEW YORK, June 3.—(AP.)—Suit to obtain possession of valuable Bronx real estate willed by the late Stuart Wyeth, Philadelphia chemicals magnate, to Harvard College, was filed in Bronx Supreme Court by Francis H. Wyeth, who contends he is an heir.

The president and fellows of the college were named as defendants along with the Fidelity-Philadelphia Trust Company, executor and trustee under the will. The complaint alleged Wyeth's will dated May 8, 1919, is invalid. Wyeth died last December 20 in Philadelphia.

A copy of the will, filed with the complaint, said he left $200,000 in personal property and real estate of undetermined value.

Woman Who Shot W. Va. Youth Held

MULLENS, W. Va., June 3.—(AP.)—Mrs. Nellie Burton, 29, of Tralee, was held under $1,000 bond to await action of the Wyoming County grand jury following a hearing on charges of shooting Oakley Davis, 22, of Tralee, Saturday night. Mrs. Burton said Davis was trying to break into her home. Physicians at a Mullens hospital last night said they held little hope for Davis' recovery.

W. Va. Wife Freed In Woman's Killing

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., June 3.—(AP.)—A Mingo County jury last night acquitted Mrs. Lily Ratcliff, 40, of the slaying of Mrs. Mabel Atwood, 28, in a Williamson theater several months ago. Mrs. Ratcliff pleaded temporary insanity. Mrs. Atwood was slain as she sat in the theater with Clay Ratcliff, the defendant's husband.

2 Buildings Ruined In Harrisburg Fire

MESSENGER TELLS STORY OF RELIEF

Irregular Work Started Habits That Got Best of Him,

"My work as a special messenger for one of the larger establishments kept me ready to go anywhere at any time, and I often went on trips on two's sudden notice. I think that was the reason I let myself get into irregular habits. It was not always convenient to stop when Nature asked me to, and sometimes I went all day without attending to her calls," said Frank Tavano, of 131 S. Commercial St., Steubenville, O., to a group of men one evening recently.

"A year or two of this resulted in a bad case of constipation. It became so bad that my eyes were yellow, my skin looked greasy and my breath was foul. Even then I did not heed the alarm signals. But when my liver and my stomach both went on a strike, I knew that something had to be done. I got very bilious and my stomach would not digest my food. I suffered greatly both from pain and bloating. The gas would form in my stomach and press up around my heart so that a walk left me panting and I could not climb a stairway without stopping to get my breath. My heart thumped like a trip hammer when ever I exerted myself. My kidneys became affected, too, so that my back ached a good part of the time.

"Altogether, from a strong healthy man, neglect of this important matter made me a wreck. I took pills and physics of all kinds. Some of them worked some did not, none of them gave any permanent benefit. One day the druggist with whom I dealt suggested to me that I try Wright's Tonic. It, as it had helped many people to know, I thought it must be a very powerful thing, for it was to me very much so, but I found that the power of a medicine is not to be measured by the discomfort it may cause. Instead of griping and purging me as I expected, it would quickly and surely regulate the normal working of my bowels. It brought about three good passages a day and it cleansed me more so than the other laxatives ever accomplished.

"I would be glad to see everybody don't let yourself get constipated. Use Wright's Tonic to prevent it. But if you are constipated, don't lose hope. Use Wright's Tonic. Wright's Tonic can be obtained from Boggs & Buhl's Department Store, or at any other first class drug store. (A-23)

Improvements and refinements are prominent at the radio show this year. There are no radical changes in circuits but there is a preponderance of push-button speakers and screen grid tubes.

The race for health...

It is easily won by the man who eats the foods that furnish real nutriment and do not tax the digestion. Shredded Wheat with milk not only tastes good, but is good. The crisp, flavory shreds of baked whole wheat are so appetizing and strengthening. Combines the "roughage" you need with the proteins and mineral salts. Delicious for any meal with your favorite fruit.

SHREDDED WHEAT

WITH ALL THE BRAN OF THE WHOLE WHEAT

Keeps Me Fit and Fine!

Before Retiring —Upon Arising

—for that sluggish feeling, nothing so helpful as a glass of Welch's, night and morning. It's the pure and unadulterated juice of luscious Concord grapes. Mildly laxative.

Try it as a breakfast fruit...six liberal portions to the pint... more if diluted, and many prefer it so. Most temptingly delicious breakfast fruit juice in America . . . at less than 5c a portion.

Welch's GRAPE JUICE

RICHER and CREAMIER

WE never changed her old time recipe that made this mayonnaise so perfect

A special little corner in the pantry housed her choicest oil and eggs and vinegar and spices that were "the makings" of this wonderful mayonnaise—first made by a mother of long ago. And a very special recipe held the secret of success. Once she perfected it, never by a particle was anything added or subtracted! Why trifle with perfection?

So, when the news of her DIFFERENT mayonnaise spread to town, village and city, and the homey specialty became a popular brand, we were wise . . . . . we never changed her old time recipe one iota! This accounts for the delicious difference of Ivanhoe. Pure, wholesome, blended to a family's taste—it now satisfies a nation's! Buy richer, creamier Ivanhoe at almost any grocery in quarts, pints, half-pints, or in 3¼ oz. jars. You can't mistake its flavor once you've tried it. Yet it costs no more than ordinary mayonnaise.

"SALAD LEAVES" is a unique booklet of salad recipes and balanced menus. Write for your free copy to Harriet Meaker Osborne, Ivanhoe Kitchen, Auburn, N.Y.

STOCK BOUGHT BY TIDEWATER

NEW YORK, June 3.—(AP.)—A group of executives of Tidewater Associated Oil Company announced they had purchased a block of 20 per cent of the company's common stock from the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, which has held the shares many years.

Axtell J. Byles, president of Tidewater, said the purchase covered all of Standard of New Jersey's Tidewater holdings.

The Tidewater Associated Oil Company has outstanding 5,920,406 shares of common stock. The 20 per cent purchase would represent approximately 1,200,000 shares, which at yesterday's closing price of 17⅜ for Tidewater common, involves about $21,000,000.

Byles said the Tidewater executives who made the purchase had formed a corporation which will hold the shares.

CITY PLANS BIG STREET PROGRAM

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

William Pfarr,
On Vacation.
Dear Bill:

I may as well tell you some of the gossip of the city's sidewalks, so that when you come back you'll know what paragraphs you can't repeat.

There's still a lot of fuss about elections—particularly in the Strip. Election stories are just coming out. Did you know that George Wharton Pepper spoke here election night? He talked to a group of churchmen on "Unity." One reporter ambled into the William Penn ballroom to see what it was all about.

Remember the same night four years ago? If there was one there were 40 reporters around him. He was candidate for re-election to the United States Senate. The other night he was just another after-dinner speaker.

Incidentally, the former senator doesn't like microphones, and told the story of the preacher who wanted a job assisting the Divinity in directing mundane affairs.

"May Thy choice fall on me," he beseeched, "if only in an advisory capacity."

The Sullivan-O'Malley factions still keep their show going. To them, it was just a good, old-fashioned election—fights and everything.

Can you imagine an out-of-town newspaperman invited by one faction innocently toasting the other? There were explanations.

Erna, who talks fashions over the radio, was hostess to a New York fashion maid. The visitor liked to wear smart clothes. She started down Fifth avenue in a natty suit, wearing a cane. Folks stared. This wasn't New York, where canes are, well, just canes, and stylish for women.

Nearing Wood street, a truck driver pulled alongside her and whistled. Courage gone, the pretty one simulated a limp and the cane became a crutch.

Seneca was a good old Roman about whom sculptors raved and of whom they carved busts. In the cloister that Homer St. Gaudens, director of fine arts at Carnegie Institute, calls his office, there's a bronze of the old Roman.

John O'Connor, Jr., manager of the department, has discovered that a lighted cigaret pushed between Seneca's lips will be puffed and puffed until it burns down. It would be a mystery, only there's a hole in the base of the statue that permits a draft through the mouth.

A new technic for sheiks has been developed, it seems. They roam through the telephone directory, seize on a woman's name and phone to make a date. They only choose numbers opposite names they think are bachelor girls'. A certain spinster past 50, with mixed grey hair, and a keen sense of humor—although she's taught school for 26 years—loves it. Her young bachelor brother is 6 feet 1 and hew!

Yours,
ED PRENDERGAST.

Will Rogers Says:

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., June 3.

Lot of news. Supreme Court swore in Owen J. Roberts as member, then they adjourned for year. Not much chance for a man to make a mistake there. The Senate needn't have been so particular. Chicago is kinder like the stock market, it has been away off here lately, but it got back toward normal. They machine gunned seven. The Zep started back home with Lady Drummond Hay, Karl von Wiegand and all the same passengers they always have. They ought to change the cast on that thing, people will get the idea that it can't haul anybody else.

Yours,
WILL.

NEIGHBORS JOIN SHIPPERS IN RAIL FIGHT

Mahoning, Shenango Agencies Coming to Plan Opposition To Circuitous Route Ban

The shippers of the Pittsburgh, Mahoning and Shenango valley districts will join with the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce in the fight in behalf of affected carriers and shippers against the Interstate Commerce Commission's order to discontinue circuitous rail routes used here.

Representatives of the various groups will meet Friday afternoon in room 606 of the Chamber of Commerce Building.

At the meeting ways and means of correlating testimony to be offered at the commission's hearing on the fourth section iron and steel rates, to be held in Washington June 17, will be discussed.

Roy S. Kern will be chairman of the meeting. Donald O. Moore and Charles Gormley, manager and assistant manager of the traffic division of the chamber, will represent the chamber at the meeting.

The closing of the existing routes as prescribed in the commission's order, would retard prompt movement of traffic by requiring interchange between long and short-haul lines otherwise unnecessary.

POLLS 'TERROR' QUIZ RESUMED

First Assistant District Attorney George P. P. Langfitt today was to question additional residents of the Twelfth District of the Fifth Ward regarding the alleged reign of terror that prevailed at the polling place during the primary election.

He is investigating the story of Robert Cohen, election judge of the district, who charged that he was forced to flee with registration books.

Cohen has been held for court by Alderman George Anderson on charges of violating the election laws.

Langfitt questioned eight witnesses yesterday and stated that he would quiz several others today.

According to Langfitt the stories of the witnesses do not bear out Cohen's allegations.

Permit for Tunnel Canopy Requested

The Pittsburgh Railways Company wants to erect a canopy over the north portals of Mt. Washington Tunnel, Smithfield and Sycamore streets, according to an ordinance being considered by Council. The application has the approval of the Department of Public Works. It will cost the city nothing.

Council Resolution Eulogizes Winters

A resolution eulogizing former Controller Daniel Winters and expressing regret at his death, which occurred May 8, was passed unanimously yesterday by City Council. It was prepared by a special committee composed of George J. Kambach, Robert Garland and W. Y. English.

Appropriation Asked To Improve Airport

Council has been asked to appropriate $2,768 for the construction of runways at Rodgers Air Field. The amount is left in a bond issue for the field's construction.

CHAPTER XLVII.

Something desperate in that kiss. Reaching down into her heart, draining it of courage, filling her with bitter rebellion.

When their lips parted, she did not lift her head. Instead she pressed her lips with a sort of hungry fervor on his forehead, on his closed eyes, covering his face with kisses.

The man suddenly thrust her away; swung upright. His hands trembled as they gripped her shoulders. His voice shook.

"No. No, darling. I can't stand it!"

She swayed back, sat crouched, hands pressed tightly over her face as though she would shut out reality.

Ken's face was white. He swallowed, drew a deep breath.

"I've been asleep, haven't I? What time is it? He drew out his watch, frowning down at it through the pink light. Alarm leaped into his eyes.

"Good Lord! It's 3 o'clock! Ardeth, I must go.

He stood up, reached for his overcoat, then stood motionless, one arm half in the sleeve. Suddenly dropped the coat and reaching down, pulled her up to him. His voice was a groan.

"Oh, darling . . . to have to leave you . . ."

The dam of caution in his mind crashed down and the suppressed longings of the years rushed out.

He crushed her face to his. "Sweetheart — sweetheart!" he was whispering.

The loneliness, the sorrow of the past months only added fuel to the fire. Pain and denial only made this moment the more precious. His the right, now, to snatch happiness at the expense of everything—even at the expense of this slender, unresisting girl in his arms.

Caught in Web

There Is No Happiness Without Ardeth

Her eyes were closed, her wet face upturned to his. The barrier had gone down in his own mind as well. She was aware of only one thing—she was with Ken. This was Ken holding her, Ken feeding the heart-hunger which had consumed her.

The man raised a finger, gently wiped off a tear.

"Crying. I'm making you cry, sweetheart . . ."

"No! Don't go away, Ken. . . . Oh, darling. . . ."

"To wake up, like that, and find you near me! Ardeth, I love you so."

"I love you. Oh, I love you!"

"I know. God, it's ironical, isn't it? To be caught like this—in a web. I am caught, Ardeth. I can't get out."

She lifted her hands and pulled down his face to her own.

"Don't think, dearest. I've thought so much. Nights, when I couldn't sleep. Lying here in the dark. Waiting. Always waiting. As though that would do any good. Isn't that silly?"

"I know. I lie awake in the dark, too. Thinking. Hating the whole miserable scheme of things."

Ardeth Angered

Enraged When Cecile Is Mentioned

"I don't hate that . . . because you're in it. It's even worth the pain—having known you. I wouldn't choose happiness without you. I couldn't. It wouldn't be happiness."

He had cupped her face between his two hands, holding it upturned like a flower. Studying its flushed sweetness, the dark anxiety of her eyes.

He shook his head slightly, a little bitter smile on his lips. "Darling, what are we going to do? When I want you so . . ."

"Hush. Don't think!"

He jerked his head back nervously. "Think!" his voice was rough. "How can I help it? Wanting you! Years and years stretching ahead . . . What of the years ahead, Ardeth? What about them?"

The roughness of that throbbed through her with mingled pain and joy. She was listening to his voice, not his words.

"A web, Ardeth. I can't get out. Did you hear that? Not a chance. She said that—Cecile said that—"

"Cecile?" That startled through to her hearing.

"That other time when—when I brought the poor little fellow here. Remember—he broke your chain? That tiny pearl chain? The nurse found one of the little flowers in his hand. She took it to Cecile. Cecile recognized it."

Ardeth pushed him away as sudden blinding rage swept down upon her. Scorching her. Shaking through her body. In that moment she could have killed Cecile. Could have flung herself at that beautiful cold face, tearing it with her hands.

"Oh, she's wicked! She has everything—and she takes you! And you're mine! You always were mine. And you knew it! She hated me—because you wanted me. I know! Mary told me. Not love—it wasn't love with her! It was spite! Why do we let a woman like that ruin our lives . . . just for spite! We have a right to happiness!"

He was gripping her shoulders hard. "Ardeth—No! Hush, sweetheart, you're wearing yourself out!"

She flung off his hands. "We consider her! We're fools! Fools! Let's do as we please. Let's go away—anywhere, just so we are together."

Ashen misery in his face. He tried to draw her to his side. "Don't, darling."

"Oh, you don't care! You're thinking of her, not of me!" She was filled with the blind desire to hurt.

His mouth twisted. His eyes blazed through the dim light. "Lord! . . . To think that! You know it's you! Don't you think it would be easy to go away with you? To leave this damned miserable existence? God! to be free . . . Nothing matters—nothing matters but you, I tell you. No, that isn't so! You matter! That's why I mustn't. You—nothing in it for you but misery. The world isn't run like that, Ardeth. I mustn't forget that."

She was crying, clinging to him like a child. "Ken, take me. I'm not afraid—"

Sad Parting

Ardeth in Tears When Ken Leaves

"I'm not afraid, either, Ardeth. Except of hurting you. She'll never give me a divorce. She said so. It will only end in hurting you."

"Nobody cares if I go or not, Ken. I'm not afraid."

Ken was holding her close, so close she could feel the thumping of his heart. Holding her tightly, long after she had relapsed into quiet crying.

A little while passed . . . a moment like a breath of eternity. The dim lit room was very still. Ken stirred. Sighed. Put her gently away. "Have to go, Ardeth. It's very late."

A nervous trembling had seized her. This was losing Ken all over again. She wanted to protest, to cry out against his leaving, but she only closed her eyes and whispered, "Please . . . please . . ."

"I was wrong to come, sweetheart. You comforted me and now I leave you unhappy—"

Out through the shop where the dim reflection of the street light on the corner gleamed coldly on the front of the glass case, on the shiny top of the teakwood tabourette.

He kissed her gently, tasting the salt on her lips. She was still murmuring "Please . . . please . . ." when he let himself out of the front door.

Neither of them saw a dark figure lurking in the shelter of a doorway across the street.

M'BRIDE HERE, STICKS BY GUNS

Emmett McBride, of Salineville, O., stopped off here today en route from New York to his home and reiterated his charges of speculation, factional fighting and unfair dealings by the Anti-Saloon League, of which his brother, F. Scott McBride, is legislative superintendent.

EMMETT M'BRIDE

A third brother, David L. McBride, had said in an interview yesterday at New Wilmington, where he received the degree of doctor of divinity from Westminster College, that Emmett was a victim of "chronic nervousness" and that this was the cause of his attack on the league.

Emmett's reply to David was:

"That's his opinion."

He reviewed the charges he had made in a letter to Congressman F. H. LaGuardia, of New York, saying brother Scott had a battle on his hands to remain in charge of the league's affairs at Washington, where the publicity is great, and giving details of the speculations he alleges were conducted by officers of the league.

David McBride, after dismissing Emmett's charges in his New Wilmington interview, admitted there was a chance the prohibition laws would be changed in the future, since "the first draft of any great act" was seldom "fully satisfactory."

WESTMINSTER QUIETS DOWN

By HOWARD L. BROWNING, JR.
Staff Correspondent.

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., June 3.—This little village of 900 is peaceful and quiet today as a result of the failure of student-administration trouble to disturb the commencement day meeting of the board of directors of Westminster College.

Mutterings and rumblings of student and alumni dissatisfaction with President W. Charles Wallace's management of the United Presbyterian school, rife for months, were expected, but did not materialize at the annual board meeting yesterday. A petition reported signed by half the student body and 300 alumni, calling for the resignation of Wallace was not presented.

After the board meeting, Dr. H. H. Donaldson, president of the body, and J. E. McCalmont, secretary, both of Pittsburgh, said the board was fully satisfied with Dr. Wallace as president of the college. They admitted hearing of the petition, but denied any mention of the trouble in the meeting.

The disappearance from the campus of eight students—four women and four men—last Saturday has no bearing on the present situation, it is generally agreed. Their departure was due it is said, to their breaking a college rule against women visiting fraternity houses.

Wife Asks Divorce, Calls Mate Cruel

Lillian B. Goldberg, Morrowfield Apartments, Murray avenue, has filed a libel in divorce against William Goldberg, of the Webster Hall Hotel, alleging cruel and barbarous treatment and indignities. It is averred in the papers filed in Common Pleas Court that they were married January 8, 1925, and separated October 8, 1928.

ALLIES BLVD. REPAIR JOB SLATED

Ordinance Provides for Elimination of Trouble Spot, Scene of Mishaps

Council is considering a large number of street improvement ordinances, one of the most important being providing for repair at the Boulevard of the Allies at a point at which many accidents have occurred and against which numerous complaints have been directed.

When the boulevard was extended past Brady and Forbes streets the construction of a viaduct resulted in a dip in the roadway that has caused skidding in wet weather and numerous accidents, most of them minor.

An ordinance presented yesterday would set aside $15,000 for repaving at the point. Recently temporary work has been done to relieve the trouble.

WOULD COMPLETE ROAD

Another series of ordinances set aside $9,500 for the completion of the Baldwin road improvement from Crafton to Noblestown road. The city has already completed the job from Crafton road to Steen street. The entire project will cost Pittsburgh $14,500 and Crafton Borough $12,000.

The repaving of the railway area of Federal street from North avenue to Alpine street, where the rails are so bad as to lead many to believe an accident may result, is provided in another ordinance. The cost will be $12,000 which will come back to the city from the Pittsburgh Railways Company.

MANY OTHER PROJECTS

There are many other ordinances, including those for the grading, paving and curbing of Felicia way from Oakwood street to Norman way, Central avenue from Woods Run to Grand avenue, Adon street from Chartiers avenue to Kelvin street, Rutherford street from Hampshire avenue to Goldstrom street, Saxon way from Homewood avenue to Lang avenue, Annan way from N. Dunfermline to North Braddock, Edgerton avenue from Selkirk way to Homewood avenue, Michigan street from Estella to Beltzhoover avenue, and Luster street from Beechwood boulevard to Birchwood street.

Another ordinance widens the roadway of Boulevard Drive from 18 to 22 feet.

TAXICAB UNION MEETS TODAY

Two meetings of the newly-formed taxicab drivers' union are scheduled to be held today, the first this afternoon at 1 o'clock and the second this evening at 8 o'clock.

Both meetings will be in St. Patrick's Catholic Church.

Business Agent Fred Shaffer announced that matters of vital importance to taxicab drivers would be brought up at the meeting.

Last week the local union applied for membership with the American Federation of Labor.

More Cash Required In Building Cleaning

Council has been asked to appropriate another $1,000 for the cleaning of the City-County Building, which has been going on for several weeks. All of the walls are being cleaned and painted.

Sproul Denied Location On Busy Highway

The Rev. John W. Sproul, evangelist, who was to have opened a Glory Barn tent today at Eighth avenue and Library street, Munhall, was checkmated when Burgess Kenneth Lean refused to grant him a permit yesterday.

The site selected by the evangelist is on the main thoroughfare of the borough, where traffic to Kennywood Park and outlying towns is heavy at this time of year.

Lean declared the tent at that point would be dangerous to motor traffic and pedestrians.

Odds Against Patrons, Police Close Booths

Twelve concession booths at the Rubin-Cherry shows, exhibiting at Fifth and Penn avenues, were closed by East End police last night after gambling was alleged to have been found. Patrons at the booths stood a poor chance to win anything, police said.

Capt. Nuncie Marino accompanied a group of police and plain clothes men through the grounds and, after being convinced that the games were beyond the law, ordered them closed, he said.

The action of Marino followed that of North Side police who last week said they found gambling in another section of the Rubin-Cherry shows in old Exposition Park.

Reports reached police on a number of occasions that gambling was in progress, and Director of Public Safety James M. Clark ordered Inspector Charles Faulkner to stop it.

The following night owners of concessions were informed that gambling would not be tolerated. Since then police have kept close watch at the grounds for law violations.

The Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's Question: It has been proposed at the Presbyterian General Assembly that ministers teach young people marriage ideals and sex facts. What is your opinion of the proposal?

Mrs. MacDonald

MRS. LAURA MacDONALD, director of Allegheny County Girl Scouts: I think that knowledge of these facts is necessary to our young people, but also I think the result of teaching such facts depends much on the teacher. Some ministers would be fitted for the job while others would not.

W. H. Goodall

W. H. GOODALL, superintendent, South Side High School: Yes, ministers should teach the young people these subjects. We all know that young people discuss them so why not lead their discussion into authentic and intelligent channels? There is nothing to be ashamed of.

Miss Davison

ELSIE M. DAVISON, secretary, Allegheny County Girl Scouts: It is much better to present the facts as they are than to leave our young to guess. I know several ministers who could and would teach such ideals and facts. There may be ministers, though, who could not teach these things so well.

George Jessop

GEORGE JESSOP, accountant: When a minister begins to teach something which should be left to medical men he is going a bit out of his line. I never heard that ministers were authorities on sex facts. To my mind, a doctor would be the best person to consult on this sort of thing.

Miss Jancey

ELIZABETH JANCEY, student: Any person who can give correct information on the subject without acting as though it is something to keep secret should be lauded and encouraged. A minister would make a good teacher. Their knowledge of human nature would aid them in such teachings.

Dr. Petty

THE REV. DR. CARL WALLACE PETTY, pastor, First Baptist Church: Educating youth in the fine art of living together is a duty of the church. In no enterprise does that art call for truer craftsmanship than in the close and beautiful intimacies of marriage. With the aid of expert and scientific leadership, the church should do its part in preparing folk for the high mission of home building.

TEN PADLOCKS GRANTED BY JUDGE

Only One of 11 Petitions Dismissed at Hearing; Ten Days to Post Bonds

Judge Nelson McVicar in Federal Court who heard 11 petitions for permanent padlocks on alleged liquor dispensing establishments, yesterday granted 10 and dismissed one.

Included in those granted was that against Mickey Myers, alleged proprietor of a saloon at 58 South Twelfth street, and Regina Myers, reported owner of the property in which the establishment was housed. Myers, according to Federal officials, is now serving a term at the Atlanta penitentiary for violation of the liquor laws.

The petitions were presented by prohibition enforcement officers and representatives of the United States district attorney's office.

PADLOCKS ORDERED

Padlocks granted, besides that on Myers, included:

Antonio Salustri, proprietor, and Caterina Salustri, owner, saloon, 68 Washington place; Peter Greni, proprietor, and E. Joseph D'Anzello, owner, saloon, 811 East Ohio street; James Ridge, proprietor, and Nathan, Louis and Joseph Bogman, owners, bar and club at 115 Boquet street; Peter Miller, proprietor, and E. Neider, owner, saloon, 709 East street; Bloomfield Italian Independent Club, owner, bar and clubroom, 4615 Lorigan street; Robert Zaffey, proprietor, and John Hahneman, owner, saloon, 6008 Kirkwood street; A. D. Cassidy, proprietor, and Jacob Michken and Commonwealth Investment Company, owners, saloon, 400 Penn avenue, and Alfred Burke, proprietor, and Angelo and Concetta Vicnio, owners, saloon, 429 East Main street, Carnegie.

PETITION DISMISSED

A petition directed against Carl Schwartz, proprietor, and Elwood C. Bold, owner of a drinking room and dance hall at 5732 Baum boulevard, was dismissed.

According to law, owners of the properties on which the padlocks were placed have 10 days to post pond permitting them to rent their establishments to tenants who have the approval of prohibition authorities and the Federal attorney. The bond guarantees that no violations of liquor laws will be permitted during the life of the injunction, which under ordinary circumstances is one year.

Exposition Building Will be Re-leased

Machinery Hall, part of the old Exposition buildings, is to be released to the Pittsburgh Railways Company for $12,000 annually for nine years and six months. It was wanted by an athletic promotion company, whose leaders were not named. The ordinance was presented in Council yesterday and, it is reported, will be approved.

Ben Avon Branch Y. W. C. A. to Meet

The Ben Avon chapter, Y. W. C. A., will meet at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow in the Ben Avon United Presbyterian Church. Mrs. J. H. Rudolf will lead devotional services. An entertainment program will be presented by Mrs. Walter Close and Mrs. David Whitemarsh. Mrs. P. B. Heisey will have charge of refreshments.

Seek Liberty for 3 Held In Sedition

W. Ellison Chalmers, secretary of the Pittsburgh branch of the American Civil Liberties Union today announced the launching of a drive to secure pardons for Milan Resetar, Tom Zima and Peter Muselin who are serving sentences in the Allegheny County Workhouse for seditious activity.

Hurt Spine in Fall, Sues for $50,000

Angelina Pavlino, who alleges her spine was injured as well as hurt internally, when she fell to the floor of a car of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, has sued the latter for $50,000 damages. She was joined in the action by her husband, Luigi Pavlino. The plaintiff avers the accident happened June 3, 1928, at Sixth avenue and Bigelow boulevard and that the car was started suddenly and before she took her seat, causing her to fall with the results as stated.

SURVEY SHOWS TRAFFIC AREA

The greatest volume of traffic leaving the downtown business district passes the Boulevard of the Allies at Liberty Bridge, according to early figures tabulated from the 155,000 origin and destination tags used last week in the traffic count taken by the Better Traffic Committee.

Figures show that 11,600 cars left the city at that crossing. Bigelow boulevard and Seventh avenue was second with 10,500 cars leaving. The Point Bridge was third with 9,800 cars.

A special drive against "speeding" will be made here this month by the Traffic Safety Observers, a volunteer organization working to educate drivers along lines of safety.

Delegates to the National Safety Conference on Street and Highway Safety at their meeting in Washington last week agreed that speeding was the major cause of accidents.

W. C. T. U. ESSAY AWARDS MADE

The Bellevue branch, Women's Christian Temperance Union, has made these awards for the best temperance essays by pupils of Avalon schools:

High school, first prize, Emily Roberts; second, Rosemary Parmerie; honorable mention, Robert Graver and Christine Hoffman; ninth grade, first prize, Florence Shield; second, Marjorie Morris; honorable mention, Edmund Valentine, Mary Daugherty and Raleigh Schreiver; eighth grade, first, Clarence McWilliams and Charles Weaver.

Judges of the various contests were Mrs. H. G. Watson, Mrs. A. J. Holman, Mrs. S. L. Hosack, Miss Lillian Walter, David L. Starr and Sion B. Smith.

Kiwanis Club Will Hear Canadian Talk

Canada's hunting and fishing grounds and Nature scenes in less populated sections of Canadian provinces will feature an illustrated lecture before the Kiwanis Club of Pittsburgh members at the weekly luncheon Thursday in the Port Pitt Hotel. Capt. J. Milton Slate, of Toronto, international lecturer and veteran of the Boar War, will be the speaker.

HURT BY AUTO, WINS $7,500

Mrs. Anne N. McGovern, Towanda, N. Y., won a verdict by consent in Common Pleas Court against Reuben Caplan, when it was agreed to pay her $7,500 for injuries sustained when run over by the latter's automobile.

A verdict in the same case was returned last week for $30,000 against Louis Caplan, who was driving the car at the time of the accident, which occurred in front of the Soldiers Memorial Hall, Fifth avenue, January 28, 1928.

Mrs. McGovern was crossing the street to go to an entertainment at Memorial Hall, when the Caplan car backed into her, knocked her down and fractured her right leg. She is permanently crippled. Her counsel was Ben Paul Brasley.

Judge James H. Gray tried the second case. The $7,500 verdict will stand, as it was settled on that basis, although two different suits were filed in the same accident, which it is stated the plaintiff had the right to bring under the law.

Graduates From 2 Schools at Once

He has finished his three-year course at the Allegheny Vocational High School and also his four-year course at Carnegie Tech. He has studied electrical equipment and construction.

Quaill School Holds Health Roundup

The annual health round-up of pupils of the Quaill Avenue School, Ross Township, will be held Thursday under auspices of the Quaill Parent-Teacher Association. Dr. A. H. Gross assisted by Miss Katherine O'Donnell, township school nurse, will conduct the examinations. Miss Marie Vogel is chairman of the committee.

RAISE FUND AT SACRED HEART

Final preparations have been made at Sacred Heart Church for a special collection to be taken up next Sunday to raise $10,000. The sum must be raised so that the church can receive a $10,000 gift made by a parishioner with the proviso that an equal amount should be raised.

In charge of the collection are E. C. Byrnes, W. J. Hally, R. J. Henne, John R. Hermes, Edward M. Kenna, Patrick McGraw, J. Frank McKenna, M. F. McNulty, Edward O'Brien, Frank P. Patterson and Joseph V. Smith.

PITTSBURGHER GANG VICTIM

John Bertsche, who fell dead, a victim of Chicago ganaland's warfare Sunday, was a former resident of the South Side, city detectives revealed today. He was born and reared on the South Side, and for years worked in glass houses. The "big money" of the rackets attracted him and he drifted to Chicago, police said. A few years later he was said to have amassad a fortune.

Bertsche and two companions met death when a machine gun was aimed through a dining room window of a Chicago suburban hotel.

POLICE ARREST TWO DRIVERS AFTER CRASH

31 Mules Perish as Blaze Wrecks Pittsburgh Coal Stable Near Carnegie

Four young men were injured, one seriously, when the automobile in which they were returning from a fire upset in the Campbell's Run road, two miles north of Carnegie, early today.

Thirty-one mules in a stable of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, situated in the Campbell's Run road, three miles from Carnegie, and a mile from the Steubenville pike, were burned to death. Loss was estimated at $15,000 by Fire Chief John Franko, of Glendale.

LIST OF INJURED

The injured were Mark Ferin, 28, of 4 Ogden street, East Carnegie, a member of the East Carnegie Volunteer Fire Department; fracture of the nose and bruises of the back, taken to Mercy Hospital; Nick Boscia, 27, of Doolittle street, East Carnegie, fracture of the skull, taken to Mercy Hospital in serious condition; Charles Ferin, 17, of 220 Meade street, Millvale, a brother of Mark Ferin, fracture of the left arm, and Albert Claric, 18, of 3043 Norland avenue, East Carnegie, bruises of the hip and back.

Victor Cinski, 17, of 142 Lincoln avenue, Millvale, driver of the car that upset, was uninjured. Cinski and Patrick Welsh, 23, of 209 Fifth street, Carnegie, driver of the other machine, were arrested by Lieut. Harry W. Keisling and Motorcycle Patrolman Charles Skirpan, of the Carnegie police. Welsh was released under $500 bail, but Cinski was held in lieu of $1,000 bail.

The accident occurred, police said, when Cinski was forced by Welsh to make a turn too sharply, the machine upsetting. The injured were taken to Carnegie and given first aid treatment by Dr. O. J. Eichhorn.

Volunteer fire departments from East Carnegie, Glendale, Oakdale and Imperial and miners unsuccessfully combatted the stable fire. They used the scant water supply available to save a powder magazine 200 feet from the stable.

TURN UPSETS MACHINE

Constable Thomas Drexler, of Robinson Township, today was investigating the destruction by fire of an automobile in the Clever road, one and one-half miles from Moon Run, early this morning. Nearby residents extinguished the blaze, but were unable to locate any occupants.

Drexler believed the machine had been stolen and was abandoned when it took fire.

West Homestead borough's water supply problems remained unsettled today, following action voted by the councils of Homestead and West Homestead last night.

West Homestead councilmen voted to have a special committee confer with officials of the South Pittsburgh Water Company to ascertain what rates the company would offer the borough.

West Homestead council decided last night to make arrangements for $50,000 in bonds to pay off current indebtedness.

Homestead council ordered two new signal lights for a safety zone at Eighth avenue and Amity street.

The Bowens, who live in New Brighton, claim they were guests in a car owned by Ralph Irwin and the defendant's car collided with the one they occupied at Turkey Run Inn while they were on their way to Columbiana, O. As a result of the accident it was necessary to operate on the knees of Mrs. Bowen, both being injured. She claims that as a result she has limitation of motion. Their counsel is David S. Keilly.

'Propinquity' Is Good Word, Use Complimented

Propinquity is a good word. Judge James B. Drew decided in Common Pleas Court, remarking "It's good, but I have not heard it used for a long time."

It bobbed up in the divorce case of June C. Cancroy, Private street, Homestead, who is suing her husband, Joseph Cancroy, for desertion and was used by her counsel, Miss Anna X. Alpern.

Judge Drew looked intensely interested when the little lady lawyer used "propinquity," which means "close, neighborhood," etc., and Judge Drew complimented her for reviving it in court.

The Cancroys were married in 1917, the respondent, it was averred, deserting his wife in 1924.

GAS OUT, TOUR FLIER DOWNED

By AL GOUGH,
Aviation Editor.

READING, Pa., June 3.—Barring two minor accidents yesterday—one resulting in injury to a parachute jumper and the other disabling a ship—the Pennsylvania good will air tour was poised for flight into Philadelphia today.

A Pittsburgh student pilot—John Putzman, of the Curtiss flying service—with less than 50 hours of flying to his credit, saved his own life and his mechanic, John Sullivan.

His gasoline supply exhausted, he brought his machine safely to earth but the ship was unable to go on.

The parachute jumper, Ralph Lepere, of Cincinnati, suffered an injury to his shoulder when his 'chute caught in down draught on the Wilkes-Barre field just before the tour got under way to Reading.

John P. Wolfinger, member of the Pennsylvania state aeronautics commission, acted as chairman of the citizens' reception committee which provided a banquet and entertainment for the air tourists here last night.

The itinerary of the tour calls for a stop tomorrow noon at Allentown, and over night at Philadelphia.

Ice-Plant Building Ordinance Up

After several hearings and conferences, ordinances have been introduced in Council permitting the City Ice and Fuel Company to erect, in connection with its new $2,000,000 plant, loading platforms on Fifteenth, Sixteenth and Pike streets.

Benefits to other property are expected to add to that amount.

The total property damages are estimated at $60,000.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Simple Weddings Held In Great Favor Now By Smart Set

Small home and church weddings seem to be quite popular this summer, as well as large church weddings. And simple ceremonies right now are in great favor among the members of the smart set.

Every day, it seems, I have been telling you about June brides, and today I know of another and she is Eleanor Tiers, daughter of Mrs. William N. Ogden and Clarence Van Dyke Tiers, of Oakmont, and granddaughter of Mrs. Harry S. Paul, also of Oakmont.

June Bride

This evening at 5:30 o'clock Eleanor becomes the bride of George C. Quelch, Jr., son of the George C. Quelches of Oakmont, in the Oakmont St. Thomas Episcopal Church, which was built in memory of the bride's great-grandmother, Mrs. Jacob Paul. Officiating is the Rev. Edgar Jones.

The bride is wearing an afternoon gown of beige clair lace, with a matching hat of horsehair braid, and she is carrying a bride's bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley. Her sister, Alice, is her only attendant, and she, too, is wearing an afternoon gown of green lace with a green horsehair hat, and carrying spring flowers. Ralph Quelch is his brother's best man.

And of course there is a reception being held after the ceremony, in the home of the Ogdens for the members of the two families. And spring flowers decorate the home. After an Eastern honeymoon, the Quelches will make their home in Oakmont.

Today I know of several parties to be given in honor of Clarissa Howe Reed, daughter of the Samuel Clark Reeds, of Murrayhill avenue, whose marriage to Paul Robbins Haviland, son of the Walter W. Havilands, of "The Knoll," Landsdowne, Pa., will be an event of Tuesday, June 24. And you'll remember the wedding is to take place here in the Calvary Episcopal Church.

Bridal Parties

On Monday Nancy Brown and her sister-in-law, Mrs. James Brown, are to give a bridge-shower in their Woodland road home in honor of Clarissa, and on June 16, Betty Wells will give a bridge-luncheon for her at the Fox Chapel Golf Club.

* * *

Day after tomorrow comes at last that great and long anticipated event, the annual horse show, to be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday in the show ring of the Allegheny Country Club, Sewickley Heights.

Show Dinners

Every day we hear of more folks who'll come to town for the event, and of more folks who will entertain during the coming equine week-end.

The A. Rex Flinns, who are at their farm beyond Sharpsburg for the summer, will give a buffet luncheon Sunday in honor of the John Jay Schieffelins, of New York, who'll be the guests of the Simon T. Pattersons during the show, and in honor of Alexander Yarnall, of Philadelphia, who'll be their house guest.

Miss Alice Greenleaf Brown, daughter of Mrs. Charles W. Brown, of Sewickley, will give a dinner in the Allegheny Country Club on Saturday, and her guests will include horse show exhibitors and spectators.

The date for the coming out tea of one of the June buds has been changed. Elizabeth McKay, daughter of the Thomas McKays, will make her debut at a tea her mother will give on June 20 instead of June 30 as originally planned. Elizabeth is expected home the latter part of the week from the East where she has been visiting classmates since the close of the year at the French school.

June Debut

Soon the debutantes of the last season or two will all be young matrons. Added to the many notable engagements of the last few weeks is that of Elizabeth McCullough, whose father and mother, the William T. McCulloughs, of Bennington avenue, have made known her engagement to Henry Mason Reed, son of the George Reeds, of Bayard street.

Elizabeth, who is known to her friends as Betty, made her bow to society season before last following her graduation from Miss Wright's school. Bryn Mawr. Mr. Reed prepared for college at Salisbury and went to the University of Virginia.

Yesterday another wedding of interest to Pittsburgh folks took place in Baltimore, Md. H. Elizabeth Cugle, daughter of the Edwin Cugles, was the bride, and she married John Baldwin Neil Benney, son of the Albert Barnes Benneys, of Sewickley. And I might add he is the grandson of the late Brig. Gen. John Baldwin Neil. The ceremony took place late in the afternoon in the Memorial Protestant Episcopal Church, with the Rev. Dr. Benjamin B. Lovett, rector, officiating.

June Wedding

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a princess gown of antique satin with long sleeves and the popular flared skirt, with a flounce of chiffon. Old rose point, a family heirloom, trimmed the gown. Her tulle veil had a cap of rose point, caught with orange blossoms, and her bouquet was of lilies of the valley and white roses.

Mrs. Arunah Sheperdson Abell, III, was her sister's matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were Elizabeth Wistar Huey, Melanie A. Dugan, Carol R. Taylor, Alice Harvey, of Wilmington, Mrs. McElroy Moss, of Washington, a sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Walter Armistead Williams, of Richmond, Va.

And the best man was from Sewickley, Richard R. Quay. The ushers were Arunah S. Abell, III, and Joseph Shirley, of Baltimore; Charles Woods and James Todd, Jr., of Sewickley; William Gordon, of New York; Hugh Nevin, of Lancaster, Pa.; McElroy Moss, of Washington, and George P. Miles, of Princeton.

A small reception was held after the wedding in the home of the Cugles, in Park avenue, for the members of the families and the out-of-town guests. And you will be interested in knowing that the Benneys are to live in Sewickley.

And I know of a dance to be given in honor of Martha Mitchell Yost and her brother, James Mitchell Yost, on the evening of June 28. Martha finishes this month at Miss Porter's School in Farmington, Conn. The dance is to be given by their mother and father, Dr. and Mrs. Walter Milton Yost, of Irwin drive, Sewickley, in the University Club. Tomorrow the Yosts will leave for Farmington.

School Dance

Social affairs always become more and more numerous just before a wedding, feting the bride-elect, and often the bridal party. Anne King Scott and John H. Ricketson, III, whose marriage will take place Monday at noon in the home of the J. King Scotts, of Devon road, will be extensively entertained this week. The Alan Magee Scaifes are to give a dinner on Saturday evening in the Allegheny Country Club, and the following day Dr. and Mrs. Robert Milligan and Peggy Milligan will give a luncheon in their Sewickley Heights home for them. That same evening the Alexander Laughlin Robinsons will give them a dinner in "Franklin Farm," Sewickley Heights. And Mary Mellon McClung will be hostess at the wedding breakfast, on Monday, which will be in the Pittsburgh Golf Club.

To England next month goes Mrs. George R. Harris, of St. James place, where she will spend the summer and will visit friends in Paris on her return.

Among the out-of-town guests who'll attend the wedding of Helen Hoch, of Butler, and William M. Schroeder, on Saturday night at 7:30 o'clock in the Second United Presbyterian Church of Butler, will be the Mark Campbells, of New York; Julia Boyd and Mary Lou Hobbs, of Indianapolis; the Louis Lees, of Utica, N. Y.; Mrs. Joseph Weider, of Schenectady, N. Y., the Howard C. Rices and the J. Hackenheimers, all of Buffalo; the Hugo Ottes and the J. Bruce Allens, of Chicago; Mrs. Alice Houston, of Indiana, Pa., and Mrs. Eva Bergman, of Rochester, N. Y.

Wedding Attracts

A reception and dinner in the Sterling Club, Butler, will follow the wedding.

The annual spring luncheon of the Westmoreland County Pennsylvania College for Women Club is taking place today at 1:30 o'clock in the Pike Run Country Club.

Mrs. Todd Truxal, president of the club, will be in charge, assisted by Mrs. Louis Robinson Schmertz, Mrs. John Barclay, Mrs. Richard Coulter and Mrs. John Hitchman.

Miss Sara Johnstin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Johnstin, of Jenny Lind avenue, McKeesport, became the bride of William Fay Shaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Shaw, also of McKeesport, yesterday morning at 9:45 o'clock in the First Methodist Episcopal Church with the Rev. Dr. L. D. Spaugy officiating.

June Bride

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of French blue lace with matching picture hat and carried calla lilies. Her bridesmaid was her sister, Miss Ruth Johnstin, who wore peach chiffon with matching hat and carried pink roses. Miss Minnie Johnstin, aunt of the bride, played the wedding music, and she wore beige lace. Frank Shaw was his brother's best man and the ushers included R. S. Edwards and Paul Shaw, another brother of the bridegroom.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the Penn McKee Hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Shaw left after the breakfast for Canada.

Miss Georgia Adelia Renwick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Renwick, of Canadaigua, N. Y., became the bride of Dr. Jack H. Clarke, of Smethport and Pittsburgh, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Clarke, of Oakland, in the First Baptist Church on Saturday morning, May 24. Mrs. Sidney Sprinkle, of Marion, Va., sister of the bridegroom, was the bride's only attendant, and Stanley A. McCaskey, Jr., cousin of the bridegroom, was the best man. The ushers included Dr. William Cadwallader, Dr. George Armstrong, Dr. Russell Collins and I. De Witt Johns. A wedding breakfast for the members of the families followed the ceremony. Mrs. Clarke is a graduate of the Normal Gymnastic College in Indiana, and Dr. Clarke is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh, class of 1926.

Wed in Church

Mrs. Thomas Kearns, of Carnegie, announces the marriage of her daughter, Miss Mary Jane Kearns, to Joseph W. Ewing was the bride's only attendant, and John B. Hirsch, of Rainsville, O., was his brother's best man. After a motor trip Mr. and Mrs. Hirsch will live in Beechwood avenue, Carnegie.

THE TUNIC FROCK SLIPS INTO THE LATEST MODE

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, JUNE 3.—If you are sartorially jaded try the effect of a tunic as a tonic. The tunic frock is youthful and for the warm weather is pleasant to wear as it is easy, cool and comfortable. It is a pleasing variant of the one-piece frock and yet is different without being too extreme. The latitude allowed by the mode permits and even welcomes variety, and it is nice to know that our clothes can assist us to be ourselves and still up to the minute in our attire. To be of the mode and still be individual is the highest sartorial achievement, and it is now within the reach of every woman who is sensible enough to know that sense and good judgment can assist a small sum of money to travel far along the path of fashion.

A NEW and pleasing version of the tunic frock is depicted in the appended sketch. It is a Mirande model of pale blue shantung, a felicituous choice for summer wear, and the cool effect is increased by the circularly cut collar and cuffs of white wash crepe. The tunic blouse crosses in front, tying at one side and is very carelessly bloused at the natural waistline. A group of pleats is placed at each side of the skirt to insure ease and freedom of movement.

The other frock sketched at the establishment of Maggy Rouff is of crisp taffeta in a luscious shade of apple green, and the bodice is cut in surplice effect and drawn over to one side. There it is caught beneath two flowers of matching green taffeta. The close-fitting yoke is drawn about the hips and gathered up at the side to a point beneath the flowers, in the same manner as the bodice.

Pretty Bride, Mrs. M. Standish, says

"I'm never going to have 'Dishpan Hands'"

LIKE THOUSANDS of modern brides, Mrs. M. Standish does all her own work, yet keeps her hands looking lovely with Lux. "I resolved"—she writes—"I'd never have 'dishpan hands'—so I use Lux for dishes, for cleaning, for most everything!"

AREN'T THEY CLEVER . . . these pretty young modern brides?

Mrs. Standish is one of thousands who write delightedly—

"We do all our own work, yet our hands look so dainty, so exquisitely cared for—you'd think we had a whole staff of maids at our call!"

They themselves discovered the secret . . . Washing their fine things in Lux, they noticed how nice their hands look afterward. Then they began using Lux for dishes—other soap and water tasks, too.

How quickly their hands showed the difference!

So many soaps, you see, contain harmful alkali which dries up the natural oils of the skin. Leaves it roughened and reddened.

You can feel how different Lux is. Those delicate, sparkling Lux suds haven't a trace of harshening alkali . . . bland, soothing, they tend your hands gently . . . cherish their smooth, white beauty.

Yet this fine beauty care for your hands costs almost nothing. Lux for all your dishes costs less than 1¢ a day!

LUX

DAUGHTERS OF CONFEDERACY ENTERTAIN BLUE AND GRAY VETERANS

Former Foes Greet Each Other as Comrades at Chapter Luncheon

One more line between North and South was obliterated yesterday when the Pittsburgh Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, held its annual luncheon in the Garden Tea Room and had as honor guests a Union veteran, J. A. George, and a Confederate veteran, Dr. Luther E. Jenkins, both of Vandergrift.

It was both significant and impressive to see the friendship between these two men, who once had striven against each other, to hear them call each other comrade and voice their gratitude that North and South had again become one.

Mr. George had fought under Col. James M. Schoonmaker, who helped organize the local chapter of Confederate daughters, and yesterday he paid high tribute to his superior officer and spoke movingly of the present day friendship between the Blue and the Gray. Ninety-two-year-old Dr. Jenkins, in lieu of speech, recited "Pickett's Charge at Gettysburg," which had been written by a 15-year-old Confederate soldier. Mrs. Walter Grace, of Macon, Ga., sharing honors with the two veterans, sketched the life of Jefferson Davis, whose one hundred and twenty-second anniversary the day marked. Mrs. William V. Mahaffey, accompanied by Miss Amelia Lockard, contributed a number of contralto solos most pleasingly sung.

Mrs. John Pryor Cowan, president of the chapter, welcomed the guests and introduced the chairman for the day, Mrs. Ellet Marshall. The luncheon decorations were in the red and white of the Confederacy, roses and daisies together with the Confederate and United States flags being used.

The aeronautical industry is sexless, Louise Thaden told the Women's Press Club yesterday and said that women account for about 40 per cent of the air travel now. The children of today she observed will be the fliers of tomorrow, for their mothers are not only learning to fly themselves, but are planning to place their children in flying schools.

Flier Speaks

The field of actual flying is a small one in itself, but there are many opportunities for women in air transportation, sales and publicity. Concerning air fatalities, Mrs. Thaden said there was only one for every million miles flown last year.

The club met in the Woman's City Club and elected these officers: President, Miss Mary L. Hay; first vice president, Miss Marie McSwigan; second vice president, Miss Helen Donnelly; secretary, Mrs. Helen Shaffer Collins; assistant secretary, Miss Frances Walker; treasurer, Mrs. Anne Ryan Lesh; directors, Miss Anna Bell Craig, Mrs. A. W. Smith, Jr., Miss Bernice Shine, Mrs. Jane G. Burtnett, Mrs. C. M. Bouton and Mrs. Albert J. Dawson.

Mrs. D. Edwin Miller, chairman of the department of education of the Congress of Clubs and of the division of community service in the State Federation, with Mrs. Stephen Byers, federation chairman of American citizenship, together with Mrs. James B. Luther, president of the northwestern district, left last night to attend the biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs in Denver, June 5 to 14. Mrs. Miller will speak at the community service conference the afternoon of the twelfth on "Safety as a Community Service."

Closing its season yesterday, the Monday Club of Carnegie met with Mrs. Howard Wilson, of Washington avenue. Baritone solos by Max Kroen, accompanied by Mrs. John Bigham; readings by Mrs. Florence Lahrmer, and a playlet, "The Other Woman," presented by Mrs. J. H. Mulvey and Mrs. W. J. Connelly, comprised the program.

The third division of the Ladies' Aid Society, Crafton United Presbyterian Church, will serve luncheon in the church dining room tomorrow at 12 o'clock. A Cruise to Unusual Ports will be taken by the Pittsburgh Literary and Musical Club next season. The annual luncheon of the club closed its season yesterday. It was held in the College Club with especially attractive decorations of iris, pansies and white carnations arranged by the social chairman, Mrs. William B. Epley, and her aides, Mrs. Mary C. Cowley, retiring president, introduced Mrs. Walter Ure and her staff, and then as program there was an account of her last summer's trip to Portugal by Mrs. William J. Larock, who appeared in the colorful native dress of the Portugese woman. Mrs. Cowley read communications from friends in Abyssinia and showed some new views of old countries.

REVIEWS OF WAR DRAMA AND NUT COMEDY—HOLLYWOOD MOVIE NOTES

Remarque's Novel of War Turned Into Picture Is Truly Great

By GEORGE SEIBEL.

WHAT "THE CLANSMAN" was to the silent pictures, "All Quiet On the Western Front" is to the talking pictures. But it is far more than that. The picture that opened at the Pitt Theater last night, made from the novel of Erich Maria Remarque which has sold millions of copies, is one of the greatest peace pleas ever sent into the world.

George Seibel

Every stay-at-home who talks about the glory and thrill of war, every "summer soldier and sunshine patriot," ought to be made to see this picture, as he should be made to read the book. Perhaps he wouldn't see the point even then. It sometimes takes humanity thousands of years to learn the simplest lesson.

But here is a picture, like the play of "Journey's End," showing war as war is. It shows the horror, the agony, the filth, the futility. To be sure, it softens it very considerably. You who see this picture should remember that it is sugar coated as compared with the book "Im Westen Nichts Neues." And the book in the English version was considerably bowdlerized. So when you see the picture, a stupendous piece of realism, remember that the book is worse and war still worse.

The great lesson in this picture as in the play of "Journey's End" is that the poor devils rotting and dying in the trenches do not know what the war is about. They have heard nice words like "fatherland" and democracy, but they know that a piece of roast pork and a clean pillow are more satisfying than all the sweet lies that gild malicious stupidity.

GREAT IN EVERY WAY

There is no romance in this picture, no plot or story in the ordinary sense, but it is great in every way.

Young Carl Laemmle who made the production has done epic work. And Lewis Milestone who directed the picture could meet the Frieze of the Parthenon at.

The principal piece of characterization is Katczinsky by Louis Wolheim, a real actor who rose to fame in O'Neill's "Hairy Ape." The hero of the action, if there are any heroes in this picture is played most sympathetically by Lewis Ayres, who has never done anything particular before.

But every member of the large cast is almost equally human and real. Going over the top, dying in hospitals and dugouts, fighting with armies of rats, returning home for a brief furlough to get lessons from the ballroom strategists on how to win the war, in a bewildering succession of scenes so realistic that they stagger the imagination, we see these men condemned to death by diplomats who prate of honor, and a military machine that is obsessed with blood.

Clemenceau, the Tiger in his youth once told the French parliament that governments commit the most atrocious crimes of all. And this picture should be used in evidence.

WHAT PRICE GLORY AGAIN

Maxwell Anderson, who was one of the authors of "What Price Glory," had much to do with furnishing the dialogue for "All Quiet on the Western Front." He too has done his work impeccably, eh.

It is a story with the lesson that Barbusse and Latzko and Zweig have tried to drive home. It is a lesson that Tolstoy and Baroness von Suttner had earlier tried to drive home.

Will humanity learn the lesson?

Until a fluttering flag and the beat of a drum efface it again and propaganda smears its hideous lies across front pages.

Well, Remarque and Laemmle have done their best. One wrote an honest book and the other produced an honest picture. Without mush or gush, here is the image of war painted in blood-curdling colors.

It is the most dramatic and realistic thing ever put upon the screen. Don't miss it!

Whale Exhibition Here Second Week

Offers Magazine Girl $75 Weekly and Finds She Is Famed Actress

By DOROTHY HERZOG.

Copyright, 1930, by Premier Syndicate.

HOLLYWOOD, June 3.

It may be true. It may not be true. But this is the story.

A certain producer, in search of a certain type for a certain picture that had proved next to impossible to find, was looking through a certain magazine. That, at least, is certain. He espied a picture of a dark, beautiful woman.

"Good grief," he yelled, ringing bells like one possessed. "There's the girl we want."

A wire was dispatched hastily to a New York agency offering the actress $75 a week for the duration of production on the picture.

This is the topper. The actress was Katherine Cornell, one of Broadway's most popular stars. Seventy-five dollars a week! Whee!

Katherine Cornell

Seems that Richard Tiffany Thorne is ready to shoot his new flick, "His Last Race," with Wesley Barry, Nancy Dover and Pauline Garon the leads. But he needs a 15-year-old colored girl for a coupla sequences. This C. G. must answer specifications for attractiveness. Thorpe has culled the town in an effort to get the right type.

Pauline Garon, among those in "His Last Race," was visiting in Vancouver at the time she got the job. A wire was sped to her pronto and a few days later Polly breezed into the colony. But she can't do much about it until that colored girl is found.

Pauline Garon

Warren (Fox actor) Hymer's missus bought a set of Madres' Arabian Nights a few weeks ago for $77. Don't ask me what that is. I suspect 'tis some sort of dishware. Be that as it may, Hymer gave his wife "the dickens" for her extravagance. Just the other day, Mrs. Hymer sold the set for $1,500! It turned out to be one of the only 12 of its kind in existance. Warren says now she should have held out for more cash! Husbands are like that.

Colleen Moore is furious. At herself. Her arms "sunburn" freckled instead of chocolate tan. Joan Crawford, likewise. But only her face.

THEY FIND HAL

Hal Cooley reckoned it'd be safe to vacation at a friend's mountain cabin a score of miles south of Agua Caliente. He did. Next day, he was speeding back to Hollywood. Reason: Universal decided to make some added scenes for "What Men Want." With a title like that, quite a few could be added, I should think. To return to Hal, his agent dispatched a wire to him in Mexico. A "pony express rider" galloped the intervening mileage to Hal's cabin. And the discouraged vacationist started the long jaunt back to the grease paint. Being a bit of life as lived in Hollywood.

MADE BY WESTINGHOUSE AFTER 12 YEARS' TESTS

You, too, should demand more convenience! Westinghouse now makes available:

The Buffet-Top — which is really the top of the hood — offering you an outside shelf. It is especially handy when foods are being taken away from or replaced in the cabinet. Step-saving, time-saving — this refinement simplifies your food preparation!

The Temperature-Selector — a legible dial with 7 freezing speeds, each one of which is automatically maintained. It is set where it is most convenient — in the center front panel, arm-high, and is easily adjusted. With this efficient regulator you may hurry up ice cubes and frozen desserts.

Broom-High Legs which allow a full 11-inch clearance for sweeping and cleaning. Their broad, flat glider feet protect your floor covering.

But that is not all! These great engineers experimented for over twelve years before they produced a unit sufficiently compact and efficient. They combined the hermetically sealed unit which makes dust-proof the motor, compressor, and permanent oil supply with a magnetic fan-cooled condenser. A service-free "whisper" action resulted.

To meet your demand for smart appearance, the cabinet was designed symmetrically, with graceful balance — to look efficient, not cumbersome! You may select from five sizes finished in either porcelain or lacquer on sturdy steel.

Come and inspect this new refrigerator thoroughly! Then you will recognize the amazing difference the Westinghouse can make in your household management!

WALTER WINCHELL On Broadway

This Town of Ours

Peggy ("Flying High") Mosley, an eyeful, will Lohengrin it with a Wall St. lad who has plenty. It's a lad over at the Langdon Post's ("Harbor Sanitarium"). The Irving Netchers ("Townsend's brother") were secretly hasti'd in Chi. Helen Henderson, ex-"Follies" femme, who divorced Bob Rice of Geo. Olsen's crew to weld the rich Aaron Bensch only to phfft with Aaron and be re-sealed to Rice, was melted from him last month.

The Gloria Swanson-husband-trouble denial is very amusing. Jimmy Garside gave away over a Grand to the entertainers in a 54th Street asylum the other sunup. Thyra Samter Winslow, the novelist, had to bust an ankle on a new bike to get that much from what dep't store? Shirley O'Hara, once a screen star, but more recently with the Guild's "Meteor," has been a secret bride for 6 months at her Westchester retreat. The new Smart Set will bait the Vanity Fair trade. Ruth Morgan, who was jeweled plenty during her first wk in "Whoopee," may not use her altar-trousseau, after all. Sarojini Naidu, the femme who took Ghandhi's place as salt brewer, and who now is in the Who's Whosegow, lived most of last yr at the Algonquin and was known as "Ramona" to the bellboys. The Armand Vesceys of the Ritz are on the verge.

The Harold Haas' ("Kathryn Ray") are having it quietly abrogated in Mexico. Preston Lewis, of "Sons o' Guns" male ensemble, has been the pianissimo groom of a Philly coin lass for days. Bob Hague, of Standard Oil ("Mme. Bobe's ex") has established a fund for distressed members of the Lambs Club. S. Stevenson, the Park Rowgue, and Mabel Gouldy, a Fort Worth typewriter wrecker, center-aisled it recently. Neva ("Simple Simon") Lynn's real last tag is Novastine. Not joosh, however. Molly O'Day, of H'wood, and George Raft will merge when his squaw gives in. Doc Cook is here incog, doing a sensational piece for "Once-a-Week," a mag. Gwen Lee says she detests N. Y., which she is seeing for the first time from night club ringside tables at 4 every yawning.

The new city editor of the Times started there as a copy boy 25 yrs. ago. They Cy Daubers anticipate it in August. The tasty rice pudding at Moore's is made by his dotter, Annie, upstairs. Tuxedo Park, the most exclusive residential colony in America, has unpronouncable house names. Frixample, Mr. and Mrs. L. Mansfield Ogden live at "Ar-y-Bryn," and Miss Marion T. Scofield dwells at "Sho-chiku-tai". Much funnier is the sign on that Park Avenue posthouse which reads: "Seldom In."

Recommended to diversion seekers: S. S. Van Dine's "The Scarab Murder Case" (Scribners). Judge Jr.'s on W. W. on p. 21 of Judge, which was printed here twenty dozen col'ms ago. Ruth Etting's platter of "Exactly Like You". Jean Barry, the nearest thing to Irene Castle for class, style and dancing at the Central Park Casino. and Gilmore Millen's novel, "Sweet Man" (Viking Press).

The W'worth Bldg. turns its tower light out early since the Manhattan has stolen its thunder. The best beer in New York is made in wood (not steel or iron) on XIth Ave. Amos 'n' Andy will be dined at the Plaza Thursday eve'g with only one columnist crashing the same table for four. Bob ("Road to Rome") Sherwood is London-bound to finish a novel he has juggled for two yrs. Ten publishers have retained Edward L. Bernays, putting up $1,000 each, to fight the $1 books. Bernays' fee being $6,500—the rest to be spent on publicity.

Shortly the phrase: "There's an orange-juice stand for every broken promise on B'way," will be a truism. Geo. G. Haymen, realtor, just closing a deal for 22 stands between 38th and 72nd Streets. In her next musical Fannie Brice will sing a chune tagged: "I Wonder Who's Keeping Him Now". The "Lysistrata" premiere has been bought out by the Philly backers, except, of course, the reviewers' pews. The Selwyns will soon switch their bookings to the Erlanger outfit. Excepting the Bremen and Europa, not one trans-Atlantic liner has sailed to capacity this season.

Nan Blackstone, of the new "Garrick Gaieties," cannot warble unless she is chewing gum. Whatever became of Ethel Barrymore? Helen Broderick, who couldn't get her name in the "50 Million F'men" lights, altho she is an outstanding hit in it, has a swelegant talkie at the Winter Garden, where her name is in bulbs This High. Overheard in a stay-up-late dive: "Lissen, dearie, please pass me my gin—I have a few remarks to make." Bert Smith reports that the Best People are putting boric acid on their grapefruit instead of sugar, so that they can get an eye-wash at the same time! . . . It's a girl at the Jack Renards. That stuff you frequently pick out from the corners of your pockets is called "Phlug."

Prince George is out of the hosp and his Washington, D. C., "heart" has been ordered by Britain to go back to her husband. . . . Dorothy Parker has returned to Switzerland to get the typewriter she left there in Feb'y. . . . Harold Ross, the editor, is high-seaing on another liner to get an article she promised to deliver. . . . Incidentally the Nieuorker's Current Events pages make no sense this issue. The Harold Whalens told it to a judge, who assessed him $75 wkly. Norma Crandall, plenty social, who is only 22, is grayer than cafeteria milk. Benedict Gimbel is hospital-bound. Add squelches: "The trouble with her is that she's everybody's old girl!"

'Siberian' Bunnies Set Merchant Back $1,950

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., June 3. (AP)—George Praska, 50, grocer, is the proprietor of 65 rabbit skins, and is mourning $1,950 he paid for them.

Two men, Poles, one seeking to buy Praska's store, and the other posing as a tailor, entered his place. Then a Rumanian, who said he was a chef on an Atlantic liner, entered with a bundle. He opened it, revealing 65 glossy furs he said he had smuggled.

The "tailor" admiringly called the hides Siberian ermine. The other Pole offered the Rumanian $50 apiece for them. The Rumanian said rather than sell them to a Pole for $50 he'd sell them for $30 to someone else.

Then Praska bit. He went to his bank, drew $1,950 and made a buy. His visitors left in different directions. Praska took the furs to a furrier, who said they were rabbit skins, worth 15 cents each.

Ex-Gov. Smith's Sons Initiated By Tammany

NEW YORK, June 3.—(AP.)—The two sons of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith were initiated into the society of Tammany last night with their father's help.

Full-fledged braves of the order, the younger Smiths then watched the ceremonies which installed their father as one of the 13 sachems.

The installation for all three Smiths had been postponed. The two sons had not been able to attend a meeting previously, though they were elected to membership several months ago.

CUCKOO--THAT'S BERT AND ROBERT IN SHERIDAN

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH.

"The Cuckoos," a musical comedy of laughable nonsense, opened yesterday in the Sheridan Square. It has Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, a couple of goofy comics, in the leading roles.

Messrs. Wheeler and Woolsey appear as a couple of American fortune tellers who find themselves in all kinds of mixups down in Mexico. They incur the enmity of a gypsy chieftain and spend half of the picture dodging a barrage of knives.

At unexpected moments they break into a song or go into a dance. And they broadcast a lot of wisecracks and smart dialogue—some of it new, some of it old.

They are cuckoo, all right. The little Wheeler lad masquerades as a girl, barks like a dog and "falls" for a little gypsy maiden. As for the lanky and bespectacled Woolsey, he puts quarters into gambling machines, rides airplanes and folding beds and makes comedy whoopee in general.

The picture has some Technicolor sequences and that sort of thing. In spots, it goes in for scenic elaborateness. It also develops romance between an American girl and a heroic aviator.

Of course, there are a lot more players in the cast than Bert and Robert. A fact, however, that really doesn't mean so much since Woolsey and Wheeler are "the cuckoos." It is their picture. And it is a cuckoo picture.

YOU HAVE A DOCTOR'S WORD FOR THIS LAXATIVE

In 1855, an eminent doctor was born. He practiced medicine. As a physician he was the leader in his field. Prominent in organization and legislation, he was a power for good in the medical profession.

Out of his experience was born a famous prescription. He wrote it thousands of times. It proved an ideal laxative for old and young. As people saw how marvelously the most sluggish bowels are started and bad breath, headaches, feverishness, nausea, gas, poor appetite, and such disorders are relieved by the prescription, it became necessary to put it up ready for use. Today Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as it is called, is the world's most popular laxative. It never varies from Dr. Caldwell's original effective and harmless formula. All druggists have it.

BISSONETTE-GILBERT HELP DODGERS

WHILE THERE IS no discounting the important parts that Glenn Wright, Babe Herman, Johnny Frederick, Dazzy Vance and others have played in turning the Brooklyn club into a formidable contender for the National League pennant after five consecutive years in sixth place, it strikes an outsider that two of the main cogs in Wilbert Robinson's surprising machine are being generally overlooked. They are First Baseman Del Bissonette and Third Baseman Walter Gilbert. You don't hear much about either of them when the Dodgers' spring drive is being discussed, but they have been big factors in making the club a real pennant threat.

Del Bissonette

Few players in the majors this spring have broken up as many close games with timely smashes as Bissonette has done. A bean ball cut him down last year but did not make him gun-shy. His batting average up to date is .376, he is one of only eight players in the big show who have made five hits in a nine-inning game, and the extent to which he has helped the Robins in their climb to first place may be judged from the fact that he has knocked in 41 runs.

ONLY ONE BATSMAN in the National League has driven in a greater number of tallies, that player being a teammate, Babe Herman, who has pounded in 44. The only American League hitters who have punched home more markers are Jimmy Foxx and Al Simmons, who have 45 and 43 to their credit, respectively. Besides starring on the offensive, Bissonette, though not the greatest thrower in the position, is playing a bang-up game at first base.

Across the diamond, Gilbert also has contributed much to the spring success of his club. He may not be quite up to the standards of Pie Traynor, Freddie Lindstrom or Pinky Whitney, but he is a mighty serviceable third sacker and who makes hard chances look easy and a dependable hitter in the difficult second notch. He is a fighter and plugger of the quiet type that rarely gets the attention of the crowd but whose worth is suddenly realized when he happens to be absent from the lineup.

THOUGH MOST OF the Dodgers have been playing smart baseball as a rule, a boner was pulled the other day that you'd hardly expect to see committed by any major league club, much less a first-place team.

Babe Herman

It was one for Ripley. Believe it or not, Bissonette hit a fair ball over the right field wall in Brooklyn and yet got only a single and was called out.

WITH JOHNNY FREDERICK on second base and Herman on first, Bissonette sent a high fly to right field. Herman waited on first base, thinking that the ball might drop inside and be caught. However, the pill dropped a few inches on the other side of the fence, and Bissonette, with his eye on the ball, rounded the initial sack and ran past Herman. He was immediately and rightly called out for passing a preceding base runner. Frederick and Herman scored on the hit, but Bissonette got only a single instead of a home run. More evidence that anything can happen in baseball.*

WHILE THE ATHLETICS were going through their hitting practice before the exhibition game with the Pirates at Forbes Field yesterday afternoon, Jimmy Foxx, who leads both big leagues at knocking in runs, showed one of the traits that make him a valuable star and a sample of the spirit that lifted the A's to the world championship.

After taking a few turns at bat himself, and incidentally driving the ball over the left-center wall twice, Foxx relieved the practice flinger and pitched to the other hitters for some time. Not many stars are seen doing that and it may be argued that it is risky business to take such a chance in these days when there is danger of being crippled by the lively ball, but the act showed Jimmy to be a player who is willing to do anything at any time in the interests of his club.

IT HAD BEEN generally expected that Pitcher Ralph Erickson would be one of the Pirates to go when the Pittsburgh club reduced its forces, so the outright release of the southpaw to Columbia last night before the Bucs started on their Eastern trip did not come as a surprise to the fans.

Ralph Erickson

Erickson had shown nothing to indicate that he would be of any assistance to the Rovers on the hard tour, even though the pitching staff is short-handed. Doing relief duty in seven games, he was nicked for 21 hits and 11 earned runs in a total of 13 2-3 innings. The Bucs will have to drop only one more player to get down to the limit of 25 that will go into force on June 16.

IT'S ONE THING to be a winning club at home, but keeping it up on the road is another thing again. As expected, these Cardinals haven't looked so much like pennant prospects since they left their own lot. After winning 17 out of 18 consecutive games, they have now lost seven straight abroad—one to the Pirates, three to the Cubs, two to the Reds and one yesterday to the Phils. They haven't won a game since they beat the Bucs a week ago yesterday. Washington, another club that was beating everything at its own park, has lost five games in a row.*

THE OLDEST OF all the great Derby racing events and the one that draws the greatest crowd, will have its annual running tomorrow, when the 1930 renewal of the famous English Derby will be decided over the Epsom Downs course. This classic is 150 years old, having been run first in 1780. Diolite has ruled the favorite this year at 5 to 2.

American interest centers in Scout II, entered by William Woodward, owner of Gallant Fox. Both Scout II and Gallant Fox are sons of Sir Gallahad III and were bred at Woodward's Belair Stud, in Prince Georges County, Md. A victory for Scout II tomorrow would

DIOLITE DERBY FAVORITE

LONDON, June 3.—(AP.)—With Sir Hugo Hirst's Diolite still the reigning favorite to win the renewal of the Epsom Downs Derby tomorrow, the field was narrowed down to 11 with the scratching of Lord Derby's Caerleon. Diolite is quoted at 5 to 2.

The scratching of Lord Derby's 3-year-old leaves the English sportsman without a representative in the mile and one-half classic for the first time in recent years. Lord D. by originally named four for the rich stake but Caerleon was the only one declared last week. The 3-year-old rolled up lame yesterday after a stiff workout.

The 19 probable starters, their owners and the latest betting odds follow:

WILLIE COMES FROM REAR TO WIN

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Willie Davies, of Charleroi, may yet scale the championship heights. This fact is brought home today in the light of his sensational victory in the Meyers Bowl, North Braddock, last night over Black Bill, of Cuba, the ebony mite who recently eliminated him from the flyweight tournament in New York which saw Bill bow to Midget Wolgast in the final round. Wolgast alone now stands ahead of Davies, who last summer, in the same ring in which he fought last night, decisively defeated Frankie Genaro and Corp. Izzy Schwartz, both claimants of the title, and Davies has fought him a number of times with varying success.

Willie Davies

Davies and Black Bill were meeting for the fifth time last night, and, of these many clashes, the Cuban has won only one, but the one that counted the most, the tournament elimination. The first bout between them, in Philadelphia, went to Davies, and the next two were 12-round draws in Havana, Black Bill's home town. Came then the New York debacle for Davies, which he avenged last night only after a bad start from which he rallied to stage a thrilling and courageous uphill battle to attain the split decision of the judges and the referee amid the tumultuous applause of the crowd. Judge Frank Ferris called the bout a draw, but Judge Simco and Referee Al Grayber rightly awarded it to Davies.

RALLIES TO WIN

Wee Willie had no cakewalk against his dusky foe. In fact, for the first few rounds, it appeared that he was doomed to decisive defeat, and he had to call upon all of his superb ringcraft, fighting heart and consummate boxing skill to stem the tide and then begin his long, arduous trek over lost ground until he got out in the clear and could make his drive for victory.

It was a solid punch on the jaw from the right fist of the Bill, a small edition of our own Jackie Rodgers, both in color, appearance and manner of punching solidly to the head and body with a loaded right fist, that got Willie into trouble early. The local star began to force the fighting with the tap of the opening gong, as Black Bill danced lightly away from the straight jabs aimed in his direction. After about a minute of these tactics, Willie finally backed the Cuban to the ropes and scored cleanly with a right and a solid left hook to the head. He continued to force the going until just before the bell, when Black Bill contrived to trap him in Willie's own corner and bounced a solid right off his chin. The blow hurt Willie and forced him to hold on. Bill tried hard to shake him off to follow up his advantage and did manage to score cleanly several times, and, with the effects of his one big punch, evened up for Willie's scattered scoring during the major part of the round.

WILLIE WEAK AND HURT

Willie again took the offensive at the start of the second round and was going along nicely until he elected to slug in midring and was knocked off balance with a high right. Another right sent

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE BRUNSWICK SPRINGS—As a natural curiosity the Brunswick Springs are unique in that, side by side, six springs of different mineral composition spring from the soil. The different mineral substances are aresenic, bromide, sulphur, magnesia, calcium, and iron. Mineral springs obtain their chemical substances from the rocks through which they flow. The occurrence in the geological formation of six different minerals in a row is very remarkable.

PHILS RELEASE ALEXANDER

PHILADELPHIA, June 3.—Grover Cleveland Alexander, veteran hurler of the Chicago and Philadelphia National League clubs, was released today by the Phillies.

He was declared a free agent, all the clubs in the league having waived on him.

Alexander broke in with the Phillies in 1911 as a rookie from Syracuse and later became the pitching marvel of the senior league.

Alexander, though released, was not cut off the Baker payroll today. He will be kept on the list until he lands a job. Alex, satisfied he no longer can fool major league batsmen, wants to pitch on the Pacific Coast. He feels that if a veteran like Crandal gets by he can do likewise. Officials of the local club are trying to obtain a position for Alex on the coast.

Sent home by the St. Louis Cards last season for breaking training rules, an offense which previously had brought him his release from the Cubs, Alexander was thought to be through. The Phillies, though, arranged with the Cards for the transfer of Alex to the local club last winter. He was signed to coach the young hurlers and act as a relief pitcher.

Down South he did a good job as coach, but since the season opened he has not been successful as either a starting or relief hurler. On his last home appearance he was driven from the mound.

Alex the Great leaves the National League with a wonderful record. From 1911 to 1929 he always turned in more victories than defeats. In 19 years of major league pitching he took part in 578 contests, winning 373 and losing 205.

Midget Wolgast Gets Bid to Box Davies

Negotiations for a Willie Davies-Midget Wolgast title bout at the Meyers Bowl, where Davies last night defeated Black Bill, were begun this morning when Matchmaker Jules Beck wired Johnny Keyes, of New York, manager of Wolgast, the world flyweight champion, an offer to box Davies here with the crown at stake on July 7.

Beck offered to go to New York to close the match, if necessary. Wolgast is scheduled to defend his crown against Frankie Genaro, whom Davies already has beaten, at the Polo Grounds, New York, June 26.

Swiss Navy No Joke, Ripley Declares

Choosing Switzerland as a spot for enlightenment and the debunking of unfounded historical facts, Robert L. (Believe It or Not) Ripley startled radio listeners in his regular weekly Monday night broadcast last evening by asserting that there was a Swiss Navy, that it was no joke, and that there are yet several retired admirals.

The modern Marco Polo of the air went on further and explained how the Swiss Navy, one of the oldest of navies, navigated on lakes covering three frontiers. As a further disillusionment, Ripley exploded the story of William Tell and the apple by saying that there never were any apple trees in the state where Tell lived. The Believe-It-or-Not man admits that William Tell might have used some other wand of fruit.

Ripley is on the air every Monday night over a National Broadcasting network for the Colonial Beaconlights program, offering to radio fans a half hour of Believe It or Nots.

SIMPSON HONORED

COLUMBUS, O., June 3.—(AP.)—George Simpson, Ohio State University dash man, was elected honorary captain of the 1930 track team at a banquet for track men here last night. Simpson was given the unanimous vote of the team.

NEW YORK, June 3.—The Pirates are set to start their first Eastern invasion this afternoon. Jewel Ens led his charges into New York this morning, the Pittsburgh card calling for three succeeding afternoons in the Flatbush section of Brooklyn.

The skipper stated this morning that Remy Kremer would be on the mound in the first clash with the Robins. He will be received by Rolly Hemsley. Uncle Robbie is expected to throw William Watson Clark, a lefthander, at the Pittsburgh athletes.

Paul Waner and Ervin Brame, two of the convalescent sick, came over with the team last night, but neither is ready to play. Brother Paul's injured hip seems to be on the mend. Manager Ens being of the opinion that warm weather will do his ailment more good than the doctors.

BRAME RECOVERING

Brame took part in the workout sessions at Forbes Field yesterday. The star pitcher and feared slugger was wobbly in the legs after his sickness, but he should be ready to go to the slab in a few days. Brame's absence has been very costly to the club.

Ens also stated that he will let Dick Bartell rest for a day or two. The hustling shortstop ran into a slump with some of the others and Ens took him out to benefit him rather than to cast any slur on his playing. Meantime, Charlie Engle will hold forth in the shortfield and bat in the lead-off position.

ERICKSON RELEASED

Before the team left Pittsburgh last night, Pirate officials announced the outright release of Southpaw Ralph (Lief) Erickson

MAX CAREY OUT AT FIRST BASE

Believe it or not, but Max Carey, former Pirate star outfielder, and now coach of the club, got back into the lineup for a spell yesterday, taking his old post in middle field in the sixth inning in the exhibition game against the Philadelphia Athletics. He had a putout and in two chances at b aiwas retired each time on a grounder. Photo shows him being tossed out at first base on a throw from Second Baseman Williams in the eighth inning. The fans were hoping he would get on base so they could get an exhibition of his oldtime jockeying with the pitcher on the sacks. Max was one of the greatest baserunners of all time.

LEADERS MAY CHANGE IN SANDLOT LEAGUES

ACES TO FACE UNDEFEATED DORMONT

SANDLOT GAMES TODAY

WEST PENN LEAGUE

CENTRAL LEAGUE

C. & I. LEAGUE

By TOM BIRKS

The Central and West Penn Leagues each Sunday three big games, held for spotlight on the local sandlots this evening. All of the battles should be interesting as the leadership of both leagues may be changed.

The Beckman Motors club with Tommy Carson's Allegheny Collegians at Dean Field Y. M. H. A. goes to Warrington Park to do its stuff with Fuller, and the third battle brings Duke Traders into action at Moellers Park with the Coulettes of the Rib providing the opposition. There are six Central circuit tussles.

CENTRAL RACE CLOSE

The Central League is staging the tightest race in the city. All the clubs named with the exception of the Coulette are very much in the running.

Homestead Aces at Dormont, Verona Commonts at Homewood and Universal at North Bessemer should give the followers of the West Penn loop plenty to enthuse over this evening. Dormont is leading the race being undefeated, but Jack Fetig's classy band of hard playing sandlotters may upset the dope. The fans from around Dormont will see a pepperty bunch in action when the Aces get into action.

Verona should pack in the fans at Homewood. Isherwood probably will oppose Bunny Steele on the slab.

The third game finds those old rivals, North Bessemer and Universal tangling at the Railroad grounds. Much rivalry exists between these teams and Managers De Maria and McKeag have their charges pepped up for the game.

In the Commercial and Industrial League the B. & O. aggregation, all very much in the pennant race will clash with Carnegie Steel at Bergwin Park.

The Grays play at National Tube in the big independent game.

BOOK SHOE WINS

Book Shoe continued its winning pace in the City League last evening, moving out the Jimmy Smiths by a 4 to 3 score. The North Side Civics defeated the J. L. Thomas nine in a slugfest, 21 to 11. W. O. W. hammered out an 11 to 5 win over St. Johns, and Pleasant Valley and Stowe tied 4 to 4.

In the West Penn circuit Homewood defeated Whitaker in a close game 5 to 4 and North Bessemer defeated the Homestead Aces, 6-5. Verona topped Universal 7 to 2 in the Greater Pittsburgh League and the Methodists tied the Presbyterians 4 to 4, in the Crafton-Ingram Church League.

MILKMEN BEATEN

Reliance Life maintained its firm grasp on first place in the C. and I. League by defeating Rieck-McJunkins 6 to 3. Ravenscroft tied Mellon Bank 3 to 3 and National Union defeated McCreery's, 15 to 2, in the Commercial loop. Colliers won over the Swetonics in the Commercial League, 8 to 6.

The Homestead Grays led the Independent tussling by defeating Rochester of the Beaver County League, 9 to 3. Sunset downed St. Francis Cubs, 8 to 4, and Summers defeated North Bessemer, 5 to 4.

DAVIES RALLIES TO DEFEAT BLACK BILL

Willie reeling again. As he strove to settle down, Willie found himself rushed by his opponent and fell back weakly into the ropes and down to the floor. He was covered up on the ropes when the bell rang and appeared to be in a bad way.

Again in the third round Davies got off to a lead with his boxing only to lose it when he began to slug with his slugger for. Late in the round he was caught out of position in a neutral corner and Black Bill sent home a solid right to the body that turned Willie completely around. Again he was painfully hurt and he was being driven about by Black Bill when the round ended.

That was the end of Black Bill's winning campaign for Davies changed his tactics with the beginning of the fourth round and swept the last seven rounds without a miss. Bringing into play his high left hand lead he managed to impair Bill

DAVIES RALLIES TROJAN SQUAD TO DEFEAT CHOICE FOR NATIONALS

By JESS CARVER.

The sigh of relief that will be heaved by we'uns of the East and those'uns of the Middle West after this tough Southern California track team gits fer home after the National Intercollegiate in Chicago Saturday will not be as deep and profound as it might be. For the Trojans go but to return next year possibly stronger than ever.

George Simpson

I used the term "we'uns" in the above meanin' you and you and you. Personally, I refuse to sigh over anything anymore save some of the draws I make to a pair of treys.

Southern California, winnahs in I. C. A. A. A. A. meet at Boston last week, has entered its entire squad in the Nationals, and figures to add this title to its list. If it does, the Cromwellians may justly claim the national championship.

NINE SOPHMORES

But what I was getting at is this. Of the team that wrecked Stanford's three-year rule of the roost at the I. C. 4-A's, nine of the 16 Trojan point getters were sophmores, which means that in 1931 the Pacific Coast varsity will start athletes who collected some 37½ points this year. And because we are civilized, we must turn the welcome side of the mat up.

Southern California's path to victory at Chicago Friday and Saturday probably will not be as rosy as it was at Boston, for the reason that the Western Conference will throw its strength into a barrier that may stop the Trojans. Frank Wykoff won't have the hundred all to himself for George Simpson, the "Oh-Hee-Ho Comet," will be on deck to retain his title in both the century and furlong.

SENTMAN TO RUN

Sentman, Illinois' crack hurdler, will give the Coast timber toppers something to think about, and our own Pete Bowen, who'll be on hand for the quarter-mile, will cut further into the scoring of the boys from the Far West.

Following are a few of the boys eligible for the Intercollegiate hundred, thoroughbreds all and how.

Sprinter	School	Best time
Simpson	Ohio State	0:09.6
Tolan	Michigan	0:09.6
Dyer	Stanford	0:09.7
Wykoff	Southern Cal.	0:09.6
Meirn	Iowa State	0:09.7
Bowen	Pitt	0:09.7
Leland	Tex. Christian	0:09.7
Bracey	Rice Inst.	0:09.7

*Doubtful starter.

The Tipoff

Stanford, runners up to U. S. C. in the I. C. A. A. A. A. meet and deposed champions, will not enter the full squad at Chicago, but will be represented by Burkett and Kraus, champion weight stars, while Hector Dyer is a doubtful starter.

Woody Harris, who'll run for Pitt in the Windy City meet is also an entrant in the A. A. A. 440-yard run championship in the annual title meet here June 14. He'll be a serious threat to Bill Miller, Pitt freshman star, who will seek the laps now held by Bowen.

If Bill Batchender, of Grove City, Morgan of Peabody, Dyer of Fond City and the Schenckbark boys all compete in the A. M. A. meet the 100-yard dash will boast the strongest field of the entire meet.

Bowen, you know, will not be a contestant in the A. M. A. carnival this year, he being one among several required to this effect. Pete will compete for the New York A. C. in the future in open meets and is listed under the Metropolitan section of the A. A. U.

Geneva College's custom of presenting a medal to the opponent possessing the greatest qualities of sportsmanship at the annual Conference track and field meet is a commendable one and might well be followed by members of the Big Four, which, in track at least this year, were not so big.

Henry Chellant, of Pittsburgh, yesterday was named manager of the 1931 Harvard track team.

Dr. H. Clifford Carlson, coach of the University of Pittsburgh basketball team, leaves tonight for Logan, Utah, to conduct a coaching school at the Utah Agricultural College from June 9 to 13.

Fox Chapel Country Club will be the scene of the University of Pittsburgh-University of California tennis match tomorrow afternoon.

TO BATTLE HERE

ONE ROUND HOGAN

His first name's Nathaniel and this 6-foot, 2½-inch, 185-pound Negro boxer is ready to battle any heavyweight in these parts. All of the promoters in the district are scouring around for opponents for him. He has been here about a month and hails from California and is highly recommended. Jack London is his manager.

Nick Altrock Says:

DETROIT, June 3.—The Eastern clubs are starting their first Western trip today. The Yanks, A's and our club fear nothing, but the Red Sox will probably come back in a pine box. Philadelphia is at both ends of the big leagues this morning. The Phillies are so sure of staying in the cellar they have ordered next winter's coal, but our Washington club is already collecting banana peels to put under the A's. Any team that dropped as fast as we did last week is sure to bounce back. I see 43,000 Boston customers turned out Sunday to watch the Braves. If Boston ever had a first division club those turnstiles would click like electric fans.

SCHOOL TITLE PRIZE TODAY

The 1930 baseball championship of the City League may be settled once and for all this evening as Oliver and Schenley clash in the second game of the titular series at Forbes Field, with Oliver one up on the defending champions.

Last week, Oliver, Section II champs, defeated the crack Schenley aggregation 5 to 3. Schenley has won the City League gonfalon three years running, and had high hopes of making it four in a row until stopped by Huns Carmody and the North Side hitters last week. This evening, Pinkey Freeland, southpaw star, will oppose the Bellefielders, while Schenley will depend on Stew Studnicki, no-hit, no-run star, to even the count in the title series.

Schenley's slugging trio, Mihm, Moran and Douglass, were held hitless in the first game by Carmody, and it is the hope of the Oakland followers that this trio regains slugging form in this evening's game.

The game is scheduled to start promptly at 6:30 p. m., and will be played at Forbes Field with Schenley as the home club.

ONE BIG LEAGUE trade before the lid goes down in less than two weeks may send George Kelly, the Cincinnati first baseman, to the Braves.

Manager Bill McKechnie is said to be after Kelly and it is reported that the Cincinnati management is willing to make a trade for the big fellow, now that it has Pat Crawford, as well as Harry Heilmann, available for first-base duty.

George Fisher

M'KECHNIE ALSO HAS remained firm in his refusal to waive on Pitcher Fred Frankhouse, of the Cardinals, and continues to block the efforts of the St. Louis club to send that hurler to one of its minor league plants. On the same waiver request, however, McKechnie and all the other big league managers are said to have passed up Outfielder George Fisher and the latter is booked to go back to the minors following a start in April that was the sensation of the big loops. After being traded to the Cards by John McGraw for Walter Roettger, Fisher made eight hits in nine times at bat in the first two games of the year and kept up his batting stride so well that his average up to today was .405, but as a fielder he is said to be a liability. Even when Fisher was going so flashily in April some veteran baseball men predicted that he wouldn't last and they appear to have had the right dope.*

CARDS LOSE TO PHILS IN EASTERN DEBUT

QUAKERS RALLY TO DEFEAT REDBIRDS

Associated Press.

The lowly Phils, battling to get out of the cellar, have turned back the first western assault in the National League this season.

While all other major league clubs rested yesterday in preparation for general East-West engagements, the Phils outslugged the St. Louis Cardinals at Philadelphia, 9-6, in a preliminary skirmish of intersectional warfare.

The victory lifted the Phils a half game closer to seventh place with the Cards, league leaders not long ago, now hold a lead of only one game over the fourth place Pittsburgh Pirates and trail the second place Cubs by one full game.

CARDS TAKE LEAD

The Cardinals apparently had yesterday's battle won as early as the first inning when Chick Hafey hit Collins for a home run with two on, bringing the total count for the inning to four runs. The Cards touched Collins for two more runs in the fifth but could do nothing at all with Ace Elliott who relieved him in the seventh. Bill Hallahan, the Cards speedball ace, sailed along smoothly for three innings but the Phils reached him for pairs of runs in the fourth and fifth innings.

PHILS RALLY

Entering the seventh the Cards held a two-run lead but Hallahan was driven out of the box in the last half of that frame as the Phils rushed into the lead with three runs. Bell pitched the rest of the game and was nicked for two more runs in the eighth. Arthur Whitney, was the batting star of the day with two doubles and two singles.

The American League scored two victories over the National in exhibition games. The New York Yankees defeated Cincinnati, 8-5, and the Philadelphia Athletics conquered Pittsburgh, 8-2.

CENTRAL TEAMS SET RECORD

FORT WAYNE, Ind., June 3.—(AP.)—What is believed to be a record for high scoring in modern league baseball was established here yesterday, when Springfield, O., defeated Fort Wayne in a Central League game, 38 to 18.

The total of 56 runs excels by 10 the previous record of 28 for one team, made by the St. Louis Cardinals over Philadelphia last year, and the two-team total of 56 compares with 49 rung up in 1922 when the Chicago Nationals defeated Philadelphia 26 to 23.

Springfield batters made 11 of the 14 home runs scored in the game. Their 33 hits also included five doubles. Outfielder Reider finished pitching for Fort Wayne after three regular hurlers had been batted from the hill. The score:

KID GLEASON — JAMES (RED) MASON

Friends of many years' standing, Mason, veteran local fight manager, and Gleason, coach of the Philadelphia Athletics, and a former big league star and manager, greeted each other when the World Champion Athletics came here yesterday to play an exhibition game with the Pirates at Forbes Field.

to the Columbia club of the South Atlantic League.

The big lefthander has been a disappointment to Manager Ens since the season opened. Lief was impressive during the spring training period, but he was unable to reach a convincing stride in the relief roles assigned to him at many intervals.

Erickson is a graduate of the University of Idaho. He reported to the Buccos last spring at Paso Robles and showed so much stuff that he was placed on the Columbia farm. There he enjoyed a big season. The Columbia club is owned by the Pirates, so that if Erickson should find himself, the Buccos would have the first crack at his services.

ATHLETICS BEAT BUCS

The world champion Athletics administered an 8-to-2 defeat to the Pirates in an inter-league tilt at Forbes Field yesterday. The celebrated A's jumped on Percy Jones for five runs in the first inning but the Pirate southpaw was puzzling to the American Leaguers in most of the remaining frames.

Bill Shores, a Texas League graduate who rendered good work to Connie Mack last season, let the Buccos down with six hits.

Max (Scoops) Carey went to his oldtime centerfield post in the sixth inning, the former star drawing a big ovation.

Sport Vignettes

What this world needs, in addition to a good nickel cigar, are new realms for Bobby Jones and Lindy to conquer . . . . Not to mention our Pirates and the Boston Red Sox . . . . Bobby's in a tough spot now. All that remains for him in golf is the exercise . . . . Remember 'way back, a decade and a half ago, when the Atlanta marvel made his debut on the Big Time playing in short pants at Merion? . . . . He startled the world even then, but a little later the sages of the game predicted that he'd never amount to anything because of his temper, which induced him to break his clubs like any other dub when he missed a sucker shot . . . . But the boy grew older, and look where he is today . . . . Billy Arnold, the youthful winner of the Indianapolis Speedway race, admits he is a fatalist . . . . They all have to be in that game, or they will lack the courage to drive on in the face of always impending death . . . . Most racing drivers believe they will die a natural and peaceful death away from the roar of the motors . . . . If they ever entertain fear of death in a race, it must be with the thought that it would be a glorious and sudden and painless way to kick off this mundane sphere with the cheers of the crowd still in their ears . . . . The classic Belmont Stakes for 3-year-olds, to be run next Saturday, looks like a two-hoss race between Gallant Fox, winner of the Preakness and the Kentucky Derby, and Which One . . . . Bringing back to mind the 1920 duel in the same event between Man O'War and John P. Grier . . . . It is entirely possible that the field will be scratched to permit these two outstanding thoroughbreds to battle it out alone . . . . Some great names in the turf world have won the Belmont, named for August Belmont, president of the American Jockey Club at the time of its inception . . . . In the list are included Hanover, Burgomaster, Peter Pan, Colin, Sweep, Friar Rock, Hourless, Johren, Sir Barton, Man O'War, Grey Lag, The Finn, Zev, Crusader, Chance Shot and Luke McLuke . . . . Don't let anyone tell you that our Pirates could have taken the lead in the National League by winning yesterday's exhibition game with the Athletics, which they didn't . . . . The English Derby at Epsom Downs tomorrow will be the one hundred and fifty-first renewal of that feature and millions of dollars already have been wagered on it in the Calcutta and other sweepstakes . . . . Because of these sweeps, which are worldwide in their scope, it is just about the "bettingest" race in the world.—HARRY KECK.

Hornsby Expects To Play Again Soon

ST. LOUIS, June 3.—(INS.)—Limping on crutches and with his foot in a cast, Rogers Hornsby, star second baseman of the Chicago Cubs, today asserted that he will be back in the lineup within six weeks.

Hornsby denied that he will be unable to play any more this season.

WILLIAMS WINS

NEW YORK, June 3.—(AP.)—Lee Williams, New York Negro, decisively defeated Izzy Grove, also of New York, in a 10-round bout at Dexter Park, Brooklyn, last night. Williams floored Grove for two counts of nine in the sixth round and led all the way. He weighed 174; Grove 182. Hubert Gillis, of Belgium, 138½, defeated Mike Barko, New York, 138, in an eight-rounder.

TOMPAY SETS RECORD AT BRIDGEVILLE

Tompay, from the kennel of George Denuma, won the distance affair at the Bridgeville Speedway last night. A new record, 13 seconds flat, for the distance was established, cutting the previous mark two-fifths of a second. Alert at the start, Tompay broke on top and was never headed, crossing the finish line three lengths in front of Jerry Ray, a fast-closing second.

Gallant Bee showed his heels to a smart lot by winning the quarter-mile speed affair. Postage Due, the favorite, a winner of both the Inaugural and the Memorial Day Special, finished fast to save third.

At New Kensington, long shots featured the program, the first five winners coming home at good prices. Rules, in the fourth race, topped the list by paying $12.60, $8.60 and $4.40.

Sharkey Inspired for Bout By Support of Fans

By JACK SHARKEY,
American Heavyweight Champion.

ORANGEBURG, N. Y., June 3.—At no time in my boxing career has the public been so solidly behind me as since I started to get ready for my 15-round world heavyweight championship battle with Max Schmeling, which will be staged at the Yankee Stadium, New York City, Thursday of next week. It has been very gratifying to me to know that the American public is according me such hearty support.

Ever since the Schmeling match was closed I have felt very confident of my ability to win. This feeling of confidence has increased as great friendly crowds have greeted me everywhere I have gone and have urged me to conquer the German champion.

I realize that the public's interest in me is due to the fact I shall be the standard bearer of the United States in the coming international match. For years America has been supreme in boxing, as is true of most other forms of athletics. The fans look to me to maintain America's position. I recognize the great trust that has been placed on my hands and I shall try my best to live up to the highest traditions of American boxing.

Jack Sharkey.

BREAKS TRAINING GRIND

I am back working hard at my training camp. I broke the routine of training a week ago by making a hurried trip to my home in Boston. At that time I had been training for four weeks and was a little bit too far advanced in my work.

Two days at home relieved the strain of training and gave Mrs. Sharkey and myself an opportunity to enjoy the company of our three children. One of the hardest things about getting ready for a boxing bout is that it is necessary to spend so much time away from home.

This is the reason why, after several of my big bouts in New York, Mrs. Sharkey and I have started home at midnight. An all-night motor trip is enjoyable when home is the destination.

From now until I end training I shall keep going at a lively clip. I already am in good condition and could step into the ring tonight if necessary.

Without taking any chances of going stale, I shall devote most of my time to boxing. Road work and gym exercises have built up my wind. I have done much boxing here, but I shall do more.

I am fortunate in having as sparring partners Johnny Grosso, Paul Cavalier and King Solomon. All are good boxers and have been of great assistance to me.

STUDIES OPPONENTS

In my recent boxing drills, I have been practicing a variety of punches that can be used in different methods of attack and defense. I saw Schmeling battle Paulino and so have a good line on how he shapes up. I also have studied the fast and slow motion pictures of their bout.

It is very helpful to a boxer to study pictures and movies showing his opponent in action. That help also is valuable in preparing up on football. The late Percy Haughton, famous Harvard football coach, used to have the newspaper photographers furnish him with a complete set of pictures of every Harvard game. He studied the position of the players in the pictures and then pointed out their faults to his charges.

I study the movies and pictures of my bouts as well. In this way I detect my own errors and try to correct them.

It is only by constant study that one can master the details of boxing.

Meanwhile, I will stick close to my training, as I am determined that the heavyweight championship shall not leave this country.

Carey on Air Over WMMN Tonight

Coach Max Carey, former Pirate star centerfielder, who was one of the heroes of the 1925 titular fights between the Buccos and Washington Senators will be heard tonight at 8:30 over Station WMMN, Fairmont, W. Va., on the high spots of the last game of that eventful series.

Carey, in conjunction with Ros Rowswell, recently put this game on records, the rendition of which over [illegible] radio is said to be exceptionally good.

JOHNNIES WIN AGAIN; COLTS VICTORS

McCallister walloped a home run in the first inning for the Jays with no one on base.

At Clarksburg, the Generals defeated Charleroi, 7 to 2, the hitting of Fillingham and the fine hurling of Jorgens featuring.

The Cumberland Colts defeated Scottdale at Cumberland, 6 to 1. Stub Rase hurling fine ball. Davis hit a home run in the first inning for the Colts with a man on base.

Wheeling lost another game at Wheeling, the Fairmont Black Diamonds slugging out an 11 to 6 triumph.

BLANTON O. K.'D AFTER FIGHT

WASHINGTON, June 3.—(AP)—Fiery "Tom" Blanton, a veteran of many Congressional disputes, came back to his old seat in the House to find new trouble awaiting him.

The Texas Democrat took the oath after a week's delay to receive his election credentials but immediately after his induction a resolution was offered calling for an investigation of charges he had made in political advertising during the campaign.

The resolution was offered by Representative Clancy, Rep., of Michigan, and was referred to an election committee. Clancy offered the measure after he had sought unsuccessfully to prevent the Texan from taking the oath.

A point of order was raised against the measure but Speaker Longworth overruled it after deciding that the advertisement "attacked the integrity of the House." He read extracts from the advertisement stating that bad bills of every kind pass without reading in the closing days of a session and that Blanton knows how to stop and kill steals.

The Texan later replied to the Michigan member. He insisted his criticism of the closing days of Congress was justified, but said that by steals he meant "not the steals that Congressmen were making but steals that men outside Congress were making."

WHAT DO YOU KNOW ABOUT "OFFICE WIVES"?

BECAUSE the private secretary comes so close to her employer she has set herself a new standard of men. The young business woman who may not be at all emotionally involved with the man to whom she gives her working hours, finds nevertheless that her personal life is colored and complicated by her association with this man. And if she has standards of comparison, so, by the same token, has the business man. How many business men wish futilely that their homes could be run as well as their offices, and their wives comprehend their needs as swiftly as their secretaries!

"No woman," said Ted O'Hara brutally, "gives herself, sacrifices herself for a job. The only reason is—for a man." And though Anne Murdock was femininely angry at that, she knew well enough it was true.

Once she had admitted to herself that she loved her employer, Lawrence Eaton, of the Eaton Advertising Agency, Anne found that she could not visualize the job without the man. An ambitious young woman from a small suburban home, she had thought when she got her job that she could remain more worker than woman, even with so dangerously attractive a man as Eaton. Later, becoming aware of their mutual attraction, she had planned to use it as any young business woman would—for the protection it might afford her.

PHONE CHARGES PROTESTED

HARRISBURG, June 3.—(AP.)—The Armstrong Cork Company, of Lancaster, filed a complaint here with the Public Service Commission against the Bell Telephone Company, alleging the new rates and practice of charging for leased wires on an air line basis instead of the shortest route basis are unjust and unreasonable. The new rates and practice became effective Sunday.

The cork company in its complaint declared the new charges are slightly higher per mile than the former rate, and that it results in an increase of rates for leased wires between the Lancaster plant and plants and offices in other cities of Pennsylvania, with the exception of York.

The company also attacked the method of computing the mileage on an air line basis on the ground that an air line is a theoretical measurement, while the Interstate Commerce Commission sets up the shortest route as the proper method for mileage computation.

The complaint also said the new rates and practice will result in undue preference and prejudice.

CANADA CHECKS RUM EXPORTS

DETROIT, June 3.—(INS.)—Determined to prevent any export of liquor from Canada to the United States, Andrew Dalziel, collector of customs at Windsor, Ont., said men formerly stationed at export docks will be stationed at breweries and distilleries.

They will check the destination of every shipment for export before it leaves the distillery.

Dalziel said rum running is practically at a standstill between Detroit and Windsor. The new ruling prohibiting export to the United States of liquor from Canada has dealt a severe blow to bootleggers and rum runners, he said.

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., June 3.—(AP.)—A warrant for the arrest of Tandy Slater, Pike County, Ky., sheriff, on a charge of shooting George Robinson, 24, was issued by Magistrate N. J. Keadley, of Williamson.

Ben Staten, relative of Robinson, who obtained the warrant, said Slater shot Robinson when the latter refused to accompany him from West Virginia to Kentucky. Staten said Slater was attempting to arrest Robinson illegally.

The alleged alienation, it is set forth, occurred between the latter part of 1927 and last August 31.

READING, Pa., June 3.—(AP.)—Paul S. Althouse, former Metropolitan opera tenor, and a native of this city, was granted a divorce from Elizabeth Brenn Althouse, New York actress. The couple were married June 20, 1914, in St. Paul, and have two daughters, 12 and 10.

CHICKIE By ELENORE MEHERIN

CHAPTER CI.

At the mention of her name, the silence parted like a gash—whispers spurted; heads turned; sharp, expectant breaths.

Chickie sat motionless, hearing Jonathan's murmured plea: "Remember, Chickie girl—brave—brave—proud now—go up—" She tried to smile.

Then a hand at her elbow. The lawyer said quietly: "You have nothing to fear. Answer clearly."

The coroner asked quietly, assuming an impartial tone: "What is your name?"

And that shocked her. Her hands were clasped—so cold she didn't feel their pressure. But she felt a hundred eyes and she glanced up to them, bewildered. She gave no answer.

"Is your name Helena Bryce?"

"Yes."

"Are you the mother of the deceased infant known as Merle Clayton?"

"Yes."

"Are you married?"

The lawyer rose. "Just a moment. If you please, Mr. Coroner, I must instruct her not to answer that question. It has no bearing on the death of the child."

"Very well. Where is your home, Mrs. Clayton?"

Almost inaudible, Chickie answered: "Chicago."

"You came to the farm of Mrs. Agnes Robbins five months before your child was born?"

"Yes."

"Your mail was sent from the city through a hotel in Rutland. It was addressed to Miss Helena Bryce?"

The lawyer quietly: "Don't answer."

The coroner reared his thick neck as an animal does. He leaned forward till his face was almost on a level with the table. "If the witness wishes to conceal facts, Mr. Attorney, very well. The fact that a woman leads a double life — uses two names, conceals from her parents the birth of a child, bears directly on this case—"

Attorney Speaks

"When you show it, the questions will be answered. But if the purpose of this investigation is merely to embarrass my witness, the witness will be withdrawn—"

"Yes! And a warrant charging murder can be sworn!"

Jonathan stirred then — he lurched forward, started to speak. The lawyer raised his hand. He answered suavely: "Yes—the warrant can be sworn if the evidence is at hand. If there is no evidence, all parties swearing to such a warrant shall be responsible. However, Mr. Coroner, the witness wishes to aid. She is ready to give the complete account of the child's death. I am aware that you, as coroner of this town, can certainly have no prejudice — no wish to fasten guilt where guilt cannot exist. My witness will give all necessary information."

The coroner fixed his large, slothful eyes on Chickie: "Did your parents know of the birth of your child?"

"Just a moment!"

But now the tension sharpened, a scraping of feet, an impatient stirring, but the lawyer turned to the jury: "The question deals with the death, not the birth, of an infant."

The coroner answered: "The death may be directly traceable to the unfortunate circumstances of its birth. Is it a fact, Mrs. Clayton, that on the fourth day after the birth of your child you secretly removed it from the farmhouse of Mrs. Robbins?"

"Yes."

"You knew it was a raw, freezing day?"

"You knew your child was weak?"

"They said so."

More Questions

"You left a note saying that you sent the nurse away because she would oppose your going. So you knew it was a dangerous thing to take the child from the house"—

Chickie was suddenly standing at the basket again, seeing the small, unprotesting face, dreaming of placing it in her mother's arms—giving it to them—to Jennie and to Jonathan. She glanced upward, her eyes beseeching. She replied, faintly, "I couldn't leave it—I couldn't go and leave it."

"Why did you go?"

"A message—I had a message"—

"That your mother was dying. Is this the message you mean?"

Chickie nodded. Now she sat lower in the chair. She clasped and unclasped her hands. Her eyes seemed to grow large—to take up with their tragic appeal the whiteness of her face.

"You got a message that your mother was dying, and you left, taking the baby with you? You intended to take this child to your dying mother"—

A flickering smile, half wild, went about Chickie's mouth. She said "Yes—oh—you see—you see"—

"You were to bring the child to them, although a week before its birth you sent this telegram?" He held up a yellow slip of paper.

That was the day she had rushed to the closet, grabbed the black silk cape, wrapping it wildly about her head—flinging her head back—she was going—going—ah—but she had seen her image and the coldness of her blood went into her heart. It became a leaden thing.

No—she hadn't gone. She had wired: "I'm coming — travel slow on these awful mountains. I have a terribly sprained ankle. I may be delayed."

She went back now to that desperate hour—lost and helpless in it. The coroner spoke twice. Agnes Robbins tapped her shoulder before she heard.

"You were not in the mountains when this message was sent. Isn't it a fact that you were in the valley and on the farm of Mrs. Robbins at this time and that you were then awaiting the birth of your child?"

Tells of Baby

A slight, despondent nod.

"On the day your child was born you received another message, asking why you were delayed. You sent no answer to this. Isn't it a fact, Mrs. Clayton, that you went to great lengths to keep secret the birth of your child?"

The lawyer interrupted: "You may answer the question later, Mrs. Clayton. It has no bearing so far shown on the case."

"I will show its bearing, Mr. Attorney. This witness states that she left, taking her child with her, and that she intended to take it to her dying mother. The facts indicate that she did not intend to take it home. That she felt herself forced to some other disposal of the child."

"Show these facts, Mr. Coroner—"

"You admit stealing from the farm house, Mrs. Clayton? You went down the road. It was windy. Tell about it. Tell about that walk."

Chickie rose a little—and her hands flew suddenly to her breast. She said: "Oh—it was cold—" and she told them—of the baby — its soft hair — its cheeks against her neck—and then so quiet and the flicker of its lips, and she had laid it on the ground and blew the breath in its mouth and tried to warm it. There was the picture of it—and of the pale, frantic thing kneeling beside it — trying to keep its life. She said: "I didn't know—I put it here—under my coat—it was so still—it didn't move."

She sank in the chair covering her face.

The coroner said: "You put it under your coat?"

Without moving her hand from her eyes Chickie nodded.

"You held it close against you and ran?"

Lawyer Objects

She nodded again—she said faintly: "Oh—you see—you see—"

"Go on—then what—"

"Oh—I looked at it—it was cold—it was still—"

"That was after you put it under your coat. Is it a fact, Mrs. Clayton, that on the day of your disappearance you spoke to the nurse, Emily Faris, about the smothering of a child? Did you say to her: 'I might roll over on it and in a moment it would be dead!'"

Chickie cried out then. She reeled. She began to speak—"Oh—"

The lawyer shouted and everyone in the room stiffened: "Don't answer. The question seeks to prove an intention of crime; takes it for granted that this witness wished to rid herself of the child. No such fact has been proved."

The coroner banged his fist on the table. "The question is not unfair. We have before us a case of glaring irregularity. A doctor takes a dead child brought by a woman admittedly in hiding—a woman going under two names. The witness had admitted her frenzy. She runs off and leaves her dead infant in the hands of this town. She starts out with a child of four days—a child whose coming kept her from the bedside of her dying mother; of whose existence they know nothing. Could she take it to them? She feels herself an outcast—she is an outcast—"

A movement—a giant form pitching between Chickie and the red, moist face of the coroner. Chickie lifted in the mighty arms—a rumble, Jonathan's free hand shaking: "Outcast—by God, no! My daughter, sir—my girl!"

Someone in the rear of the room shouted "Hurrah!" and others took it up. The jury got to its feet. Chickie lay insensible in her father's arms.

Woman's Crowning Glory Also a Lot of Work, Fay King Observes

By FAY KING

IN THE DAYS when long hair was woman's crowning glory, I don't wonder they called it that. It must have cost many crowns to keep it at its best, and uneasy must have been many of the heads.

A hair-dresser in those days had to be a master mathematician to measure off all those perfect parts and portions for curls and braids.

The hair-days I have drawn were all contemporary. Women were evidently as anxious to have an exclusive hair-dress as an exclusive party dress.

One thing certain at a social gathering they did not all look exactly alike.

But in these busy days of rush and revolving doors I doubt if long hair and elaborate dress will ever return.

Helena Brixton Jumps at Chance to Get Larches

"The end of a perfect day," my father quoted, smiling as Mr. Haslet's car, with the querulous real estate agent at the wheel, receded down the driveway of The Larches.

"Gee!" Jim's usual stolidity gave way to excited relief. "That was a near squeak. I thought sure he'd spotted that basket of dishes I was putting in the car."

"But he didn't, thanks to Mr. Spencer," Mrs. Ticer interposed, happily. "I never saw anything so cute as the way you handled that."

"Thank you," he said, with his usual grave courtesy. "Are we all ready to go?"

"Yes. I've locked the door and everything," Mrs. Ticer responded. "And you can bet I'll be back here tomorrow morning at daylight with those dishes all washed and ready to set on the shelves. I'll bring Ticer and Jerry, too, and we'll get the rugs out and back again before Haslet's had his breakfast. Then there'll be no chance of his getting round here before everything is in perfect order."

"That is very thoughtful of you, Mrs. Ticer," my father said. "It is also—wise. Now, Margaret."

He helped me into the car, and Jim closed the door upon us before joining Mrs. Ticer in the back seat. At the farm gate I stopped and turned to Mrs. Ticer.

"You'll want to get your part of the clam chowder now, won't you?" I asked. "Then Jim can drive you home."

"No need of that. I'd just as soon walk," she protested.

"But I wouldn't just as soon have you," I answered, and in another five minutes she was on her way home with a last comfortable prophesy in my ears.

"I'll call you when I get the reply from Mrs. Brixton." I had told her, adding the pessimistic comment: "But our trouble may all have been for nothing. She may not like it, and then we'll have to look around again."

"Land sakes!" she had ejaculated. "She's got common sense, hain't she? You'll see she'll snap at it."

She proved a true prophet, for Helena Brixton's telegram, when it came, was not only pleased, but exuberant.

"Will arrive Sag Harbor three days after close of Carolyn's school," her telegram concluded. "Wiring you exact time later."

A special delivery letter upon the day following amplified her thanks and gave me her plans in more detail.

"Am bringing two maids with me," she said, "one of whom will go to her home in Europe after the holidays to stay until summer. But both will be at The Larches—isn't that the dearest name? I simply adore it—so I shall need only the services of a competent laundress. Can you possibly secure me one? I shall need her at least two days a week—more, unless there is a good laundry to which I can send flat work."

I had a struggle with my own selfishness when I laid down the letter. In all the countryside I knew of but one woman besides my own Katie, who was the laundress of whom housewives vainly dream in this modern age. That was Mrs. Ticer, and with the vision of the overflowing house, which would be mine, I wished every moment of my neighbor's spare time.

But when, after having put behind me the mean suggestion to find another and necessarily inferior laundress for Mrs. Brixton, I broached the subject to Mrs. Ticer I found her a mine of resourcefulness.

"Don't you worry," she said capably. "I can manage it all."

Then I plunged into the busiest but most delightful weeks I ever had known. With Katie in my wake and Mother Graham, good-natured, but in high critical fettle, at my elbow, I went through the farmhouse from top to bottom, arranging furniture, changing draperies, putting everything in order, while Katie cleaned and scrubbed and polished with her usual vigor. We had completed the entire second floor, including the service rooms occupied by Jim and Katie, and were at work upon the library with the prospect of finishing everything with a day to spare before the scheduled arrival of our guests, when Katie summoned me to the telephone, and I heard Lillian's voice.

"Hello, old dear," and I tightened. "Noel——"

Her voice broke off abruptly, and there was a buzzing sound in the receiver. Then the voice of the local operator said indolently, "Number, please?"

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Tips for the Altar-Bound

The modern marriage, like the modern novel, is so short that, while the clergyman is reading the introduction, you can turn to the last chapter, and see how—and about when—it is going to end.

Almost any woman can marry a man while he is trying to forget "the woman before." That is man's weakest moment—when he is feeling SORRY for himself.

Now that "sex-appeal" has become as common as adenoids and as free as the air at a filling station, a woman must have some other appeal—money, brains or personality. Otherwise she is just "one of a crowd," in a man's consciousness.

A confirmed bachelor thinks there should be red traffic signals at the altar to warn prospective bridegrooms. But, the average bridegroom goes there in such a complete trance, that he would never see them, anyhow.

* * *

Many reams have been written about the Dynosaurus and the Perfect Lover—but what woman has ever met one in the LIFE?

A man cannot see the object of sitting down and writing a long, lurid love-letter, when he can express his whole passion in a 10-word telegram, and then have a struggle to fill in the last three or four words.

It's a clever man who knows how to give commands in his own house, disguised as gentle advice, and a wise wife who can give orders that sound like sweet requests.

When picking a wife, choose a girl who puts sugar in her tea and cream on her baked apple. She may not always be a sylph in a bathing suit; but the divorce courts are filled with "sylphs" who have made nervous wrecks of themselves, "training down," in order to charm their husbands.

Household Hints

Never let lemon pips go down the sink if the waste pipe is narrow or old fashioned. Pips swell when damp and a number will easily cause an obstruction.

Orris root, powdered, is the common medium for the dry shampoo, although the new notion is to combine it, equal parts, with kaolin, a form of Fuller's earth. Both these substances absorb grease and dirt. They are applied with a salt shaker, and are removed by brushing. There should be a final brushing with absorbent cotton placed over the bristles of the brush. No dry shampoo works well on very dark hair; it leaves a dull grey surface no matter how thorough the brushing may be.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Being Sick Is Costly

Forward steps are being taken for improving health conditions in the United States. You can hardly take up a daily newspaper without reading the announcement of some step toward better facilities for medical and hospital care. Constantly preventive measures for health are being recommended.

The question of the cost of medical care is one of great interest at the present time. Much is being said on the subject. To the average family this is a most important factor in living costs.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company has been making a very interesting canvass among its industrial policy holders in many states. It is covering their expenditures for medical and other care in sickness during a period of six months in 1929.

Questionnaires were distributed by visiting nurses employed by the insurance company. These were presented to the company's policy-holders, chiefly workingmen's families in industrial centers in nearly every state in the Union. The questions covered just how much of the workingman's salary had to go for sickness; how much for care of the eyes and teeth; how much to the doctor, to the hospital, nurses, medicines and operations.

A summary of the information obtained is very interesting, and is given herewith:

"1. Practically every family had to make some expenditure for medical services during this period. Among 3,281 families, consisting of 12,129 persons, only 198 families reported no expenditures.

"2. The total amount disbursed by all families was $230,907, an average expense of $70 per family for six months, or $140 estimated for a complete year.

"3. Private physicians received the largest share, 43 per cent of the total amount expended. One fourth of all the money paid out went for medicines and hospitals, about an equal share for each.

"4. Eighty-two per cent of the families used the services of a private physician, and 83 per cent needed medicines during this period. Thirty per cent of the families reported expenses for care of teeth, and 9 per cent for care of eyes. Hospitals were used by 15 per cent of the families. More than one-third of the families reported extra household expenses as a result of sickness and injury.

"5. Families that had the services of a private physician paid him an average of $37 over a period of six months. Those that required hospital care paid an average of $60 for this service, and those that had operations paid an average of $74 for this special service."

It may be that the solution of the problem of providing for costs of medical care rests in some form of public and private insurance, whereby the large family may have the best of medical care. As it is, such families have to resort to the free clinics and other agencies for care in time of sickness.

Sickness is a hazard of life that has to be met like other factors of living, such as accident and death. The real problem lies in furnishing adequate medical service for the person of average means, who now must resort to home remedies and home care, where conditions call for hospital and other adequate medical treatment.

Members of large families cannot afford to pay as much for medical care as those in smaller families. Our hospital clinics are not able to cope with the large numbers who apply for assistance. It is hoped that some means will be devised whereby all may have proper medical care in time of sickness.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

A Daughter of Good Social Taste

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. Will you please let me know how soon after an engagement should it be announced, and if it is good form to do so?

2. Who should attend to announcements? Our only child, a daughter, does not want to send out announcement cards, although there is no secret about it. She does not want a shower given. This form, in her opinion, is petty, and she won't stand for it. What is your opinion about the whole thing? MOTHER.

1. The time at which the engagement should be announced depends entirely on the choice of the couple and the circumstances of the households. In other words, the engagement is announced when the couple wishes to make the announcement.

2. Good for your daughter! She shows excellent taste in her social reactions, and you should be proud of her. It is, as your daughter apparently realizes, in poor form to send out formal engraved announcements of an engagement. This should not be done. Engraved announcements are correct for a wedding, but not for an engagement.

Showers, too, are not in especially good form, and I am glad that your daughter will not "stand for" having showers given her. They usually carry somewhat the doubtful reputation of being more or less (usually more) begging parties, and it is a joy to hear of a girl who will not tolerate having her name associated with this kind of party.

To announce the engagement, the girl tells those close friends who live near, and writes to those who live at some distance.

Wearing the Engagement Ring

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. I am to be married shortly and would like to know whether it is correct to wear one's engagement ring during the ceremony if the "ring" ceremony is used?

2. My parents are both dead, and as I am of age and have no relatives within a radius of 600 miles, who could announce the marriage? Would you be so kind as to tell me how the announcement should read? (It is to be a quiet church wedding). M. E. H.

1. Usually during the ceremony the engagement ring is worn on the right hand. Or, if the bride prefers, she may leave her engagement ring at home. In any event the wedding ring should not be placed on the finger over the engagement ring but should be put first on the finger.

2. Even if your relative does not live near you, it would still be in order for her, or them, to make the announcement of your wedding, if you wish that this should be done. If you do not wish this it is correct for you and the groom to make your own announcement of your wedding.

Inviting the 'In-Laws'

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My sister and myself are planning to have a "shower" for our sister. A bridal shower. We would like to know if it is proper for us to invite her intended in-laws or do the in-laws have a shower for her also, and invite their relatives?

MRS. I. B.

The in-laws-to-be should be invited.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Obesity in nine cases out of ten is caused by overindulgence in fat-forming foods. Many plump darlings declare that they eat very little. Mebbe so. But that little may be the kind of food that piles on adipose tissue. Butter must be avoided, starches should be cut down to the limit and sugar in concentrated form is absolutely forbidden. Lean meats, fish, vegetables that grow above ground, fresh and cooked fruits form a balanced and healthful diet and will not add to the avoirdupois.

What every girl should understand is that she can't work all of the tricks of the make-up box at one and the same time. The human face can't stand the strain. If she wants to enhance her soul's shining windows by applying eye shadows, well and good. Brown shadows for brown eyes; blue-green for grey eyes; blue-purple for blue eyes. But with eye shadows there must be no factory blushes laid upon the cheeks. The cherry lips should be toned down. They should be toned down anyway. Lipsticks have become an old story now. The raspberry jam smear palls on the optic nerve.

Mental control, a tight rein on emotional storms, is the soundest insurance against wrinkles and the sourdough face. The woman who bawls out the telephone operator, who yells at the cat, calls down the butcher's boy, carries a chip on her shoulder and wants to fight whenever some member of the family hands out a harmless smartcrack will grow a face as wrinkled as a persimmon. A great deal of family shouting goes on all the time and most of it is all about nothing. Little Sweetie-pie who doesn't shout won't ever lose her beauty petals.

The old cold cream jar is the complexion's good friend. The skin, constantly shedding, constantly exposed to atmospheric dust, scorching sunlight and strong winds, needs plenty of lubricating. When the cold cream suddenly gives out and there is no better substitute at hand, use the top cream on the milk. It is soothing and softening.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, June 4.

A very lively day is forecast from the leading positions of Mars and Mercury, giving strong impetus to all constructive effort, especially as applied to promotion, publishing and literary pursuits generally. Initiative and enterprise will react to high stimulus, mainly in dealings with corporations, mergers or secret societies. But conservative manipulation of funds is recommended since there is a sign read as perilous to finances. Speculation and investment are under hazardous sway and loans would prove risky.

Those whose birthday it is may plan for a very active and eventful year with the mental forces and faculties under high stimulus. They are enjoined, however, to be careful in the use of finances in loans, investment or speculation as these are under a perilous direction. The tendency to rash and impulsive words and deeds should be suppressed.

A child born on this day may be restless, high strung and volatile, but should be mentally brilliant and progressive. Yet it may be disposed to gamble or take chances, thus defeating its success unless trained in frugality and thrift.

Country Grows Less Dependent on N. Y. Banking

By B. C. FORBES

JIM BROWN OF LOUISVILLE and Rogers Caldwell of Nashville, two of the South's most enterprising and progressive financiers, announce the wedding of interests which gives them control of Southern banks and insurance companies having combined assets of $615,000,000.

This illustrates an inevitable—and desirable—revolution now under way throughout the country, a revolution which will tend to make every section more independent of Wall Street in the future than in the past which confronted with large-scale banking and financing projects.

JUST AS THE DRIFT has been toward greater and greater reliance upon Washington to matters political so the country was threatened with a stronger and stronger drift toward Wall Street in matters financial. Whenever any big amount of capital had to be raised in any part of the country, recourse was had to New York. The two main reasons for this were, first, that New York had almost a monopoly of the machinery and means for supplying funds in many-million quantities and, second, that bankers in most other sections had neither sufficient money available for such purposes nor the facilities to conduct the operation.

Now huge financial institutions are being brought into being, usually through consolidation, in many parts of the continent. Not only so, but with the means has come the will to undertake financial deals on a scale never before contemplated.

THIS CREATION of powerful financial institutions, and groups of institutions, is distinctly healthy since it will enable the rest of the country to function more independently of Wall Street. The new condition is wholesome in Wall Street's own long-range interest.

Nothing could be more undesirable from every point of view—industrial, financial, social, political—than the complete domination of banking and financing throughout every corner of the continent by Wall Street interests. It would breed acute discontent. It would militate against the springing up of financial giants throughout the land. It would not facilitate the soundest expansion of enterprise at points far distant from the financial metropolis.

The whole economic groundswell being towards bigness, there is not the slightest danger that the evolution which has set in will deprive the gigantic banking and investment organizations in Wall Street of a generous share of the total business. There will continue to be occasion for capital issues and other banking operations on a scale swingable only by the strongest financial houses in New York.

THE BROWN-CALDWELL announcement, from Louisville, reads:

"Rogers Caldwell, president of Caldwell & Company, Nashville investment bankers, and James B. Brown, president of the Banco-Kentucky Company, announce that Banco-Kentucky has acquired half interest in Caldwell & Company and that Rogers Caldwell has acquired a substantial interest in Banco-Kentucky, creating a financial structure controlling banks and insurance companies with combined assets of $615,000,000."

Thus is created one more banking giant outside of New York.

CALIFORNIA HAS its Trans-America Corporation, the child of A. P. Giannini, controlling resources of over $2,500,000,000. Chicago has its billion-dollar Continental Illinois Bank and Mel Traylor's half-billion First National Bank. Boston has its First National Bank and Old Colony Trust group, with resources exceeding $875,000,000. Detroit has its Detroit Bankers Company which, with its affiliations approaches the billion-dollar class, and the metropolis of motordom also has the Guardian Detroit Union group of more than half-billion magnitude. Buffalo has its giant Marine Midland Corporation. Minneapolis has its Northwest Bancorporation, and it, shares with St. Paul the First Bank Stock Corporation, reach near the half-billion class.

Philadelphia, Cleveland, Milwaukee, Pittsburgh, Atlanta, Syracuse, Tulsa, Seattle, Kansas City, Portland, Ore.; Savannah, are among other cities not possessing financial institutions of outstanding magnitude.

THE MORE SELF-SUSTAINING every part of the country becomes financially the sounder and swifter should be our national growth and progress.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Turn Heavy — Local Trading Quiet

STOCK MARKET TURNS HEAVY, SALES LIGHT

Virtually Entire List Slips but Losses Run Only to Point or Two

NEW YORK, June 3 (AP.) — The bulls, having failed to stir up any activity in the stock market of late, left the field to the bears today, but they made even a worse showing. Practically the entire list turned heavy, but despite rather aggressive bearish operations in spots most losses were limited to a point or two, and during the early hours of the session trading was in the lightest volume since August 1928 with the lone exception of January 15 last.

With practically the entire financial community now looking with some confidence for a decided revival of business by autumn and the market already fairly well deflated the bears found themselves unable to start any general liquidation although a substantial amount of selling appeared from traders who had grown discouraged with the market's sluggishness. A substantial portion of the day's business appeared to be transactions by floor traders for their own account.

FAIL TO RESPOND

The decision of the Supreme Court, denying the Interstate Commerce Commission authority to impose freight rates under the Hock Smith resolution which might be confiscatory, failed to cause a flutter in the rail stocks.

The Department of Commerce estimated sales of radio equipment for the year at $645,000,000 against $580,000,000 in 1929, but the radio shares generally sagged. The U. S. Geological Survey's estimate of April electrical power production showed a gain of 1 per cent over March. The utility shares, however, were neglected.

Credit rates remained stationary and call and time money were unusually dull, but bankers acceptances and commercial paper were fairly active. The weekly condition statement of Federal Reserve weekly reporting member banks showed a drop of $61,000,000 in commercial loans but an unexpectedly large increase of $99,000,000 in loans on securities.

1930 LAWS TOUCHED

A few shares sagged about 4 points or more including Auburn, Ingersoll Rand, Canadian Pacific, Air Reduction and American Tobacco B. The Continental Baking issues reached new lows for the year. Curtiss Wright also sagged to a 1930 low. U. S. Steel, Radio, Westinghouse Electric, American Can and General Electric lost a point or two.

McKeesport Tinplate was again strong, rising about 3 points to a new high for the year. Colorado Fuel and Republic Steel continued to meet good demand, and there was special buying in the Armour issues. Amerada rose a couple of points, reflecting merger gossip.

S. O. Jersey Sells Its Tidewater Associated

NEW YORK, June 3.—A group of executives of Tidewater Associated Oil has purchased the holdings of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey in their company. The stock representing 20 per cent of the outstanding shares will be held by a new company.

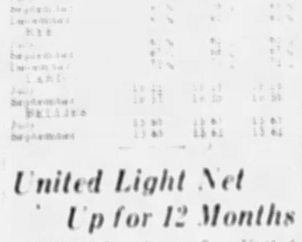
There have been rumors in the Street recently that a battle for control of Tidewater Associated is going on under cover.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, June 3. Unofficial monthly estimates issued today by the Agricultural Department, which crop reports averaged larger than a month ago and prices early were lower. Rallies ensued however based somewhat on statements by one of the leading private experts that solid conditions in spring wheat territory are precarious as to subsoil moisture. Opening unchanged to ¼c off, wheat afterward underwent an all around sag but then rose to slightly above yesterday's finish. Corn, oats and provisions were firmer with corn starting ⅛c off to ⅛c up and subsequently scoring a general advance.

June forecasts of private crop authorities here put the probable total yield of United States winter wheat this season at 544,000,000 bushels, compared with 543,000,000 bushels, the average unofficial estimate a month ago and with the government's May estimate of 525,000,000 bushels. However the increase was not as large as had generally been looked for and rallies resulted from buying ascribed to sources northwest. The rallies though failed to hold well.

Some decrease of spring wheat acreage both in Canada and the United States was reported unofficially. Assertions were also made that more than usual rainfalls must be had by spring wheat from now until harvest if recent conditions are to be maintained. On the other hand the average unofficial forecast today was for a domestic spring wheat crop of 257,000,000 bushels this season, compared with 252,000,000 bushels indicated a year ago.



United Light Net Up for 12 Months

CHICAGO, June 3. United Light and Power Company, including subsidiaries, reports for 12 months ended April 30 net income of $10,940,050 after depreciation, interest, tax, preferred dividends of subsidiaries, etc., equal after preferred dividends to $2.37 a share on 3,265,277 average combined class "A" and B common shares outstanding during the period. This compares with $6,729,746 or $1.71 per share on 3,136,784 average combined common shares during the preceding 12 months.

Commodity Prices Decline in May

NEW YORK, June 3.—Wholesale commodity price averages declined 0.8 per cent in May, according to Dun's index number. In April and March declines amounted to about 1 per cent, in February 2 per cent, and in January slightly more than 1 per cent. Compared with October 1, 1929, index has fallen 8¼ per cent. It is now 10 per cent above the low level of 1921 and 43⅓ per cent above the average of August 1, 1914.

Chicago Tool Gets Los Angeles Firm

NEW YORK, June 3.—Chicago Pneumatic Tool Company has acquired the Cochise Rock Drill Manufacturing Company of Los Angeles. The consideration was approximately $1,000,000.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, June 3.—Cotton opened steady, today at an advance of 2 points on July, but generally 2 to 15 points lower under selling promoted by reports of continued good weather in the South and unfavorable trade reports. Business was moderately active, but orders were well divided at the initial decline and early rallies were comparatively narrow and it was not until July sold off to 13.97c after the call but there was a little more buying below the 14 cent level. The new crop months net lower.

The weekly trade report of the New York Cotton Exchange service said the generally unsatisfactory mill situation abroad showed no change for the better during the last week and that the last month was again rather disappointing to domestic manufacturers. Liverpool cables said Bombay selling had been absorbed by trade rallies and Lancashire buying had resulted in a moderate inquiry for cotton goods from Egypt in the Near East.

Trading was quiet later in the morning with the tone barely steady. There was no general or aggressive selling, but nothing appeared on the bulges while buying was restricted by expectations of a favorable weekly report from the weather bureau tomorrow. At midday July was selling around 13.96c while new crop positions were some 5 to 10 points net lower at 13.71c for the new October.

NEW YORK, June 3.—Cotton spot quiet; middling uplands 14.45c; middling gulf 14.70c; sales none; futures closed steady; July 13.97c; October 13.71c; December 13.71c; January 13.72c; March 13.81c; May 13.89c.

CORPORATE EARNINGS

Niagara Hudson Power Corporation and subsidiary companies report earnings after all prior charges, available for dividends for the 12 months ended April 30, 1930, of $15,987,747, equivalent to 82 cents per share on the common stock. For the month of April balance for dividends amounted to $1,229,191, against $1,194,707 for April, 1929, and for four months ended April 30, to $5,016,036, against $5,917,825 for the similar period in 1929.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, June 3.—The indifference of professional traders as well as the public kept curb stocks within a narrow price range today. Aside from moderate moves in a few specialties and industrials the market was without feature.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded in (00 omitted in sales column of stock list, 000 omitted in sales column of bond list.)

Earnings to Increase When Grain Shipments Start, Rock Island Head Says

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER.

NEW YORK, June 3.—J. E. Gorman, president of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway Company, believes that the adverse tide of railroad earnings will be reversed later in the year when the grain crops begin to move.

In commenting on the continued recession of railroad net earnings through the second quarter of the year, the head of the Rock Island in a message to this column points out:

"The drop of 20 per cent in net earnings of representative railroads in the first quarter we thought indicated only a temporary business recession, but this same condition is continuing well into the second quarter, and we do not look for an improvement in business until the grain crops begin to move.

"Naturally, if we had a higher rate structure, these reductions in net earnings would not have been so great. I cannot say, however, that the present rate structure has any particular bearing on the situation."

Asked whether the slump in rail earning power had any bearing on the merger situation, Mr. Gorman answered:

"No doubt the merger of some roads would be helpful in bringing their earning power closer to a fair return, but I have always felt that most of the larger systems are already large enough and that further extensions of them would not decrease their expenses or enable them to show a better return."

FREIGHT LOADINGS

As for business prospects along his line through the remainder of the year, Mr. Gorman asserted:

"The second quarter's freight loadings are about on a parity with the first quarter, and we do not look for the business for the second half of the year to be any greater, if as good, than the previous year."

Regarding passenger traffic prospects he explained:

"The continued building of surfaced state highways makes motoring more attractive, and indications are that 1930 will show a substantial further reduction in passenger traffic revenues. To meet the situation the railroads are generally reducing their passenger train mileage, and we do not anticipate any improvement in the existing passenger situation."

Mr. Gorman revealed that his road has been making peak capital expenditures this year, saying:

"The temporary shrinkage in earnings has not led us to reduce our capital expenditures—in fact, we have this year the biggest budget in our history. We have curtailed maintenance and operating expenses commensurate with the decreased business."

At a recent banquet a Wall street technician remarked that what the financial district most needs at this time is better security distribution of securities. Apparently, he was taking cognizance of the fact that the crop of suckers is inadequate this season.

Charlatan tipsters act on the theory that the buying stimulated by their own influence will affect the market. If so such a movement is bound to be temporary. Crowding to buy a stock in competition with other purchasers is analogous to taking the congested subway during the rush hour. The investor gets far more intrinsic value for his money in seeking out the neglected but meritorious issues, during slack markets.

BEAUTIFIES TOWN

Henry P. Kendall, president of the Kendall Company, Boston, and a well known business reorganizer and doctor, has made a hobby of converting Slatersville, R. I., where Mr. Kendall has a plant, into an old fashioned New England village replete with the colonial traditions. The bell in the tower, which had been silent for decades, again signalizes the passing of the nights as the mill watchman strikes it hourly. Tenements are being remodeled and in some cases are being physically moved in order to provide larger lots and playgrounds. The old fashioned row of identical workmen's houses are being altered to give them individuality. They are being repainted varied colors, and lilac and shrubbery have been set out. In his humanizing of the village Mr. Kendall has been assisted by the Rev. Harvey H. Bowman, the village minister, who has taken an active interest in the [illegible] of more than local importance.

Earnings of oil companies are retarded by uneconomic distribution. In the larger cities there is an extravagant oversupply of gasoline stations. At present it is the common experience of the companies not to be making a profit in selling gasoline at retailing prices. Some of the cuts of gasoline and such petroleum products as are shown comes from the sale of allied oil products. A number of the leading companies are developing trade marked specialty products in which the margin of profit is larger.

Publication of Monthly Earnings Statements Affects Rail Issues

Rails have not acted well recently and have been more or less neglected. The fact that the carriers publish monthly figures through the I. C. C. brings a lot of attention to these shares marketwise as compared with companies which publish reports quarterly or annually. But while there has been plenty of liquidation of the carriers shares there also has been some solid investment in many of them from sources abroad as well as at home. Many believe that when the rail shares break out of their present range they will show the effects of this gradual absorption of stock for investment purposes.

Car loadings are off from the corresponding period in 1929 and for the first half of May were about 11 per cent under those in the corresponding period of 1929. The shrinkage in output of the steel industry, as a whole, and the decline in car loadings, cannot be interpreted as entirely unfavorable as they simply reflect natural developments that have an analogy in records of previous years. For instance, in 1924, when the shrinkage in steel output and car loadings were particularly large, production of steel and the movement of freight by railway by September were at higher rates than had been recorded in any month since the war days.

The match industry is a big industry and probably will continue to grow as long as world population does. Cigaret smoking has contributed largely to prosperity of the match industry. In Europe the match industry is considered a much more important industry than it is in this country. There are no free matches in Europe while in the United States the clerk behind the counter usually gives you a pack when you buy a cigar or cigarets. Net profits of $20,623,000 for International Match in 1929, compared with $14,586,000 in 1926, give one an idea of the growth of the match industry.

The quiet accumulation of National Dairy Products over recent months has apparently been completed, with the sudden splurge into top rank activity last Thursday taken to indicate that more aggressive sponsorship will be given, in anticipation of the peak season of the year which is approaching. The company has continued to absorb additional units without affecting earnings results, and at the present rate of progress it is more than likely that last year's showing equal to $4.10 per common share will be comfortably surpassed.

Montgomery-Ward was the strongest and most active of the popular trading mediums during yesterday. The splendid showing of its May sales figures prompted not only a heavy run of covering but considerable new buying of the stock. The sales reported for last month showed an increase of $1,273,874 or 5.4 per cent over the April total and a gain of $5,170,500 or 26 per cent over the volume of business done in May last year. For the five months total sales reached $106,195,803, showing an increase of $5,341,902 or 5.3 per cent over the corresponding period last year.

Investment authorities are pointing out that American Telephone and Telegraph 4½ per cent convertible debentures appear to be selling well out of line with the stock. Either the stock at $231 is considerably too low, or the bonds at $178 are too high, based on the new conversion terms. As a result of heavy conversions last month, only about $14,000,000 of the debentures remain outstanding, and it is believed a fair-sized short interest is tied up in the issue. The cash payment to be made on conversion into stock has been reduced automatically to $66.80 a share from the original $80. Thus paying the present price of about $178 for the bond, plus $66.80 cash, the holder converting into the stock would pay the equivalent of roughly $245 a share for the stock which currently is moving around $231. Allowance must be made, of course, for the fact that the debentures represent a "call" on the stock good until 1939.

P. & W. Va. Net Profit Shows Decline

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

WHILE THE PROSPECTS for the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railway have been improved by a favorable court decision on its right to build an extension to Donora, the road's current operations are still being unfavorably affected by reduced coal production and a lower rate of industrial activity in this district.

Traffic and earnings since the beginning of 1930 have been smaller than at any time for several years. Gross revenue for the first four months of this year was $1,268,001 compared with $1,717,361 in the corresponding period of 1929.

Surplus after charges for the four months was $453,930 which was equivalent to $1.50 a share on 302,351 shares of stock. In the same month of 1929 surplus was $814,912 or $2.69 a share.

Dividends Not Earned

SO FAR THIS YEAR dividend requirements on the stock, which is on a $6 annual basis, have not been fully earned. Profits in the first four months of the year were equivalent to the dividend requirements for only three months.

April, with a surplus after charges equivalent to 53 cents a share, showed improvement over March but was still less than a year ago when 69 cents a share was earned.

In the full year of 1929 the road earned $2,083,348 or $6.89 a share compared with $2,037,471 or $6.74 a share in 1928.

To Start Work on Branch

WORK ON THE BRANCH to Donora will be started soon. Last week the United States District Court here refused the plea of the Pennsylvania Railroad to set aside the order of the Interstate Commerce Commission authorizing the branch. This removed the legal barriers to the construction of the line serving the plants of the American Steel and Wire Company which originate a large volume of traffic now handled exclusively by the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The line to Donora will be a branch of the Connellsville extension which is now under construction. Officials of the road stated yesterday that traffic will be moving over the entire extension by the beginning of next year. It has not been definitely decided whether the Pittsburgh and West Virginia will build its own line into the city limits of Connellsville or whether trackage rights will be obtained over the Pennsylvania.

Future Prospects

OPERATIONS FOR THE PRESENT year are not likely to make a particularly favorable showing due to the unsatisfactory traffic conditions and to the increased interest charges resulting from recent financing to pay for the Connellsville extension. This is a purely temporary situation, however. It will be brought to a close when the new extension is placed in operation and starts to make a return on the investment.

The new line is expected to develop a large volume of traffic for the road. Its value will be greatly increased, however, if the Pittsburgh and West Virginia, or interests connected with it, is successful in gaining control of the Western Maryland with which the extension will connect in Connellsville.

NEW YORK, June 3.—Analysis of current conditions in the cotton industry made by Leavelle McCampbell, vice president of the Association of Cotton Merchants of New York, says that substantial progress toward normal and healthy conditions is being made and there is ample evidence that overproduction has run its course. McCampbell believes the industry has undergone such changes in recent years that it is possible to forecast the end of most of its major difficulties.

DAILY TRUE STORY

Jack Morley was in love, and disgusted.

One would think that being in love would provide sufficient troubles for a nice bright young man like Jack.

Being disgusted was only indirectly connected with being in love, in Jack's case.

Inez Stoneham was the object of Jack Morley's adoration.

His job with Pettifew & Pettifew was the object of his disgust.

Jack had been popular and athletic in college. He had been top-notch in football, had some track laurels and even pulled a good oar in the crew. In his studies he hadn't been quite so much of a top-notcher getting by the proverbial skin of his teeth.

And so he seemed to drift into the nondescript gaze with so many other of the totally college grads.

Selling bonds did not, of course, so enrich him as Jack had hoped. After he had exhausted his acquaintances who were able and willing to buy he floundered about rather hopelessly in the game.

And falling so sincerely in love with Inez Stoneham at this time had its drawbacks.

When he felt sure that Inez loved him he would have his brief moments of walking on pink clouds.

And when he would realize that he possessed no fortune and it might be a great many years before he did he came back to earth with a flop that jarred him.

Hence his not wholly enviable position of being in love and disgusted all at once.

The trouble was largely Peter Stoneham, multi-millionaire father of the beautiful Inez. Peter was head of a great construction company that had put up cathedrals, dams, skyscrapers and what not in almost all quarters of the more or less well known world.

Inez Couldn't Imagine

Every time a likely young man began to show attentions to Inez the old man could think of but one thing—"fortune-hunter."

Jack Morley realized this. He talked it over seriously with Inez after they came to their understanding.

"No matter what I say, your father is going to think I am after your money, my dear," Jack explained.

"And no matter how much I tell him that I know you are not, he'll simply say I am mistaken—I know him," Inez agreed.

"And when I told him that I wasn't doing such a swell job of it supporting myself, can you imagine the loud and derisive laugh he would hand me?"

Inez could imagine it. She seemed on the verge of tears, so Jack kissed her and she clung to him, and presto, they were back on the pink clouds of love again, for a brief period.

Inez had Jack out on his birthday for dinner.

She gave him a present, an unusual ring of yellow and white gold, made as though the metals were braided.

Peter Stoneham was jovial during the dinner and knew how to put Jack at ease. Jack went away more encouraged than ever before.

Peter Stoneham was no fool. He expected his daughter to be attracted by nice young men—he hoped so, only there was the problem of weeding out the fortune-hunters. Peter Stoneham could see but one solution. Some suitor who was plenty wealthy in his own right wouldn't be fortune hunting, he would be sincerely in love with Inez, so he thought.

Seeing so much of Jack about Peter Stoneham caused a few inquiries to be made. It was just as he thought. Young Mr. John Morley had been a gridiron hero, but no hero in his classes, and he had become one of those human pests, a bond salesman!

"That lets him out," Peter muttered to himself.

Jack didn't take Inez about very much because he couldn't afford it. And Peter Stoneham didn't, either literally or figuratively, kick Jack off his front porch. He was too canny for that—he knew all about the danger of putting obstacles in the way of puppy love, as he felt this to be on the part of Inez.

Would Forget Jack

But Inez was going abroad for the summer. She would meet a great many nice and eligible young men—she would forget about this red-cheeked chap with the black curly hair and charming smile.

Jack and Inez had had their little secret hour of parting and Inez, weeping on his broad shoulder, had assured him that no foreign shape, titled or untitled—in fact no shape at all—would ever win her away from him.

Jack believed her.

After she went Jack dug into his bond-selling with renewed effort. If he could manage to save a lot of money through the long summer while Inez was gone, he could invest it, make a "killing"—

The bond-selling game was a dismal flop.

He had been up to see Charlie Young, who had been an upper class man when he was a soph and who evidently had plenty of money.

Charlie gave Jack a cigar, a nip and a word of advice which was, "Quit the bond selling game. The fools aren't buying the good stuff. They're in the market. The market will finally flop. It will be a couple of years before they get back to bond buying again."

Jack felt that his friend was right. He walked across town to get a subway train. He had forgotten what the inside of a taxi looked like since Inez left. Along with a score of others he leaned against a fence and stared down into a great excavation, watching the men work.

He must've stood and was at one of the openings for a tramp which seemed to hail him, one sot and spoke rather profanely about people who set their feet down in the way of derrick booms.

They shook hands. The chap was Ned Ruskin, classmate of Jack's. Ned wore khaki and leather leggings. He explained that his father was bossing the job and that he was working to learn.

Jack was disgusted. Jack, Ned said, there's better money in that than in the law. I thought I was going to take up. Why take that chap down there, blackened and dark boss, he pulls down $5 a day.

Sure, said Jack, and when he gets to be foreman in a few years he'll double that. They're going to pay unskilled labor 10 a day pretty soon.

Begins New Job

Listen, Ned, Jack cried, grabbing his friend's arm, drop a derrick on that chap's head and give me his job. I mean it.

When Ned Ruskin was convinced that Jack really meant it he arranged matters.

Jack resigned from Pettifew & Pettifew. He did it politely but emphatically, saying quite frankly: I'm going to digging skyscraper cellars, there's more money in it.

Jack did very well. One day old August Pettifew chanced to recognize Jack who wore rough clothes and was down in the muck not only bossing a small crew but helping them swing some big timbers about. He was amazed. He had thought Jack's resignation speech had been a form of humor.

Jack was sunburned and healthy and also fairly rich, according to his standards by the end of the summer. They were over in the East Side then getting ready for one of those modern set-back towers of Babel. He was thinking of Inez. She would be home in a few weeks, she wrote regularly. He hadn't dared tell her in his letters that he was just a day laborer excavating for skyscraper foundations.

His thoughts were disturbed by some work. An immense beam being swung down on a derrick arm for a prop was caught on some rocks. His men were having difficulty. Jack climbed up over the dripping, mucky rocks, got hold of one end of the beam and yelled: "Now, altogether—straight up and then swing her over!"

"What's this, Morley?"

Jack stared right into the face of Peter Stoneham and had sense enough to make instant plans.

He pretended not to know him.

"How long since you quit bond selling, Morley, and went into this?" Stoneham demanded.

Jack pulled off his dirty cap and grinned.

"No spik," he said, bobbing his head. "No spik."

Stoneham glared at him and frowned.

"Humph," he said and walked away, but he looked back several times.

On three later occasions Jack saw Peter Stoneham. The old man seemed to be glaring at him.

Inez Returns

Inez finally returned. The boat docked Saturday afternoon, being delayed on account of fog, to Jack's delight. He was at the dock to greet her. Peter Stoneham saw him and nodded, said a brief "Hello, how's the bond business?" and before Jack could answer the old man turned to greet his daughter.

Inez shook hands with Jack and wanted to kiss him. She asked Jack to come up to dinner, she raved over Jack's sunburn and healthy appearance. Jack came up early. Inez ushered him from the presence of the butler into the music room, where she proceeded to give him the kiss she wanted to bestow at the dock.

Ahem—

Peter Stoneham walked in and stared at his daughter in Jack's arms.

Er—er—well, it's like this, Mr. Stoneham, I'm crazy about Inez—

And I love him, Dad!"

And—and—well sir, I'll have to listen to what you are going to say.

Jack kept his arms about Inez, however.

Peter Stoneham walked up and glared at him.

"No spik," he bellowed.

Jack turned red. The old man clapped him on the shoulder and then indicated the peculiar ring Inez had given him.

You should have taken off that ring, son, I was wise to you," said Peter.

I'll have to explain it to you and to Inez.

I've told her all about it. We both approve. You didn't know that the Ruskin concern was one of my subsidiary companies, eh? Never mind, I'll put you at the head of another. Any boy with the go—

Dad! cried Inez.

Dinner was announced just then.

Break away, son, said Peter, linking one arm in Jack's and another in that of Inez. At least until after dinner.

He drank a toast to them. He lifted his glass and said:

No spik!

Then he roared with happy laughter.

MERIT TO BE REWARDED

A great number of these tasteful but decorative souvenirs will be distributed by order of the United Speakeasy Proprietors, so that well-wishers too bashful to accept monetary considerations may be rewarded. Many of them have already been presented; but according to President Gus Glutze, some will always be kept on hand to present to police or prohibition officials who arrest and discourage felons guilty of carrying flasks and criminals who serve ginger ale.

GOOD NEWS OF GOOD TIMES

Thanks to the energetic efforts of Belitus X Doakes, this country is expected to be back on a full time working basis within six months. The plan is simple and practical. Doakes will ask the Authors' League to pass a rule requiring that mystery story writers solve the murder in the first paragraph. This will permit President Hoover, and thousands of financial gients, to give more time to business. The present slump, according to Doakes, is caused by the fact that leaders of men have to spend practically ten hours a day keeping up with the output of mystery stories, each of which have the answer in the back instead of the front of the book.

Pittsburgh's Passing Show

Brief Comment on Current Events.

Mellon checks, given to help Brown's fight for governor, were put in the Davis-Brown ticket's campaign pot, it seems. Thus Secretary Davis was an unknowing beneficiary of the wealthy Pittsburgh family that apparently wanted to see Grundy retain his seat in the Senate. Sometimes you don't know where money given to a campaign fund will land eventually.

*Pittsburgh golf clubs are crowded as never be-*fore. June seems to be the most popular golf month. By July Fourth many erstwhile enthusiasts having mutilated thousands of balls, have given up in disgust, others have gone away.

*The Sunday crowds at all the golf clubs call at-*tention again to the unfair operation of Pennsylvania's ridiculous and shameful Blue Law. The well-to-do flock to golf clubs. The less affluent can take a walk for exercise—other sane recreation or amusement is denied.

Never such pretty lawns as in Pittsburgh and its suburbs today. This town may be foggy and smoky sometimes, but the scores of hills that brood over the Pittsburgh area have for ages deposited rich silt in a hundred happy valleys and flowers and lawns in breath-taking profusion make visitors here gasp with admiration.

As a matter of fact, this city enjoys a "Summer resort" climate, with only a few days each year of oppressively hot weather. Pittsburgh is far more happily situated, with respect to climate, than many another city that makes lots of noise about its pleasant weather.

One real sign of prosperity is the large number of brand new automobiles seen hereabouts these days. The recent fine weather brought out thousands of them. The stock market may be sick, but there's plenty of money in the Pittsburgh district.

It will be interesting to note the reaction of Gov. Fisher to the result of an election conducted by the Allegheny County Bar Association for the purpose of deciding upon whom to recommend to the governor for appointment to the Court of Common Pleas to succeed Judge John A. Evans, retired. The result, in which 1,300 effective votes were cast by members of the bar, showed J. Smith Christy, Judge Sylvester Snee, of the County Court, and William A. Challener, in the order given, leading a field of seven candidates. The four defeated in the poll include two men that have strong political backing, while the three successful in the poll are lacking approval of machine leaders.

Pittsburgh voted 5½ to 1 for repeal of the Blue Laws in the Sun-Telegraph city-wide poll. Now that the canvass has been extended into the county there is great interest manifested in how the home communities will vote. The first batch of cards counted from outside the city shows a marked lead for repeal. It's too early to draw conclusions yet, but it's interesting to note that 94 voters in Aspinwall, Avalon, Bellevue and Ben Avon voted 67 for repeal, 23 for retention of the present law and 4 for modification. Here's a prediction that the next session of the State Legislature will have to give earnest consideration to the demand of Philadelphia and Allegheny counties for repeal of this obsolete and unfair statute.

FAMINE—

Relief Transportation in China.

KIND-HEARTED COOLIE CARRYING AN OLD WOMAN WASTED BY HUNGER.

We read about famines, the misery, horrible, ceaseless war in China, as though we were reading about events in past history or on some distant planet.

China is all the way across the American continent, then all the way across the Pacific Ocean. And to see the worst of its horrors you must travel many miles after crossing the Pacific.

Reading cold type, we feel that it is, after all, "not our business." But a PICTURE like this makes us realize that hunger is real, even 10,000 miles away.

This photograph shows a poor old Chinese woman, close to death from starvation, carried on the back of a kind-hearted coolie, because she is too weak to walk on her shrunken legs.

A man can earn something at least, and can fight, if necessary, for his share. HE EATS. For the old and feeble, the women and the young children, there is little hope. They die in tens of thousands.

Cold science tells you that after fasting for a certain length of time the brain is benumbed, feelings are deadened, for lack of blood supply. Let us hope that it is true, and also hope that scientists are right when they say that animals killed by their enemies die without pain, because the excitement of flight destroys all other feelings. But let us not adopt any scientific theory as a substitute for sympathy and kindness.

Better Mind Our Own Business

Drawn by Nelson Harding

Get off that wire for awhile;
Drop other folks' affairs;
There's so much at home that needs
Attention and repairs,

See what boils over on the stove,
And then we'd better think
About what's in the oven
And conditions in the sink.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

The Fear of the New

Our Senators celebrate by denouncing the dial telephone in no uncertain rebuttal.

The dial telephone is progressive. Which alone makes it suspicious.

The Senate wants to go back to its good old-fashioned reactionary busy wires.

The dialing of a number, not only implicates the unusual athletic ability of an ancient index finger but it also includes the squeezing of a mathematical sponge which may never have absorbed anything.

In other, and less dictionary words, a Senator dialing a number must know his numerical scullions.

And it's too much exercise for sedentary parliamentarians.

You can always ask your constituency for another term on the plea that you want to complete a telephone call. We remember that President Hoover tossed the dial phone out of the White House.

When a man dials his own number the result depends on his own executive ability. But with the old phones you could always blame wrong numbers on central.

Another angle to the new dialing mechanism is that it is an innovation. And with man's first invention of the wheel history shows that progress has always fought progress.

We are afraid of new things until they prove themselves.

The wagon freighters of America squawked loud and long against the Erie Canal. The steamboats of the Mississippi foresaw their finish when the railroad came along and tried sincerely to put the gypsy curse on the iron horse.

The railroads sparkled with dismay when motor buses started long distance hauling but solved the business by getting into the racket themselves.

The oldtimers were always there with bulldozing legislation against the springers who launched something new and puzzling.

But when we get to understand it and realize that it is best we go to it like a moth sniping a woolen garment in summer.

If the dial telephone is better than the old nickel trap then you can bet all the oolong in Shanghai that the dial telephone is here to stay. And you can also wager that if a Senator doesn't want to use them he will either have to walk or write.

SCIENCE AND RELIGION

By Archibald Henderson

It is common lament, nowadays, that popular interest in philosophy, theology and religion is steadily on the wane. The great waves of interest, nowadays, seem to follow the phenomenally rapid advances of science. The cocksureness of science, so-called, appeals to the masses. The public likes to hear the voice of authority. Science usually speaks in resonant tones and unmistakable terms. There is something vastly reassuring about certainty.

This point has recently been vigorously combatted by A. S. Eddington in his "Science and the Unseen World." This was the Swarthmore lecture for 1929, delivered recently at Friend's House in London. The fundamental thesis advanced by Eddington is that science does not pretend to give an exact and realistic description of nature. The methods of physical examination are necessarily restricted in scope.

Penetrate as deeply as we can by methods of physical examination into the nature of human beings, we reach at best only a sort of symbolic description. Physics, for example, does not pretend to dogmatize as to the nature of man's reality, but realizes that its methods can not penetrate beyond the symbolism of reality.

One sharp line of demarkation is forever drawn between the world of science and the world of religion. There is no ethical principle in science—the moral conduct of a material particle, a metronome or a spectroscope is not on trial. We are concerned with the sense of "ought" or moral obligation in the physical domain. What a body does and what a body ought to do, in the physical world, are one and the same thing.

It is clear that these two things are anything but identical in the spiritual world. In the physical world we determine what must happen about a single, typical body or group of such bodies. The laws hold only for bodies of precisely that sort. They may not have individuality (marked differences) for, if they do, then the mathematical or physical or chemical law breaks down.

The very essence of the unseen world is that the conception of personality should be dominant. We are not wrong in embodying the significance of the spiritual world to ourselves in the thought of a personal relationship. Our whole approach to it is bound up with consciousness wherein personality is centered.

It is quite true that the scientist is dealing with experience, just as is the minister or the philosopher. He is dealing with a bundle of sense impressions, but not with the "responsible, aspiring, yearning, doubting" soul. "It is far from my thought," says Eddington, "to disparage what we gain by this scientific quest. As truly as the mystic, the scientist is following a light; and it is not a false or an inferior light. Moreover, the answers given by science have a singular perfection, prized the more because of the long record of toil and achievement behind them."

Science proceeds on its quest, secure in the purity of the spirit of research. Not all the scientific discoveries will stand the ruthless inspection of time. But "if our so-called facts are changing shadows, they are shadows cast by the light of constant truth."

∴ LISTEN, WORLD ∴

By Elsie Robinson

Do you wonder, sometimes, if there's any real love left in the world—love that is brave and beautiful and lovers who are gallant and sweet? Then read this:

It's a true story. It came written on cheap paper in a round, girlish hand that is still "only 18 years old." And she used no flourishes in telling her simple tale.

A year ago last March she and the boy were married. Shortly after the boy lost his job. To make matters worse, they found they were to have a baby. A job was offered in Lockport, Ill., but they were stuck in Pennsylvania. They had no friends or money. His people had disowned him when he married this 17-year-old child. Her folks were too poor to give them carfare. So, they hit the highway.

Remember that cold spell we had in the late spring last year? That cold got at them. Their clothes were in rags. They could buy food only once in a while. Occasionally they'd pick up an odd job in some town, stay a few days, then go on. It was rough traveling.

Every now and then they'd have to stop, she was too weary to go on. And the boy would stand desperate, watching her, wondering how they were ever going to get out of it all. But at last they made it. Reached the job—and she could rest.

But five months later twin baby boys were born — moved a little — died. She thought then that she'd never be able to go on.

But presently, through the mists, she saw that other young face—haggard and hurt as her own—her husband's. And somehow smiled—and kissed.

And now she's glad. For the boy has a job. They've a little home started. And there's another boy on the way.

"And this one will live—I know it will live, Elsie!" she writes. "I'm so happy. But isn't it strange the way some people look at things? Last week a friend of mine, who had heard my story, said to me—'You sure had a wonderful sense of duty! IMAGINE SHE CALLED LOVE SUCH A COMMON NAME AS DUTY! I told her it was love, not duty, that made me do it. But she said love was the bunk. Is it, Elsie?

"You write for newspapers and you must know a lot more about life than I do . . . do you really think love is the bunk? And that we just do things for duty? I don't believe it. And whether it is or not, I'd go through everything again for my husband—and still call it love. We've been through plenty—but it was worth it as long as we had each other. And we think it has just made us stronger for whatever lies ahead."

So you sometimes grow sick of the squabbling and divorces, and wish, so badly, that something might happen to bring back the old dreams again? Then, remember this girl, who bravely walked the trail of pain and poverty and death and thought it all worth while—"as long as we had each other."

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

Adventure

Adventure does not mean always
A pirate ship, an angry sea,
A plane in air, a jungle maze,
Or unknown paths for you, for me.

Instead, sometimes quite close at hand,
Around this corner, down that street,
On any ship or any land
We hear Adventure's dancing feet.

In fragrant, wind-swept country lanes
We glimpse, as in the market place,
Aglow with light that never wanes,
Adventure's laughing, luring face.

So who need sigh for fabled fields
Or wait, inert, for some far call
When every hour of living yields
Its rare adventure to us all?

Text for Today

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

The second is the essential sexual process. The first is simply a trick, devised by Nature for preventing reproduction until this all-important fusion shall have taken place. Once more it becomes evident to us that sex is imposed upon reproduction and is in its essence a different thing.

SECTION SIX.
ARTIFICIAL PROPAGATION.

Cleared of the complication of sex, reproduction is seen to be simply the detachment of living bits of the bodies of one generation, which grow up into the next.

Now if this goes on under natural conditions, can we imitate it artificially? If the experimenter can make his needles and solutions play the role of a sperm (or, rather, one of the two roles of a sperm) can he not make organisms reproduce by simply cutting them up? As a matter of fact he can.

H. G. Wells

Many segmented worms, especially the little fresh-water kinds like Lumbriculus, can be chopped transversely into numbers of pieces, and each piece will grow new head and tail and become a new whole worm; and most planarians among the flatworms have this faculty in even greater degree, for they can be cut in all directions, and yet any piece above a very tiny size will turn into a whole worm again.

So with many coelenterates; we can multiply them at our pleasure. And so with Protozoa; provided they are big enough to chop in pieces, and provided there is a bit of nucleus in every piece, we can force reproduction on them at the edge of the knife.

In plants, not only are such methods possible, but they have been used for practical ends time out of mind.

A mere post of green willow wood may take root and sprout and turn into a new willow bush, and a willow twig will even produce leaves and roots when suspended in damp air.

Gardeners reproduce a chosen plant by taking slips or cuttings—shoots bearing one or a few buds—and simply planting them in soil. If undue evaporation is prevented above-ground, and the parts below ground are warmed a little to expedite root-production, many plants can be successfully propagated in this way.

Plants which happen not to grow well from cuttings may often be propagated by layering.

A branch is bent down and part of it lightly buried in soil; when it forms roots, it is cut through near its attachment to the present stem, and grows into—or indeed is already—a new plant.

Or the method of grafting may be employed. Here the detached bit of living tissue is not planted in the soil, but is made to unite with the tissues of another plant, the host or stock. In grafting, the whole plant is not reproduced, since the graft is served by the roots of the stock and never forms any of its own; but it grows and forms its own leaves and flowers and fruit.

Grafting insures a real, though partial, reproduction. Sometimes only a single bud is grafted, as with roses or peaches, and is then inserted under the bark at the side; or whole stems are made to unite end-to-end at their cut surfaces.

In many animals, artificial propagation could be carried out on a similar scale; but they are not usually of any commercial value. The only exceptions are bath-sponges. These can be cut into little pieces, each of which will grow into a new sponge; and experiments are being conducted to see whether this method can be made commercially useful.

But the most extraordinary method of artificial reproduction is that which we have already mentioned in Book 2—reproduction not by any procedure so mild as cutting or grafting, but by the really drastic method of rubbing the animal through a fine-meshed sieve of finest bolting-silk until it is totally disintegrated into single cells and small cell-groups.

The mere cell-sediment which is first produced begins to organize itself into separate balls and lumps. Finally each lump, provided it is neither too large nor too minute, will organize itself into a miniature animal once more.

Before this power, the fable of the Hydra pales; an organism which can have every vestige of its organization destroyed and whose scattered debris can reorganize itself into hundreds of new and perfect organisms, is indeed hard to destroy.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, June 3.—Beer drinkers who deserted the Yorkville braustuberls to dally with the Hoboken brew have drifted back again and Yorkville is merry with the table tapping of seidels and lilt of German song. The section is in the East Eighties and is wide open.

Yorkville for years has been a German district and, before prohibition, was the home of innumerable workers employed in the various breweries abounding there. With the national drought, Yorkville life seemed to stagnate with melancholy. Entire blocks became vacant store rooms.

Old men and their hausfraus sat about on cheerless front stoops sighing for other days. Then about two years ago came a renaissance. In one block alone there opened a dozen hoffbrau and rathskellers featuring deep drinking mugs, mottoed mats and German dishes.

There were singing waiters, mechanical pianos and song leaders who led patrons in the collective singing of old songs. Broadway flocked there after the play. Then some of the places began to "needle" the beer—a process of injecting ether into prohibition brew.

Those who participated in the merry evening awakened with thumping headaches and accompanying groans. Ach, du lieber! About this time Hoboken, with its wide open saloons, German restaurants and the old time melodrama, made its sweeping bow.

Yorkville once more suffered the pangs of engulfment. Everybody set forth to see the Christopher Morley experiment in Jersey, tank up on a foaming stein and hiss villains in "After Dark, or Neither Maid, Wife nor Widow." Morley and his cohorts were on way to enormous riches.

Then something happened to Hoboken, just as it often happens to pleasure haunts springing up so quickly these days. Revenue officers began to tighten up the merrymaking. Patrol wagons clanged through the streets. So the pendulum swung back. And Yorkville got the beer guzzling crowds again.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

To the aspiring young writer—

You have the urge to write. You read stories of a certain kind and feel confident that you might have written something superior in style and content. That special study of technique is necessary, you can't believe, in your case. Some may have had to go through a hard period of writing and rewriting. But such a possibility as necessary to your success you have not considered.

You think writing a story is having an idea and merely building around it.

Dialogue seems to you to be all that is desired beyond a theme.

One so-called gripping situation you think is all that is needed to make a story.

That stories require a plot, well carried out from start to finish you have not yet appreciated.

Incidents there are in stories, but they don't make plots.

A story is worth nothing—is valueless, without a plot.

A story that appeals to one age only is not worth anything in circulation.
